At Last, We Discover.
Much Law, Little Action.
NRA and Labor.
France Worries, Wisely.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THIS INTELLIGENT country at last discovers that it has a crime wave.

Yesterday Chicago police, heavily armed with machine guns and the proper gas bombs, were reported to have dashed into Southern Wisconsin from Illinois, hoping to catch a band of kidnapers. The United States gave the Chicago men authority to cross from one state to another.

A TRAP had been laid Tuesday night for kidnapers, with a package containing $500. The money was taken to the rendezvous by two policemen in a taxicab. The kidnapers came, asked for the money and escaped, although there were three hundred police waiting to catch them, with an airplane overhead to tell which way they went.

You may wonder why a submachine gun in the hands of a policeman, failed to work. Mayor Kelly, of Chicago, may also wonder.

ONE TROUBLE with this country is that it has too much law-making, not enough ACTION. A British person named Bretherton makes this observation:

"Not the number or excellence of a country's laws, but the extent to which they are obeyed is the real test of a civilization. In the last ten years, the United States has passed over five hundred thousand legislative enactments. In the same period, Great Britain passed seventeen thousand. At the same time fifty murders are committed in the United States for every one committed in Great Britain."

THE VALUE of laws doesn't depend so much on "the extent to which they are obeyed" as on the extent to which they are ENFORCED. Mussolini in Italy has proved that, as Diaz did in Mexico before Mussolini.

Our people, unfortunately, have little respect for laws that do not please them, as shown in prohibition. And some of our officials do not enforce laws, when the law-breakers are able to pay for immunity.

MR. MEDALIE, United States prosecutor, tells Senator Copeland, investigating rackets, that he can name four important political leaders in New York that are controlled by gangsters, and work in co-operation with them.

Racketeers, according to Mr. Medalie, contribute to both of the political parties. The federal government ought to ask Mr. Medalie about his "four leaders."

YESTERDAY stocks "sagged," and "Big Steel" was off, because important steel men, like some other important industrialists, suspect that NRA means putting organized labor in control of everything.

Steel, automobiles and other industries will not agree to that.

WHEAT AND other grains were down, and from that evil good may come. The government having dropped off the gold basis, may be compelled to do something else, and make dollars a little more plentiful.

It would be a mistake to injure the dollar officially, and not do anything about distributing more dollars. Three hundred and sixty million surplus bushels of wheat would be offset, perhaps, by three or four billion extra nice new dollars. The remedy for cheap wheat is more money.

ALWAYS LOGICAL, cautious, careful, is the intelligent French nation. Possessing more than twice as many fighting airplanes as any other nation in the world, it could, with great ease, wipe out any dozen cities within a thousand miles of Paris on any afternoon.

Nevertheless, it worries about its own cities, open to air attack, by Mr. Hitler or anyone else, and worries especially about Metz, important fortress in Alsace-Lorraine.

That town, recently taken back from the Germans, would be one of the first that Mr. Hitler would like to gather in. The great fortress had never been taken until Bismarck got it in the war of 1870, and was therefore called by the Frenchmen La Pucelle.

TODAY METZ'S great walls and bulwarks mean nothing. The French know that the safety of cities depends on what anti-aircraft guns can do from the ground, and they are experimenting.

The question about Metz, now, is not whether some future Bazaine would give up the fort in disgrace, to be sentenced to degredation and death as Marshal Bazaine was.

The question would be how long could Metz, or any of the other old-fashioned fortress, to say nothing of great cities, with their banks, palaces and stock exchanges, outlast bombardment from the air?

THE ENGLISH have already decided, by mimic air raids on London, that it is not possible to defend any city from air attack. The French are uncertain.

If they could find adequate means for city defense against aircraft, we should be obliged to them, inasmuch as we have a government that still refuses to take airplanes seriously.

A DETERMINED person is Mahatma Gandhi, of India. The British know it, and fear him more than all the savage

QUIZ WOMAN IN POISON DEATHS

Suspect Accused by Lawyer Who Confessed Killings Picked Up

International News Service.

AKRON, O., Aug. 17.—A woman said to be the "mystery witness" sought in connection with the "poison picnic" in Arkansas in which four Ohioans lost their lives was picked up by city detectives today and was rushed to police headquarters for questioning.

According to police, Mark H. Shank, Akron attorney, who is under arrest at Hot Springs, Ark., in connection with the deaths of Alvin Colley and three members of his family in a sinister poison plot, charged that the woman, using information given to her by Colley, had attempted to blackmail him.

Colley, a "runner" in Shank's law office, once burglarized the Wayne County Court House to steal evidence that was to have been used at the trial of a man defended by Shank, and the woman knew of the incident, it was charged.

Mrs. Geraldine Shank, attractive wife of the lawyer, today was reported speeding by train to her husband's side.

The unnamed woman, Shank said at Hot Springs, was a friend of Colley's who knew of the fact that Colley had stolen papers from the office of Prosecuting Attorney Lyman R. Critchfield, Jr., at Akron, O. The papers bore on the case of Kenneth Brucher whom Shank was defending against a charge of forgery at Wooster, O.

Shank was quoted as saying that he became panic-stricken when Colley told him that the woman was demanding $400 blackmail money to keep silent.

He decided to make way with the Cooley family, he said, but did not explain why he did not include the so-called blackmailing woman in the wholesale death plan.

Lawyer Rushed to Pen Under Heavy Guard

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 17.—(INS.)—Mark H. Shank, Akron (O.) attorney and confessed poisoner of four, was rushed to the state penitentiary here today under heavy guard. Shank, accompanied by a police escort, was first taken from Hot Springs to Benton, county seat of Saline County, for preliminary hearing, which he waived.

Shank yesterday confessed to police that he had poisoned four members of a family of five because he feared implication in a theft which he said, Alvin Colley, the father, committed.

Shank said in his confession that he was worried over a threat of a woman friend of Colley that she would expose Colley's theft and involve Shank unless paid $400. Shank denied any complicity in the theft which he said consisted of the burglarizing of papers from the office of the Akron prosecuting attorney.

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—The young Crown Prince Michael, who is spending a vacation at Costanza, is suffering from a slight attack of measles and laryngitis.

King Carol also is ill, suffering from a light attack of flu, which made it necessary for him not to participate in celebrations in honor of the Rumanian Navy.

Hoover Begged For Dawes Loan, Couzens Says

DETROIT, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Senator James Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, testifying before the Detroit bank investigating jury, today, said he had been asked by then President Hoover during the last political campaign to issue "for political purposes," a statement approving of the loan of $90,000,000 to the Chicago bank of which Charles G. Dawes was head.

Mr. Hoover, the Senator said, "wanted the statement for political purposes." The request, he said, came in a telephone call from the White House. Couzens declared:

"I said I would be glad to do so if he got an opinion from his Attorney General that I would not be violating the law. All loans had been confidential until about July 15, when a law was passed requiring the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to report to Congress on all loans made in secrecy."

APPROVED LOAN

The Michigan Senator said that while his statement of approval was not formally issued, he did approve the Dawes loan. He said:

"The nation was shocked when it leaked out from some source unknown to me that Dawes, former president of the R. F. C., had got a loan from the R. F. C. of $90,000,000. Of course, the party that was out of power capitalized on that."

Couzens assented to a remark of Prosecutor Harry S. Toy, his questioner, to the effect that "That is what is called politics, is it not?"

Earlier, Senator Couzens, relating the "inside story" of the Michigan banking crisis, informed the investigating jury that although he told then President Hoover he would "denounce from the housetops" a proposed loan of $45,000,000 to a Detroit bank group, it was the federal law governing Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans that really prevented such a grant.

The loan, previous witnesses have told the bank jury, would

SCHNADER RULE ON BONDS GIVEN

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 17.—Attorney General William A. Schnader in a formal opinion today to Dr. William D. Gordon held that banks and trust companies, operating without restrictions, can purchase for investment and accept for mortgages bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation. At the same time Schnader held that building and loan associations cannot invest their funds in these bonds, but may take them in exchange for mortgages.

Banks operating with restrictions cannot purchase these corporation bonds, but are given authority to accept them for mortgage purposes in cases where they are satisfied there will be no loss.

Savings banks are authorized to purchase these bonds for investments or accept them for mortgages, only if authorized to do so by their charters.

In cases where the banking secretary is liquidating banks he is not permitted to invest bank funds in the bonds, but can accept them for mortgages. Courts, however, must approve of the action.

Banks and trust companies cannot purchase these bonds for estates except with approval of the estate.

ROOSEVELT'S HAND IN OIL CODE

U. S. Supervision Of Production, Prices Seen

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Principles to govern oil's NRA code today quickly were determined in a conference around President Roosevelt's desk while industrial officials expressed the desire to float the recovery banner over steel, automobiles and coal.

Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, after a lengthy White House conference, said:

"We reached an agreement for principles on the oil code."

"I think the code will get 100 per cent support from the oil men."

At his office he immediately placed the latest developments before gathered oil chieftains. He saw them for a few minutes and then summoned them for a conference at 4:30 p. m.

ADVANCE COAL PARLEY

Meanwhile, the strenuous Blue Eagle campaign moved up from next Tuesday to tomorrow conferences between recovery officials and bituminous coal operators who submitted codes. It was the administration desire to bring warring bituminous factions under one general code.

A modified code for automobiles, containing for the first time an addition to the Recovery Act's collective bargaining provision for labor, was issued at headquarters preparatory to tomorrow's hearing.

The language stated:

"Employers may continue the open shop policy under which the selection, retention and ad-

400,000 JOBS MADE IN JULY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Secretary Perkins announced today that approximately 400,000 factory workers returned to jobs in July and that the purchasing power of all workers in manufacturing plants had increased about $29,000,000 in weekly wages in July compared with March.

The Labor Secretary, on the basis of reports by her experts, estimated the re-employment of 1,100,000 wage earners in the manufacturing industries between March and July and figured that another 300,000 additional workers went back to their jobs in 16 non-manufacturing industries, excluding railroad and agricultural industries, in the same period.

Analyzing a large batch of figures in a conference with newspapermen, Miss Perkins said the manufacturing industry weekly payrolls increased $7,500,000 in July over June. If the increase was maintained at the present rate, she said, it would add $390,000,000 by December 31 to the payrolls for the year.

Attack on American By Nazi Protested

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—(INS.)—The United States Consulate today lodged a firm protest with the Berlin police because Dr. Daniel A. Mulvihill, of the Long Island (N. Y.) College Hospital, was slugged behind the ear by an unknown man in the uniform of a Nazi storm trooper on Tuesday night.

NRA MEDIATORS IN COKE REGION

By AL GOUGH,
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 17.—The hand of the NRA was felt today in the controversial situation of the southwestern Pennsylvania coal fields.

Elmer F. Andrews, federal recovery representative, and James F. Dewey, United States labor conciliator, arrived from Washington and began an investigation of charges that operators are violating terms of the recent truce agreement.

The two were to hear both men and operators here and also were to make a tour of the mining areas with a view to obtaining first hand information.

MEET UNION MEN

Their first conference was with William Feeney, president of District No. 4, United Mine Workers, and a group of his associates.

One of the complaints of the miners is that the H. C. Frick Coke Company has refused to fully recognize Martin Ryan as checkweighman at Colonial No. 4. Ryan

Kavanaugh, 23, Tops Ticket But Needs 2 More Years

Winner of coveted first place on the Republican mayoralty ballot, James J. Kavanaugh, 23-year-old candidate, is likely to be barred from the primary race because of the city charter age provision.

After the young aspirant had won first place at drawings today in the Bureau of Elections, a secretary from the Mayor's office drew attention to the charter prohibiting any persons under 25 years from holding office. County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern ordered the County Solicitor to make a ruling on the legality of the candidacy and report to Maj. William T. Rees, head of the Elections Bureau.

HERRON THIRD

The first of the major Republican candidates to get a place on the ballot was Mayor John S. Herron, who took third place as Leo G. Karzis was given second, Joseph N. Mackrell, who was the only mayoralty candidate to appear in person as the pills were rolled from a bottle, carried fourth place. Lester Jacobson was fifth with P. J. McArdle, sixth.

John M. Henry's name will head the list of mayoralty candidates on the Democratic ticket. Kavanaugh, also seeking the Democratic nomination, won sec-

Miners Go on Strike, Protest to Johnson

KITTANNING, Pa., Aug. 17.—Three hundred miners employed by the Allegheny River Mining Company at Furnace Run went on strike today and filed protests with Gov. Pinchot and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator.

The men contend the company was deducting 300 pounds for dirt for each car of coal and was not recognizing the checkweighman chosen by the miners.

COLLEGE YOUTH SHARES RELIEF

A schoolboy on vacation, Francis Paul Rodgers, today was enjoying his share of the $300,000 appropriated by Council to make jobs for the unemployed.

Rodgers' father, Paul Rodgers, has a steady job, his sister is a school teacher and Paul himself is considerably short of the 21 years needed to qualify for such Civil Service jobs, but there he is, shoveling out a gutter near his home at 571 Rodgers street, Thirty-first Ward. The ward chairman, C. J. McBride, is credited with recommending young Francis, who works every other week at $4 per day.

When Edward G. Lang, director of public works, was asked why such jobs weren't filled with names taken from the rolls of relief groups, he answered:

"I can't answer that. These appointments are recommended by almost everybody under the sun and have to be approved by the Civil Service Commission."

CITY NEARLY BROKE, SAY PROBERS

'Not Our Fault,' Replies Little to Warning Of Realty Men

The City of Pittsburgh failed to live within its income for the first six months of 1933 and faces a deficit of $2,500,000 for the year, the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board today warned Council.

Not only that, the real estaters pointed out a possibility that the city might be without funds to meet current bills within 60 days.

The board suggests that, to avoid the threat of increased taxes or debt default, Council immediately retrench so that the budget can be balanced.

'NOT OUR FAULT'

But prospects of immediate action by Council were not brightened by Harry A. Little, the president, or Councilman W. Y. English, chairman of the Finance Committee. Little said:

"That's not our fault. The people are not paying taxes. Wait until the summer vacation's over and then see the money come in."

English, who said he did not consider the situation serious, pointed out that the city had "assets" of more than $10,000,000 in deliquent taxes. He added:

"We could sell this property but who would want to do that? From this $10,000,000 or $11,000,000, we would surely derive $2,000,000 or $3,000,000."

The board's report was made by its Community Research Bureau as an analysis of the city's business for the six-month period. The report was signed by R. L. McKallip.

In it Council was reminded that it had promised curtailments and economies, if necessary, at the end of six months.

SHORTAGE IN RECEIPTS

The deficit for the year, as estimated by the board on the basis of the first six months' business, would be attributed to these items:

Shortage in tax receipts, $925,000; shortage in all other receipts, $533,000; amount due Police Pension Fund in December, $165,000; emergency appropriations, $31,250, and the 1932 deficit, which was carried over, $1,345,650.

Deducted from this is an estimated savings in appropriations of $500,000. The board reports that, so far as departmental expenditures are concerned, a $264,000 saving was effected in six months.

But the tax money apparently hasn't been coming in as anticipated. General tax collections are 5.19 per cent lower than last year's. And delinquent tax collections haven't been too encouraging.

The report cites a new source of revenue—$200,000 from beer taxes in six months and $389,000 to date.

Separate Poll Tax Suit Fails in Court

Judge Elder W. Marshall today refused to grant the request of a taxpayer that he be allowed to pay a poll tax without paying the personal property tax.

Allen G. Weil had asked for a writ of mandamus compelling county officials to separate the two taxes. Such separation would enable a person to vote by paying only the one tax.

Lupe, Twirling Pistol, Defies Kidnap Threats

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Lupe Velez, actress, is sleeping with a pistol under her pillow since kidnap threats were made against her adopted daughter, Joan Del Valle Velez.

Her announcement she had sent the adopted daughter to Mexico for safekeeping scarcely 24 hours old, Miss Velez apprised one and all that it's going to be a tough job from now on getting into the Velez home.

Three armed guards—"I'm frightened to death every time I go out."

Her Jewels—"I've locked almost all of them up in a safety deposit vault."

She brandished her pistol as she spoke, twirling the cylinder.

"I'd like them to come in here some time. I'd show them."

Even the man who reads the gas meter is met by a gun when he comes around once a month.

Miss Velez said she had received three extortion notes threatening violence to the child. One demanded $25,000, the other two $15,000.

Hard-Riding Duke Hurt On Merry-Go-Round

International News Service.

PARIS, Aug. 17.—The Duke de la Tremoille, well known in France as an expert horseman, has just left the American Hospital recovered from injuries received when he was thrown by a merry-go-round steed.

An officer of the Chasseurs D'Afrique, crack French cavalry regiment, and well able to handle the most spirited horses, the duke encountered difficulties in riding a wooden horse on carousel in Luna Park, the Coney Island of Paris.

While small children gleefully rode the horses to the accompaniment of mechanical music, the duke fell when his mount suddenly lurched. He was rushed to the hospital with a badly fractured collar bone, and was forced to remain there for more than a week.

FACTOR FEARS FOR LIFE AFTER KIDNAPERS ELUDE TRAP

BLAMES POLICE OFFICIALS FOR 'HORNING IN'

Death Threat Received As Sleuths Scour Wisconsin Towns

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—A heavy guard protected John Factor, millionaire market plunger, today from gang vengeance for his involuntary part in the police effort to entrap his kidnapers—which failed.

Meanwhile, 60 selected Chicago officers, armed with federal commissions to make their search an interstate affair, scoured the Southern Wisconsin resort region—haunt of the Touhy gangsters—for trace of the extortionists who slipped out of their mass dragnet near suburban La Grange Tues-Tuesday.

A death threat telephoned the speculator, who already reportedly has yielded more than $100,000 to kidnapers who seized first his son, Jerome, and then himself, brought the police detail to his door and a bitter complaint from him.

FACTOR FRIGHTENED

He said, referring to the foiled entrapment plans:

"I was reluctant to assist the police. Now that they've failed, I'm left out on a limb, considered by the kidnapers to have broken my word to pay off the balance of the ransom and to shield them."

While Factor, palpably frightened in his hotel apartment by the turn of events after the failure of 300 police aided by airplanes and elaborate planning to nab his kidnapers, protested police "horned in" on the final pay off, the Wisconsin search proceeded without aid from local authorities.

SCOUR RESORT TOWNS

The squads swept through a dozen resort towns spurred by belief their quarries lost at La Grange might seek refuge there and hopes that additional suspects in the kidnapings of William Hamm, Jr., St. Paul brewer, and Charles Urschell, Oklahoma City oil millionaire, might be apprehended.

Hamm has said he was taken by his captors to that territory and federal agents, it was learned, for several weeks have been investigating throughout the region. It has summer homes of many Chicagoans and gangsters have been going there of late with increasing frequency.

Bailey Under Heavy Guard As Sleuths Trail His Gang

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Federal investigators pursued the zig-zag trail of a desperate gang of kidnapers through the Middle West today, while they kept wary vigil here over Harvey Bailey, reputed "brains" of the gang.

Bailey, captured last Saturday at dawn as he slept at a remote farmhouse near Paradise, Tex., where Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma oil millionaire, was kept prisoner until ransomed for $200,000, was watched by many guards in jail lest his pals attempt to rescue him.

Twice yesterday Department of Justice agents and city detectives drove away from the federal building, their motorcars bristling with sub-machine guns and rifles, but they were silent as to their missions.

Fleeing Chicago Kidnapers Reported Headed for Here

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 17.—(INS.)—State and city police throughout Pennsylvania were warned today to be on the watch for two kidnap gang members whose 16-cylinder automobile was reported speeding through Girard early today.

According to police teletype communications, the men are believed to be the ones fleeing from the trap set in Chicago.

No trace of the car has been seen since reported in Girard. The men in the machine are supposed to be heavily armed and carrying a machine gun.

WOMAN LINKS DEATH SUSPECT

RIPLEY, W. Va., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—A statement that Henry Cano, 26, on trial for murder, voluntarily offered to go on the trip that ended in the slaying of Deputy Roy Shamblin and his prisoner, Ralph Harper, was made today by Mrs. Mary James, of Charleston, sister of Leo Frazier, one of the men indicted in the slaying.

Mrs. James testified that Cano, second of three men to be tried for Shamblin's death, told Charles Harper, who yesterday was convicted of murder, that he would join a party to free the latter's brother, Ralph, who was to be taken to prison for a 25-year term. Shamblin and Ralph Harper were killed and Deputy George Dundley wounded in a pistol battle near Kenna July 25.

Harper, whose conviction carries life imprisonment, and Frazier, who is yet to be tried, were in the courthouse again under guard, but were not in the courtroom. Frazier's wife, Louise, who was held under guard with them.

RETAILERS ASK CODE REVISION

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Dissatisfaction with some of the provisions of the retailers' general code was expressed in a telegram sent by the American Retailers' Association to the National Recovery Administration. Continuance of a hearing on the code, scheduled for August 22, was asked.

The telegram sent yesterday and signed by Scott R. De Kims, secretary of the association, says members of the oganization "feel they were not adequately represented in preparation of the code."

It was pointed out that the approximately 5,500 members of the association are operators of general or dry goods stores chiefly in cities with populations of 10,000 or less, and these members, with few exceptions, are not members of associations which appoved the geneal code.

Definite amendments will be suggested, it was stated in the telegram.

LABOR TO JOIN U. S. POLICING NRA CODES

130 Local Unions Back War on Violators, Fagan Says

Attempted evasion of NRA regulations not alone will be checked by the government, but local organized labor plans a voluntary policing system to hunt out cheaters.

Members of 130 various local unions will be behind the plan, according to P. T. Fagan, president of the Pittsburgh Central Labor Union. The plan will be discussed at a meeting of union workers tonight, Fagan said. He added:

"Just as soon as the American Federation of Labor sends out its questionnaire, through its president, William Green, organized labor in this section will become quite active."

PUT ON CAMPAIGN

Fagan also said many of the 130 locals in the Pittsburgh Central Labor Union are putting on strenuous campaigns for collective bargaining.

P. J. Dagnall, business agent of Local 905 of the Engineers' Union, declared today that local labor is well satisfied with a 40-hour week, if it will provide employment for the unemployed, but declared that it will not do so, as far as the building trades are concerned.

He emphasized that city and county contract work should be done by members of the NRA.

Final action on the glass industry code, excepting bottle and window glass manufacturers, was expected to be reached at a meeting today of the American Glassware Manufacturers, Inc. The national group was meeting at the Hotel William Penn. Acceptance of the tentative code prepared by a special committee will be followed by the submission of the regulations to Washington.

A fair living wage provided by a policy of government price fixing was urged in a radio talk last night by Col. Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute.

ABOLISH POVERTY

"In the case of a commodity which a nation requires for its daily life, such as coal, the government might fix a price by law which would include a minimum wage sufficient to enable its miners to live clean, decent and comfortable lives. What other course is possible? We are either going to continue to pay depression money out of capital to a despairing breadline or we are going to pay living wages out of profits to our contented co-workers. Never in the history of America has there been an opportunity so ripe, so rich, for progressive abolishment of poverty."

vancement of employes will be on the basis of individual merit without regard to their affiliation or non-affiliation with any labor or other organization."

Organized labor immediately assailed this provision, contending it violated the law and thatt he law could not be offended by any code.

STEEL PROBLEMS STUDIED

Conferences continued on statistics relating to hours and wages in the steel industry. Johnson and his deputy, Kenneth M. Simpson, were too busy with oil to give steel much time today, but Johnson expressed optimism for an early agreement for the steel industry. He said:

"I think we will have something on that in a day or so."

Hearings were being held on codes for the optical and hats and robes industries and conferences were on at recovery headquarters with boot and shoe representatives. At the Agriculture Department, tobacco interests were working on a code for submission to Johnson.

In accordance with their understanding with President Roosevelt, Ickes and Johnson went to work on the preparation of a written statement of their oil views.

Indications were that strong machinery for federal supervision over prices and production was being written into the oil code by NRA and Interior Department collaborators on the basis of agreement on principles reached at the White House conference.

Steel representatives and Dr. Alexander Sacks, Johnson's statistical expert, continued to work for the third successive day at the Commerce Department on facts and figures governing wages and working hours in steel. Their problem was reconciling figures presented at the steel hearing by Secretary Perkins and those brought to Washington by the big steel companies.

JOHNSON GETS DATA

The results of their work on statistical data will be placed before Johnson to aid him in reaching his decision on the steel code.

Neither Ickes nor Johnson would reveal who would administer the new charter for the oil industry. Ickes is now administrating the attempt of the federal government to regulate the production of oil.

The recovery administrator and Ickes had been caled to the White House by Mr. Roosevelt for a final showdown on the controversial issues involved that have delayed the promulgation of a code for the petroleum industry.

Mr. Roosevelt is anxious for a code to be put into effect for this industry before he departs over the week-end for Hyde Park, N. Y.

Secretary Perkins said she expected the statistical experts working on the steel code would have at least a partial report ready to submit to Johnson.

She repeated a statement of yesterday that the experts from both the steel industry and the NRA's labor advisory board must agree on the number of workers that can be absorbed, differences in labor costs between districts and other items.

She maintained the daily limitation on hours should be fixed at eight, so that additional workers could be absorbed and added she was impressed with the desirability of getting weekly hours down to 32. She said she thought 40 hours was too much. She said:

"One of the important items is to get rid of the residual 12-hour-day where it exists."

She said the rate of pay ought to be based on the amount of goods steel workers should buy to bring up the purchasers' market, but that an absolutely scientific base would be hard to find.

It was understood the administration would make an effort to have coal operators combine their 27 codes into one agreement, with differentials for wages between various districts.

Several groups of the producers have said they wanted separate codes. The Alabama operators said they would not come in under a general code for the industry.

The administration expects to give the operators the results of its study about maximum hours and unfair trade practices, which would be banned by the code.

DIFFER ON PRICES

Practically all the unfair practices were the same in all the 27 codes, and little difficulty was expected in getting the operators together on that phase of the agreement.

The major difference is in selling prices. One group wanted the prices to be based on cost of production plus a reasonable profit. Another major section of the industry asked that prices be kept at a level agreed upon in the district.

Numerous differences over wage differentials also have arisen. Frank Taplin, Cleveland operator, wanted a basic daily underground wage of $5 for his Pittsburgh Terminal mines. The Pittsburgh Coal Company, operating in the same area, set its minimum at $3.84.

The labor clause was also expected to cause trouble. Non-union operators so far have shown no indication of willingness to drop the open shop clause in their code. The union operators want it deleted. Donald Richberg, general counsel for the administration, asked the non-union group to take out the clause at the hearings last week, but they flatly refused.

Some of the nation's largest bituminous coal operators waited, played golf, waited some more, and then went to bed last night without knowing just what Deputy Administrator Simpson wanted to talk to them about.

MEETING POSTPONED

Simpson told the operators he would see them yesterday morning. Tied up with oil and steel affairs, he was unable to get to their hotel. An afternoon conference likewise was postponed. So was a session last night.

The coal men, representing some of the largest interests in the fields reaching from Pennsylvania to Tennessee, guessed that the Deputy Administrator wanted to talk to them about the open shop clause.

Some of them went further and guessed that he would talk about its removal. Donald Richberg, the administration's general counsel, suggested that at last week's hearing.

But all said they weren't sure. All they were sure of was that Simpson wanted to talk to them.

The retail lumber industry opened its hearings on a code which met with disapproval of a minority which argued that it represented "unwarranted interference with the rights of private business."

Clash With Ford Seen On Auto Code

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—A clash between the Recovery Administration and Henry Ford loomed as a strong possibility as the Detroit magnate and his representatives continued to absent themselves from the preliminary conferences on a code for the automobile industry.

In spite of the recent flying trip to Detroit by Johnson—said to have been made for the specific purpose of getting Ford into line—nothing has been heard from Ford so far, and the conferences are being held without him. Johnson has said that if he does not come in under a code he will be "treated like any other" such industrialist.

DOLLAR'S RULE BY ROOSEVELT HITS BANKERS

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—The mysterious movements of Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, now in Maine and reported to be conferring with various members of the New York banking group, excite more speculation than interest in Washington.

It is assumed here that Norman is talking stabilization of the dollar with the bankers. But this question remains in the hands of President Roosevelt, and without governmental co-operation no one sees any possibility of pegging the dollar.

Mr. Roosevelt is no more ready to hitch the dollar to the pound or the franc now than he was last June when his refusal to do so all but broke up the World Economic Conference. Indeed, it was Washington's unwillingness to stabilize that led eventually to the rather dreary demise of the parley.

ROOSEVELT TO ACT

Increased commodity prices on a more or less permanent basis still is the underlying purpose of the President's program. If that can be accomplished without resort to the huge inflationary powers granted Mr. Roosevelt well and good; if it cannot, then he will not hesitate to use those powers. And until it can be seen how much inflation, if any, is needed, talk of stabilizing the dollar in relation to foreign currencies is regarded as idle.

"Wouldn't you like to know?"

Thus far in the development of the National Recovery program, Mr. Roosevelt has not exercised any of the vast inflationary powers given him by the last Congress. In fact, the inflationist school of thought in the administration is grumbling about it, and complaining there is actually many millions less dollars in circulation today than two months ago.

DELAY PROTESTED

The impression strongly obtains, however, that before the snow flies, or anyway by December 1, the administration will put into effect what is described as "modest inflation." Force of economic circumstances, it is held, will compel it. But the inflationists are grumbling about the delay.

Senators Urge Inflation To Check Price Sag

By PAUL C. YATES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17. — A drive to force President Roosevelt's hand on currency inflation was being organized today as a result of the sagging price tendencies shown by wheat, cotton and other major farm commodities.

This drive, still in the incipient stage, had the active support of major figures within the administration and of highly influential Congressional leaders.

A number of prominent industrialists also urged immediate inflation as the only certain method of preventing a disastrous slump in farm commodity prices.

Senator Smith (Dem.), of South Carolina, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, made plans for a joint meeting of his group with the House Agriculture Committee to start the inflation move.

Senator Thomas (Dem.), of Oklahoma, author of the inflation amendment to the federal farm bill repeated his charge that the volume of money in circulation actually has shrunk by $2,000,000,000 since March 4.

Farm belt Senators swung rapidly to the belief that huge crop surpluses cannot be reduced rapidly enough to stabilize prices as "parity" levels this year.

BUSCH TARGET IN EXTORTION

International News Service.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 17.—An extortion plot against one leading citizen and reported plans to kidnap another were investigated by the police here today.

August A. Busch, Jr., millionaire brewery executive, police learned, was to have been the victim. An employe of the Busch Brewery said he received an anonymous letter demanding $9,000 to $15,000 from Busch.

The money was to have been "dropped" at a spot on the North Side. Police were concealed near the "spot" and a dummy package left, but no one claimed it.

Chief of Police Gerk also revealed that a reported plot to kidnap Henri Ghouteau, capitalist, was being investigated. Ghouteau said he knew nothing of it.

War Department Allots River Funds

There will be $590,626 available this year for the operation of locks and dams on the Monongahela River. The War Department today allotted $325,000 for the purpose, in addition to an unexpended balance of $265,626.

TORCH VICTIM FEARED WIFE

International News Service.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 17.—Details of a hectic married life were elicited from Mrs. May Hanson today with her admission that her husband, Earl Hanson, 42-year-old industrial executive, lived in mortal fear of her before he met a flaming death in his automobile.

The widow under questioning admitted that for several years before they became estranged Hanson had slept behind closed doors. She was questioned concerning a report that she had tried to kill Hanson several years ago with a pair of pliers. This she denied.

That the couple's married life was marked by continuous bickering was disclosed by four close friends of the dead man.

Mrs. Hanson continued to maintain her innocence, although she admitted that she made no attempt to help Hanson as he lay writhing on the ground beside her home last Sunday night after he was showered with gasoline and set afire.

7 Boy Coach-Builders Awarded Scholarships

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Seven winners of the third annual Fisher Body Craftsmen Guild contest for youths of 12 to 20 years of age were announced last night during the guild's convention here. Each will be given a $5,000 university scholarship.

They are:

Senior—Carl Gaad, of Spokane, Wash., and Jack W. Wicks, St. Paul.

Junior—E. Stanley Knochel, Baltimore, Md., and Myron Webb, Arkansas City, Kan.

Winners in Canada:

Senior—David Tennent, of London, Ontario, and Joseph Elanson, of Leslie, Saskatchewan, both of whom tied for the senior award and will receive the scholarships.

Junior—Richard Tuthrig, of London, Ontario.

The youths competed for the prizes by constructing a coach model from plans and specifications sent them by the company. Preliminary prizes totaling $85,000 were announced some time ago, at the conclusions of the two preliminary contests.

Raymond F. Sekulski, of Harrisburg, and John W. Stare, of York, Pennsylvania's champion boy coach builders in the $85,000 preliminary competition, are here attending the guild's three-day convention. The local preliminary contest was sponsored by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and the Fisher Body Craftsmen Guild.

Herron Asks Millions For Wharf Work

Mayor John S. Herron, in behalf of the city, today filed formal application for $4,778,862 in federal funds under the recovery program to carry out the proposed downtown river front improvement.

The application was made to Joseph C. Trees, chairman of the Pennsylvania Advisory Board to the Federal Public Works Administration.

Assistant County Solicitor Churchill B. Mehard announced the county will file plans for some of the projects on its program soon.

This followed a statement by Mr. Trees that state, county and municipal authorities should prepare plans for public improvements.

Applications for funds for public works are to be sent to the board's recently appointed engineer, Maj. William H. Gravell, of Philadelphia, who will soon open offices at 323 Capitol Building, Harrisburg.

In a statement, Trees announced that no project will be considered which is a mere makeshift to supply work. He declared:

"Emphatic consideration will be given to the economic desirability of the project and its relation to unemployment and to revival of industry."

Projects which can be started promptly near centers of employment will be preferred, he said.

Priority will be given water works and sewage projects, then to sewage disposal projects large enough to render a river or lake system safe for community water supply, and finally to highways, bridges, tunnels and electric transmission lines, according to Trees.

WOMAN'S SUICIDE ADDS TRAGEDY TO DOCTOR'S MURDER

OFFICE GIRL'S KIN TAKES POISON

Publicity Given Sister In Mystery Blamed For Death

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Another death, an apparent suicide, today added tragedy to the mysterious shooting of Dr. J. I. Gaines, 41-year-old Spokane sportsman and drugless practitioner.

The body of Miss Pauline Pluym, 35, of Los Angeles, whose sister Cathleen was Dr. Gaines' office-girl, was found in the home of her brother-in-law last night. The Coroner said she had poisoned herself.

Police expressed belief publicity given her sister in connection with the investigation of the death of Dr. Gaines may have added to the despondency to which her relatives said she was subject. They said there was no apparent direct connection between the investigation and her death.

Meanwhile authorities held an attractive young woman, whose name they have not revealed, whom Dr. Gaines left scarcely 10 minutes before he was shot dead as he stepped from his automobile at his home early Tuesday morning.

She said he had been at her apartment for the preceding two hours, after spending Monday evening on a boating trip with her 17-year-old sister.

The older of the two young women said she moved into a fashionable apartment, where Gaines visited her "five or six times a week" shortly after she met him three weeks ago and applied for work.

Although Detective Capt. James McCarry said he was convinced neither she nor her sister had any connection with the case, police held her as a material witness "until we make some progress" in the investigation.

POLICE PENSION SLASH UPHELD

Holding that directors of the Police Pension Fund Association have power to raise or reduce pensions at will, Judge James R. Macfarlane today dismissed a suit by John W. McClintock and other members of the association asking that their reduced pensions be restored.

McClintock recited that he and his co-plaintiffs were ex-patrolmen with at least 20 years in the service and had retired in 1932 on pensions on $86 monthly. The rate was cut to $51.60 in July, 1932.

The plaintiffs asserted this was a violation of the association's by-laws. Judge Macfarlane disagreed, but placed the costs of the suit upon the association.

Harrisburg Raid Hits Beer Violations

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—District Attorney Karl E. Richard's drive to bring Harrisburg retailers of 3.2 brew within the law was inaugurated last night by a raid on a downtown bar.

Children in Braddock Carried to Safety; Dog Swept Into Sewer

Turtle Creek Valley was recovering today from torrential rains which lashed the district last night, flooding homes, blocking railroad, street car and motor traffic and causing heavy damages.

In Pittsburgh the rains halted auto and street car traffic.

Five children, one a 3-month-old baby, were rescued from the home of Ruben Poles, in the rear of 621 Corey avenue, Braddock, when water from a clogged sewer flooded the apartment in which they were playing.

Lewis Limbacher, William Lyden and Thomas Lyden, neighbors, smashed a window in the home and waded in water waist deep to carry out the children. Those rescued were Louis Depante, 9; Phimomina Depante, 7; Connie Depante, 3 months; Elinor Cothery, 14, and Florence Cothery, 16.

A dog wandered into a Braddock street during the height of the rain and was swept into a sewer and drowned.

NEWSIES HONOR DEAD PAL

OIL CITY, Pa., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—The newsboys of Oil City said "So long" last night to their pal, James Jack, 16, fatally injured the other day while riding a freight to Pittsburgh to see Babe Ruth play ball.

Pooling their entire profits—just $17—the boys bought a wreath and placed it on the bier where "Jim" is sleeping.

Like all his pals, Jim was a two-fisted admirer of Babe Ruth. He read in the papers he peddled that the New York Yankees would play an exhibition game with the Pittsburgh Pirates on Monday.

Sunday night he hopped a freight. He was jolted from the train and a car wheel passed over his leg. Grave-faced physicians at the hospital said "amputate." But the injury, the operation and the shock proved too much.

SHARK KILLED AT VENTNOR

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Vacationists at seaside resorts along the Long Island and New Jersey shores today scanned the Atlantic with anxious eyes in the wake of a "shark scare" which brought reports of sharks in coastal waters at widely separated points.

At Ventnor, N. J., two coast guardsmen shot and killed one shark after a school was reported sighted near the beach. Bathers were warned out of the water and a police guard was set up to see that beach frequenters took precautions while swimming.

On Long Island, two fishermen encountered a number of sharks off Manhasset Bay and police and coast guards immediately issued a warning to all beaches and estates.

EVICTED WIDOW QUITS JAIL

After two weeks in jail, a homeless 60-year-old widow was freed today on her own recognizance to the care of a social agency.

She is Mrs. Ada Cross, charged with forcible entry of her former home at 4248 Stanley street.

Evicted from the house when a $1,000 mortgage was foreclosed three weeks ago, Mrs. Cross slept among her furniture on the street.

Finally, irritated neighbors broke into the house and moved Mrs. Cross back in. As a result, she was held for court by Alderman Thomas M. Geary. She had no means of furnishing bail.

Hearing of her plight, Attorney Harry Pollock today petitioned Judge Elder W. Marshall that she be released on her own recognizance. In granting the request, Judge Marshall warned her not to return to her home.

'Turn Out Lights' New Postal Campaign

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—A "turn-out-the-lights" campaign was launched today by the Postoffice Department as a contribution to governmental economy.

A weekly checkup by postmasters throughout the country to see that employes are turning off lights not needed was requested by Silliman Evans, fourth assistant postmaster general, in the department's daily bulletin. He also asked that lower power bulbs be substituted where possible and that bulbs and globes be kept clean to give maximum light at minimum cost.

Government Orders Use of Air Mail

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—A bulletin directing the head of every executive agency in the government to use the air mail for all but the most urgent government messages was circulated today by authority of President Roosevelt's executive council.

34,538 in State Get U. S. Beer Permits

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—The Internal Revenue Bureau announced today that 34,538 retail dealers in Pennsylvania had taken federal licenses to sell beer before July 1.

$250,000 HEIR STILL CLOWNS

International News Service.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Aug. 17.—Although he has fallen heir to $250,000 Clayton Thompson, 21-year-old comic of the Ohio River showboat, the Golden Rod, stuck to his job today and continued to clown. He grinned:

"Don't you remember the old saying—'the show must go on?'"

Thompson was bequeathed the $250,000 by his uncle, the late Walter Thompson, of Punxsutawney, Pa. He learned of his fortune during the intermission of a performance at Mingo Junction, near here, but in true trouper style he "bore up well" under the news and carried on with his comic cavorting in the next act.

Graduated last June with a bachelor of arts degree from Carnegie Tech, where he specialized in the study of drama, Thompson has been with the showboat Golden Rod for three summers. He said today that he plans to stick to his job for the present—"at least until I can make more definite plans for the future."

DOPE CHARGE HOLDS BEAUTY

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17.—Charged with the use of narcotics, Helen Lee Worthing, former Follies beauty who gave up a career for love of Dr. Eugene C. Nelson, colored physician, was back in a psychopathic hospital today.

Her marriage to Dr. Nelson had been annulled.

Miss Worthing was adjudged mentally ill a year ago and placed on probation. Officers said today she had violated her parole by use of the narcotics.

Her attorney will plead that Miss Worthing, by her own admission friendless, be given another chance at rehabilitation and committed to a private sanitarium. Miss Worthing said:

"I don't understand who could have complained and have me returned here. I have been trying to get a fresh start by writing short stories."

Prince George Theft Suspect Sentenced

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Carlos Tejerina Fotheringham, a socially prominent Argentine, whom the police accused of stealing Prince George's jewelry when the British Prince visited Buenos Aires in 1931, was sentenced to three years imprisonment today for impersonating another man.

Fotheringham was not prosecuted in 1931 because the Prince intervened after his Scotland Yard bodyguard had recovered cuff links, rings, a tie pin, a watch chain and a cigaret case, the gift of King George, which had been stolen from the Prince.

Lindys in Iceland Continue Flights

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 17—(INS.)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh made plans for further survey flights along the coasts of Iceland during which they will look for landing fields in anticipation of establishment of regular northern route trans-Atlantic air service.

The survey flights will probably continue for a week, after which they plan to return to the United States either aboard the supply ship Jelling or by airplane via Greenland. They do not contemplate flying to England.

It is cooler in the Upper Mississippi Valley and northern plains and northward into Canada with little change in temperature elsewhere. High maximum temperatures have been restricted to the southern and far western states.

TRIPLE SLAYING HOLDS WOMAN

GRUNDY, Va., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Motives for the shooting of three men whose bodies were found in a wrecked car on Knox Creek, near the West Virginia border, are still a mystery to police, although a 39-year-old woman is accused of the slaying.

Justice W. Clyde Dennis, of Buchanan County, spent several hours questioning Matilda Roberts, of Lindsey, W. Va., then issued warrants containing charges against her.

Constables arrested her on a highway near Panther, W. Va., and she admitted being in the car, but denied shooting Deputy Sheriff A. D. Akers, 25, of Princeton, W. Va.; J. Walter Collins, 45, of Tioga, W. Va., and his uncle, Hiley Collins, 78, of Webster County.

Akers and Walter Collins, in the front seat of the car, were shot through the back of the head. The elder Collins also was shot through the head. The car ran off the road, apparently after the driver was slain.

B. L. Dotson, living near the scene, told police he heard shots and screams. The men were not robbed, one of them having $400 sewn in his shirt.

Mercer County officials say they believe a fourth man was in the automobile.

CUBANS RENEW DRIVE ON HATED SECRET POLICE

Return of Exiles to Island May Affect Reconstruction

HAVANA, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—The hunt for hated members of the Porra, ousted President Machado's secret police organization, continued today with the capture after a gun fight of Jose Del Valle.

After an exchange of shots with soldiers, some of whom he wounded, Del Valle attempted to escape over the roofs of buildings near the house in which he was found.

There was particular interest in his capture in view of the fact that he is a brother-in-law of A. B. Ainciart, who was the chief of police under the Machado regime. The whereabouts of Ainciart have not been determined since the collapse of the Machado administration last week.

Cuba awaited today the return from exile of former President Mario G. Menocal and Col. Carlos Mendieta and wondered what part they will play in reconstruction plans of the new provisional government.

Qualified observers professed to see a possibility that the two famous leaders against the overthrown regime of Gerardo Machado might ride back into favor, take an important role in President De Cespedes' administration, and help solve the political and economic issues borne of last week's revolution.

Col. Mendieta, one time Congressman and newspaper editor who first took up arms in 1906 and since has been linked with revolutionary activities, went to Florida on February 18, remarking that "liberty is crushed in Cuba."

Gen. Menocal has been in the United States more than a year, during which time he has directed activities of a revolutionary junta.

Machado Family Seeks Estate Near Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Daniel Crawford, Jr., manager of the hotel at which the family of exiled President Machado, of Cuba, is staying, said today the family expects to settle down in the Philadelphia area, and that they had commissioned him to look for a likely home or estate.

Crawford said Jose Emilio Obregon, millionaire banker and son-in-law of the deposed head of the island republic, had delegated him to look for the home, probably in suburban Wynnewood, Montgomery County, just west of the city.

The hotel man revealed that Obregon plans to remain at the Hotel Pennsylvania where the family retained a suite after their unexpected arrival yesterday, but wants the women and children in the family to be provided with a home.

A third telephone call from the exiled president was received today by his family, who remained in closest seclusion in their hotel, carefully guarded by a cordon of police. He assured them he was well.

ARMADA FLIGHT TO ITALY, PLAN OF U. S. NAVY

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—President Roosevelt may send a fleet of America's crack naval seaplanes across the Atlantic to Italy to return the recent good-will flight of the Italian air armada to this country, it was learned today.

The President, it was revealed, intimated his intention to do so to Gen. Italo Balbo, leader of the Italian fliers, when the latter called at the White House during their visit.

After congratulating Balbo on the feat accomplished by Italy's aerial armada, the President said he hoped it would not be long before American service planes could return the visit.

NEW FAST PLANES

A high ranking naval officer disclosed that machines built on the lines of the new fighting plane which has just been developed for the Navy might be used for the good-will flight to Italy. Secretary of the Navy Swanson announced yesterday this new fighting plane was second to none in the world in speed, endurance and combat qualities.

The naval officer explained that Italian machines used on the recent flight to this country were not perfect for fighting purposes. They were built especially for the spectacular fight to this country and the pontoons were shaped to permit the ships to operate from comparatively calm waters. Their lack of ability to alight or arise during a swell or rough water was regarded by the naval officer as responsible for the two fatal disasters suffered by the armada during its flight.

TWO FATAL CRASHES

The first disaster occurred when the machine crashed on alighting in the harbor at Amsterdam at the commencement of the flight, and the second when a machine turned over in the Azores on the return trip. These accidents cost the lives of two of the Italian fliers.

The Navy officer intimated experts were working on plans which would enable American seaplanes to operate in rough water as well as in calm seas. He declined to disclose whether the new fighting ship was capable of this achievement, pointing out Secretary Swanson had ruled details of the new machine must be kept secret.

However, details of the new machine were obtained from other sources. It is a two-engined monoplane with a cruising speed of 140 miles an hour. Both engines are built in the wings to develop streamlined effects. The machine is equipped to carry four men, the pilot, navigator and two aviators to operate machine-guns and bombing apparatus.

Wife Beater Blames Doctor for Slaps

DENVER, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Testimony that he "beat his wife and child because the doctor told him to" was a novel alibi, Judge A. H. Pickens conceded yesterday, but Glovis Sanchez, 24, got a $10 fine any way.

The judge learned by questioning Sanchez that a physician had told him a slap sometimes helped a baby's breathing.

AMERICAN FINED IN SHIP SLAYING

BREMERHAVEN, Germany, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Charles Manger, of Los Angeles today was sentenced to three months imprisonment on a charge of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of his friend, Karl Werner Heye III, of New York, aboard the liner Bremen July 30.

The sentence, pronounced by a jury which heard the state's attorney ask for a mild verdict because Manger had "proved himself an upstanding man," will not take effect until September 30, 1936, if he pays a fine of 3,000 marks ($960) immediately.

The defendant, in a brief plea to the jury, declared he had no intention of killing his friend. When the judge showed him a photograph of Heye, Manger burst into years.

The wording of the sentence was taken by observers to mean that Manger, a university student, will not be imprisoned at all unless he returns to Germany.

STORE SPREADS FLOOR SPACE

The Joseph Horne Company today announced that after a year's operation of its downstairs store, enlargement of floor space by one-third has been found necessary.

The area used by the downstairs shoe department has been more than doubled, the announcement stated, with an addition of 40 persons to the sales staff and seating capacity for more than 200 customers.

A representative of the store said:

"Our downstairs store has surpassed our expectations in the first year of its operation. It appears to fill a definite need for a large number of people, particularly under present economic conditions, and we are determined that these needs shall be capably and understandingly served to the best of our ability."

RITES FOR MINE SLAYING VICTIM

Funeral services for Frank Joy, 44, of 620 Twelfth street, Pitcairn, found slain in a coal mine near Pitcairn last Monday, were to be held today in St. Michael's Catholic Church, Pitcairn. Burial will be in St. John's Cemetery.

Meanwhile county detectives continue to investigate a mysterious phone call from an unknown woman to the home of John Shoop, of 624 Twelfth avenue, Sunday night.

Shoop told detectives the woman asked for Joy, that he went to the Joy home, and was answered by a man when he returned to the phone with the information that Joy was not at home.

Lincoln Letter Stolen From World Fair

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—A 13-word letter President Lincoln wrote to the Secretary of the Navy was the object of a police search today after Albert Bahlquist, manager of the Wigwam exhibit of the Lincoln group at the World's Fair, reported it stolen from a display case.

The missive was dated February 25, 1865, and said:

"Will the secretary of the Navy please see and hear this Connecticut gentleman?"

An air of mystery was attached to the reported theft, as Bahlquist said the case did not appear to have been forced open.

2 ROBBERS GET 5 TO 10 YEARS

Two robbers were each sentenced from five to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge John P. Egan in Criminal Court today.

Pete Morrison, alias Pete Selbosky, 30, of 147 Glencaldah street, Hazelwood, pleaded guilty to robbing Lewis Morris, of 4911 Second avenue, Hazelwood, last November 28, obtaining only a few dollars.

Elroy Cross, 19, of Elroy, Wis., was convicted of the robbery of McCann's coffee shop, Graeme street, of $33 July 29. Patrolman William C. Moore chased him into a cellar at 10 Market street, and shot him through the arm when he pulled a gun.

TRUCE SOUGHT ON ALL FRONTS IN STRIKES

Associated Press.

Mediators, some of them backed by the NRA, sought today to settle strikes in such widely differing occupations as needlework and fruit picking.

A major industrial conflict tore the eastern garment business at the height of its peak season. Union leaders announced that 60,000 dressmakers in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Pennsylvania answered a strike call yesterday in a fight against "sweatshop conditions."

Police battled with roving pickets in midtown Manhattan today and arrested 15, shattering the orderly ranks of 60,000 strikers in the dress industry as Grover A. Whalen, city NRA chairman, pressed for an immediate truce.

The most spectacular conflict was on the tenth floor of the offices of Baum, Kravat and Baum Company, where a gang of 40 pickets dragged screaming girl operators from their machines.

DYNAMITE HURLED

Strikes in several fruit and vegetable areas of the Pacific Coast occupied the attention of authorities seeking normalcy. The California Packing Corporation announced wages would be increased from 17½ to 25 cents an hour. Strikers at corporation ranches at Atwater and Tuttle, Cal., had demanded 30 cents.

In Philadelphia more than 2,000 hosiery workers paraded yesterday at the Cambria Hosiery Mills, where a strike is in progress, and later announced that the mill had ceased operations.

Several windows in retail stores were smashed and minor disorders occurred in Philadelphia and suburbs today after negotiators again failed to reach an agreement between operators of cleaning and dyeing establishments and striking employes. Two sticks of dynamite with a lighted fuse were thrown yesterday into a yard at the home of Bernard Shotkin, president of a dry cleaning concern, but a policeman on guard there stepped on the fuse.

'SWEATSHOP EVIL'

The International Ladies' Garment Workers Union announced that the dressmakers strike had paralyzed the industry in the area centering around New York. The union described the walkout as "one of the greatest on record in the history of the industry."

The National Dress Manufacturers' Association, a jobbers' organization, has denied as "misleading and erroneous" any statement that "we are denying to labor a satisfactory return." The Connecticut Dress Manufacturers' Association, composed largely of operators whose plants work for jobbers on a contract basis, blamed the jobbers. A representative of the association said that until jobbers pay contractors more, contractors cannot pay workmen more.

Joseph M. Tone, labor commissioner of Connecticut, said he hoped for "complete extermination" of the "sweatshop evil."

Other strikes were in progress in several localities. The National Labor Board at Washington gave attention yesterday to a shirt strike in Pottsville, Pa., a motion picture strike in Hollywood and a labor dispute affecting employes on the New Orleans bridge.

NRA MEDIATORS IN COKE REGION

is serving in that capacity under a temporary arrangement.

OUTLINES PLANS

Asked as to his plans, Andrews, who is labor commissioner of New York, said:

"I am here at the request of Gerard Swope, chairman of the bituminous coal arbitration board of the Recovery Administration, to learn the facts.

"There have been many rumors and complaints reaching Washington concerning the coal fields of this district. I have come into your community to find out exactly what is going on.

"I am going into this situation with an open mind. I know little at this time. I am not familiar either with the miners' problems or the coal industry. But I think I am human enough to see the miners' side and open minded enough to understand the operators' position.

"I believe that by being fair minded we can adjust the situation."

TO VISIT COUNTY

Following his investigation here, Andrews will visit Washington County, and Pittsburgh. There he will consider the strike of 1,100 men at Montour No. 10 of the Pittsburgh Coal Company at Library, where the men charge discrimination against union leaders.

Discharge or suspension of men said to be active in unionizing mines is the chief basis of complaint against the operators.

Andrews arrived in Uniontown early today by automobile as the echoes of a big celebration over recovery in the coal industry of Fayette County were dying out. Thirty thousand persons participated in a parade arranged by Gen. Amos A. Fries, chairman of the national parade committee of the NRA.

LOCKOUT DENIED

J. J. McCune, general superintendent of the Bethlehem Mines Corporation, today denied shutdown of mines in Washington County was due to a contract with southern operators by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

He asserted the shutdown at Marianna, Cokeburg, Ellsworth and Bentleyville was only temporary due to slackening of orders and that all, with the possible exception of Bentleyville, would resume at least part time tomorrow.

Boy Who Survived Poison Cries for 'Mamma'

MALVERN, Ark., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Little Clyde Colley, sole survivor of a poison murder plot that sent his parents and his two brothers to their death in the family automobile on a highway near here yesterday, plied attendants at the Hot Springs County General Hospital today with questions as to when his "mamma" would come to get him.

The last time he saw his mother he said she was "very sick" and he was anxious about her condition.

The blond, blue-eyed little boy, described by Mrs. Fletcher Wynne, hospital superintendent, as "very intelligent" for his three and a half years, was brought to the hospital in a serious condition and was saved from his parents' and brothers' fate by a hurriedly-administered antidote. He is on the way to recovery.

The bodies of his mother and father, Ethel and Albin Colley, and of his brothers, 7 and 11 years old, lay at a morgue here.

SAVED FROM DEATH

First reports said the child had not drunk from the jug's contents, but Mrs. Wynne said when he was brought here, he exhibited the same symptoms as other members of the family and began to turn purple.

Mrs. Wynne disclosed she has received more than a dozen requests to adopt the child and said:

"I am seriously considering adopting him myself. He is such a dear."

The small pair of overalls and little white shirt he was wearing when brought here have been removed in favor of selections Mrs. Wynne made from a sizeable wardrobe a dozen persons sent to the hospital for the child. There were shoes for his bare feet, too.

Mark H. Shank, 44-year-old Akron (O.) lawyer, who purportedly confessed he poisoned Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Colley and their two children, revealed, as did letters found with Colley's luggage, that he had been sending the Colleys money and advising them to "use their heads."

Asked whether his plot contemplated the deaths of the entire Colley family, Shank replied he had not given the matter a thought, thinking only of Colley.

He arrived in Hot Springs Sunday afternoon, spent the night in the same apartment house with the Colleys and on Monday they decided on a motor trip.

Returning to Hot Springs Tuesday they sought a secluded spot in the woods some distance from the highway. There they spread a picnic lunch.

POISONS GRAPE JUICE

While Colley went to a spring for water, Shank said he put the poison in five paper cups containing grape juice. If a surviving child saw him, as the child has related, Shank said he did not know it.

As the Colleys drank from the cups, Shank said he drank from a coffee cup.

Soon one of the children was stricken with pain and began screaming. They decided to leave hurriedly for Malvern to get medical aid.

Down the road some distance the car driven by Colley began weaving. Observing that the poison was affecting Colley, Shank said he leaped from the automobile. He followed it a short distance, then fled into the woods. The car soon left the road and crashed into a fence with Colley dead at the wheel, one of the children also dead, and the mother and another child dying.

6,000 MINERS CALL STRIKE

LANSFORD, Pa., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Their plans for equalization of working time in mines of the Lehigh Navigation Coal Company rejected, unemployed miners at a mass meeting today adopted a resolution calling for a strike at all collieries of the company.

The action followed a demonstration at the company's main office in which leaders said more than 10,000 persons participated, under the watchful eyes of state police and guards armed with tear gas bombs.

Leaders of the unemployed said about 6,000 miners in eight collieries of the company would be affected.

Movie Exhibitors Completing Code

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Charles L. O'Reilly, co-ordinator appointed to help draft a master code for the motion picture industry, announced the exhibitors probably would have their program ready by tonight.

The producers and distributors already have prepared codes covering their phases of the industry. When the exhibitors finish their code it is to be co-ordinated with the others into one master code.

Prize BeautiesBoth Wed, Contest Starts Over

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Cupid's arrows have just about shot to pieces a beauty contest to find a "Miss Philadelphia" who is single.

First, Florence Weiner, 24-year-old hairdresser, was awarded the title, but the judges discovered she was a divorcee, and gave the diadem to Catherine Craig, 18, a waitress, runner-up.

Today the judges discovered that Catherine had eloped more than a year ago. Now they have decided to start the beauty contest all over again.

PINCHOT'S WIFE AIDS DAIRYMEN

International News Service.

MILFORD, Pa., Aug. 17.—Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, crusading wife of Gov. Gifford Pinchot, turned her attention to the dairy farmer today and disclosed plans she hopes will bring Pennsylvania dairymen immediate relief.

The Governor's wife, who gained nationwide notoriety from personal appearances in picket lines and campaigns against sweatshops, already has appealed to federal agricultural authorities. She plans to lead a delegation representing farmers to Washington next Monday for a conference with officials of the Department of Agriculture.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Representatives of several cities that have milk marketing agreements awaiting action warned the farm administration today that unless they are approved quickly the programs may fall through entirely.

HOOVER APPEAL FOR LOAN TOLD

MEETING WITH HOOVER

The Senator, reading from a prepared chronology of events in which he took a prominent part during the bank crisis, described a meeting of R. F. C. officials with Mr. Hoover, Ogden L. Mills, Secretary of the Treasury, and Senators Couzens and Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan, at which the loan was discussed.

He said the application was for $45,000,000, and the R. F. C. had scaled assets offered as valued at $37,700,000. He declared the deposit liability of the Union Guardian Trust Company, for which the loan was sought, was $20,500,000. He said:

"The law says very explicitly that every R. F. C. loan must have 'full and adequate' security. Every federal official having to do with the Detroit banking situation, from the President down, was of the opinion that the security offered by representatives of the Union Guardian was adequate only for a loan up to $37,500,000. The law prohibited loaning more."

The Senator, discussing testimony of a previous witness that Alfred P. Leyburn, then chief bank examiner for the Seventh Federal Reserve District, had said "Couzens alone is opposing the loan," branded the statement "an absolute untruth." He said he was by no means alone in the refusal.

PRESIDENT'S PLEA

He said the President told him at the start of the conference that the "situation in Michigan is very serious." However, he said, none of the officials were favorable to the R. F. C. loan for $45,000,000, although the loan of $37,700,000—as scaled by the R. F. C. directors, had been passed upon in preliminary meetings. He said:

"I told President Hoover that if the loan (for $45,000,000) was allowed on that basis I would denounce it from the housetops!"

Couzens said he offered no objection to the loan of $37,700,000, and declared that "surely that amount would have been sufficient."

EX-WIFE FREED, MAN TO WED

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Paroling of Mrs. Frieda J. Riley from a 10-year sentence imposed for attacking Mrs. Adelaide Doing Storkw, of Miami and Baltimore, was followed by an announcement that her former husband, Bart A. Riley, and Mrs. Stork would marry today. Riley was attacked at the same time as Mrs. Stork, but brought no charges against his wife.

Both Mrs. Stork and Riley have been divorced since the attack. Mrs. Stork was the wife of Clinton Warner Stork, of Miami Beach and Baltimore.

At the time of the attack Riley, an attorney who was acting for Mrs. Stork in divorce proceedings, said he was conferring with his client when his wife, a son, Bernard Riley, and Jimmy Collins, broke into the home and attacked them with "fists, heels and a telephone instrument."

IRAQ MASSACRE STIRS M'DONALD

International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Cutting his vacation short to plunge into affairs of state, Prime Minister MacDonald conferred with important British government department heads today on the Austro-German "back fence war" and the massacre of 300 Assyrians in Iraq.

The Prime Minister began his conference almost immediately after reaching London this morning following a hurried trip from his estate at Lossiemouth, Scotland.

He conferred particularly with Sir Robert Vansittart and Capt. Anthony Eden, permanent and parliamentary under-secretaries of the foreign office on the Austro-German situation, and kept closely informed of events in Iraq, where he was informed approximately 315 Christian Assyrians in the northern part of the country had been massacred in cold blood.

IMPERSONATOR OF POPEYE TO GET PRIZE

When Popeye has a Birthday Party he celebrates in a big way. That's why he is giving a party for the boys and girls of Pittsburgh out at Kennywood Park, Friday, August 25. Old Popeye is going to be there all day in person and will hold a reception for his big and little admirers.

How many juvenile Popeyes are there in Pittsburgh? How many girls who can dress and look like Olive Oyl—Popeye's "sweetie?" Let's find out. Every boy and girl who thinks he or she can impersonate the lovable old ruffian of the Sun-Telegraph comic pages or the demure little lass who figures in the most of his adventures, is invited to come out to Kennywood all dressed for the part and compete for attractive prizes. Judges will be appointed and the best young Popeyes or Olive Oyls will be given rewards. Now, kiddies get busy and see if you can't do even better than the comic strip characters. Popeye, in person, will be one of the judges.

Popeye's Birthday Party is going to be a great day of fun and frolic. All the youngsters need to do to get a strip of eight tickets for the rides and shows is to clip the Popeye coupons from the Sun-Telegraph. Incidentally the Pittsburgh Railways Company is issuing 15-cent round trip passes for Popeye's Birthday Party. List of stations where the coupons can be exchanged for tickets for rides and where the passes can be purchased will be announced in the Sun-Telegraph before the series of coupons has been completed.

Banquet to Be Given For Judge Lencher

A testimonial banquet in honor of Judge Benjamin Lencher will be given by the Congregation Beth Jacobs of Duquesne, Sunday evening. Other guests of honor will be Judge Ralph H. Smith, Mayor James S. Crawford, of Duquesne, and John R. Davies, Jr., president of the Duquesne Trust Company.

Candidate Urges NRA Slacker Ban

Attorney Raymond D. Evans, candidate for a seat on Common Pleas bench, today urged consumers not to patronize retailers who do not have the NRA emblem. He said:

"The best way to punish the slacker in the retail trade is to ask him where his NRA emblem is. If he tells you he has none or does not intend signing the President's code, then walk from his store and patronize those who have done their duty."

Fashion's Best Selling Furs in the Coat Sale

Fashion favors these flatter furs, this season, to acquire Schiaparelli's latest collars, the new yoke effect, top-sleeve trimming, deep collars that fall to the waistline in cape effect or drape into luxurious lines, and in large, gracious collars with Directoire pointed revers.

And the hundreds of women and misses who are, wisely, buying their winter coats now, at Horne's, find excellent selections in superior qualities of these furs, which have already started to steadily climb higher in price. . . . Jap Mink and Kolinsky in full-furred, rich toned grades. And Black Persian Lamb in whole (not pieced) skins, which means greater beauty and longer wear.

Women's and misses' regular sizes, and half sizes for shorter women.

Ribbed Black Silks

In Misses' "First" Fall Frocks

$22.50

The new ribbed silks are reminiscent of the ottomans, bengalines and bombazines of the elegant eighties; but they have a modern, 1933 character all their own. Bias ribs, in semi-crisp silk weaves or sirenish slinky ones.

In this misses' collection we present them in combination with satin, because its highlights give the proper accent to the frocks' big "chin" bows, high scarfed necklines, sheath bodices and slenderly girdled waistlines. And we feature them in black, because it most closely identifies ribbed silks with the Victorian era, and because it is early fall's biggest color.

DRUGGISTS SEE PRICE GAINS IN FALL

Increases in the prices of drugs and chemicals are sure to come this fall, according to drug store executives in Pittsburgh.

The store heads report that it is still possible to buy at the low prices, but with NRA codes increasing payroll costs, this condition will not last long.

FOUNTAIN SUPPLIES UP

Charles G. Judge, president of the May Drug Company:

"Prices are going up all along the line. Everything we buy is costing us more money. Supplies for the soda fountain are a good example. Every housewife knows that foods are higher and we have found it out in serving the fountains. Prices in drugs and chemicals have been creeping up. I would say now is a good time to lay in a supply of standard products. Prices are going to be considerably higher within the next month."

W. J. Hug, secretary Mayflower Drug Stores, Inc.:

"Now is an excellent time to buy. Prices in drug stores are not up to any great degree yet. In order to make it possible to comply with NRA codes, there must be a further price increase. The drug code will probably be acted upon within the next two weeks. In the meantime, it is good business to lay in a supply of necessary articles."

CITES COTTON TAX

C. L. Fink, district manager, the Walgreen Company:

"Prices are up. This is particularly true of electric appliances and all goods containing cotton. The new processing taxes must be paid on cotton first-aid material. Higher wages are certain to advance prices. Now is a good time to purchase supplies."

R. B. Bletz, Pittsburgh manager, Weinberger Drug Company:

"There must be an increase in prices. How much we do not know. The codes are sure to affect prices. It's a good idea to buy now, not only in drugs but in all lines."

H. Diamond, supervisor, Rand Drug Company:

"Prices in the drug trade have gone up in a number of instances. The retailers are trying to hold them down, but are compelled to make some increases due to pressure from the manufacturers. From all indications there will be quite an increase in prices."

W. E. Geary, secretary, Puritan Drug Stores:

"Raw materials are all going up. Manufacturers will add their increased costs within the next 30 days. They can't go on absorbing them forever, and things are going to get higher. Prices are now as low as they will ever be."

Show Girl Drowns In Auto Collision

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 17.—Evelyn Ruth Ray, a Chicago show girl, was drowned in the James River last night when she was thrown from an automobile which had collided with another car on the James River Bridge. Two persons in the other car were reported drowned, although county authorities had not confirmed this report.

Bertram Hodges was driving the car in which Miss Ray was riding. He told the police he was Jimmy Hodges, an actor.

Grand Opening... ENLARGED DOWNSTAIRS Shoe Department

For many weeks we have been busy on this expansion move, which more than DOUBLES the area of our Downstairs Shoe Section. The remarkable public acceptance and the unprecedented growth of this department, less than a year old, is the talk of the country.

Its success is directly traceable to two factors—Service and Values. Well ordered stocks, complete sizes and lasts, and intelligent, helpful service have distinguished it from the first. Along with these have gone recognizable values in footwear of smart style, good taste, and dependable quality.

By its enlargement it becomes one of the largest Downstairs Shoe Stores in America, and will be able to greatly extend its sphere of usefulness. Its seating capacity is more than doubled, and many facilities for improved service are provided . . . to effectively serve the thousands of additional customers who will turn to it this fall and winter for protection against advancing shoe costs.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Health Value of Bulk Food

Man suffers from many ailments. Some of them are the penalty of what we call "civilization." Among such the most common is constipation.

Medical research shows that few adults escape it. When the active period of childhood is passed and the more sedentary habits of age are acquired, elimination becomes sluggish.

Dr. Copeland

Just because it is so common, is no reason why the condition should be taken lightly. It should not be disregarded even though for a time it may seem to be unattended by any serious consequences. If permitted to continue it produces dull headache, loss of appetite and a "run-down" condition. If it is too long neglected, it may be a factor, directly or indirectly, in the onset and progress of really dangerous diseases.

If it has not taken on a stubborn and aggravated form, the failure of elimination can be relieved. The condition is corrected by a diet that provides the fiber or "bulk" required to stimulate the sluggish intestinal tract. Such a diet may keep it functioning properly.

Many of our modern, refined foods provide too little bulk. In the foods he consumed in their natural state, primitive man found it in abundance. A study of the habits and practices of primitive tribes living in the world today, reveals that their members are singularly free from this trouble.

Bulk can be added to the diet by an increased consumption of the leafy, fibrous vegetables or fruits. Another popular source of supply is "commercially prepared bran, the outer coating of the wheat grain."

The addition of about two tablespoons of bran to the daily menu is a safe and effective means of promoting normal elimination. For the great majority of people, particularly in middle life, this will be most helpful. By itself, or in combination with other breakfast foods, it makes a palatable and acceptable dish.

Very young children, sufferers from intestinal obstruction and those who have hypersensitive intestinal tracts, may not tolerate fibrous foods. They will reject it, whether eaten as bran or taken in the form of leafy, fibrous vegetables, or fruits. In such cases the trouble calls for a physician's attention and treatment.

The use of bran is usually regarded merely as a means of providing the system with bulk or fiber, but it is also an excellent source of iron and vitamin B. Iron is needed to build good, red blood and as a preventive against anemia. Since vitamin B aids intestinal tone, it works with the fiber of bran to aid normal elimination.

If bran is well tolerated by your system, you do well to add it to the diet. It is a desirable human food.

QUEBEC LIQUOR CONTROL BEST IN CANADA

This is the second of a series of articles dealing with liquor control systems in the Canadian provinces, and problems likely to arise in the United States after repeal, prepared for Universal Service by Arthur Kent, student of Canadian affairs, formerly associated with the Canadian Social Hygiene Council.

By ARTHUR KENT

(Copyright, 1933, Universal Service, Inc.)

MONTREAL, Quebec, Aug. 17.—The liquor-control system of the province of Quebec is generally acknowledged to be the best in Canada.

The main reason for this is very simple. In this city and province you are encouraged to drink beer and wine rather than hard liquor.

But with French finesse these French-Canadians avoid trying to curb your appetite for hard stuff with "Thou shalt-nots." They simply make it much easier for you to get beer and wine, and then trust to your natural human inclination to follow the line of least resistance.

Let's see what happens when the thirst descends upon a Quebec resident. If he absolutely must have whisky, then he absolutely must go to a government dispensary to get it, for nowhere else in the province can be legally buy it. He doesn't have to go through any red tape, though. He needs no permit. He walks into the liquor store, buys his one bottle (only one allowed) and takes it home with him. Nowhere can he buy a glass of it.

FEW LIQUOR STORES

But there are very few of these liquor stores, and liquor prices are high in Quebec. So to avoid the expense and the probable journey of many blocks, our Quebec friend is likely to forego his taste for hard liquor. It is so much easier to step out to the nearest "tavern," where, seated at a table, he can purchase excellent strong beer for 5 or 10 cents a glass or stein. He doesn't have to take it home with him either, and have his children watch him drink, as the Ontario man is obliged to do.

Or, if he is at home when the thirst comes upon him, it is so much easier to lazily pick up the telephone and order the corner grocer to bring half a dozen or a dozen bottles of the same good strong beer around to him.

In a restaurant he can order his wine or beer, and when having a party—ah, that is when the suave psychologists of the Quebec Liquor Commission comes to his help, saving him from that morning-after feeling.

For when the drinks give out on a party—as drinks so often do—it is so easy to get beer, and so doubly hard (at that time of day) to get liquor! As a consequence, it has become an established Quebec custom to "taper off" party-drinking on beer. And any seasoned tippler who knows his poisons realized what a godsend is such a social custom as that, on the morning after!

BEER PURCHASE EASY

It's so simple, this Quebec system. Stern Ontario drys sneer at it because it enables a man to buy a glass of beer without making him realize he's sinning. But the gentlemen of the Quebec Commission smile Gallic smiles and point to the comparative figures of the two provinces.

Leaving out the dry areas of both provinces (where nothing is sold due to local preference), Quebec's per capita consumption of beer is about four times Ontario's, while her consumption of the far more dangerous hard liquors is only about one-ninth as great!

Ontario has 32 per cent of the population of Canada and consumes 54 per cent of all the spirits that are used in the entire country—despite the fact that most American tourists do their drinking in Quebec. And because beer prices are high, and beer is no easier to get in Ontario than liquor, Ontario had, according to latest available figures, 146,890 of Canada's 193,218 registered home-brewers, permited to brew for family use only.

Because Ontario's strict system thus encourages hard-liquor drinking, drinking in the home, petty bootlegging and petty blind pigs, there is at present a strong agitation in that province for cheaper beer, and beer by the glass.

Drivers Snooze By Police Order In Delaware

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Truck drivers are snoozing along Delaware's highways today, but it's due neither to the depression nor the recovery program.

State police are stopping trucks and, whenever they find the drivers or helpers have been workings more than 16 hours, the troopers compel them to sleep. Confiscation of drivers' licenses for eight hours assures compliance.

The action comes as a result of three fatalities within an hour recently, each blamed on a dozing driver.

FOUR MEN HELD AT FAKE MONEY PLOT HEARING

Penrod J. Spangler, 43, of Upland street; Frank C. Collier, 47, alias Paul Johnson, of Uniontown; David C. Spangler, of Worthington street, and Davis T. Moore, 40, of Uniontown, alleged members of a counterfeit money ring, arrested Friday by United States Secret Service operatives, yesterday were held for action by the federal grand jury, at a hearing before the United States Commissioner.

Mrs. Anna Moore, wife of Davis Moore, and Richard C. Breese were held for a further hearing tomorrow. Chief W. A. Landvoight, of the secret service, testified finding two presses used in printing counterfeit notes buried on Breese's farm near Grove City, together with other articles alleged to have been used in making counterfeit $10 bills.

He testified 90 of the fake bills were found under a carpet in the home of Moore and 140 concealed in a vacuum sweeper in the home of Penrod Spangler. Engraved plates were said to have been found hidden in a barn in Clifton Mills, W. Va.

Bonds for Penrod Spangler and Collier were set at $5,000 each, and for the others $3,000 each.

RULING DELAYED ON RECEIVER

Federal Judge R. M. Gibson, after hearing final arguments on a petition seeking to oust F. N. Hoffstot as one of the three receivers of the Pressed Steel Car Company, reserved decision, allowing counsel for both sides a week to file briefs.

The petitioner, Ernest A. Frey, of Pittsburgh, holder of $5,000 worth of the company's bonds, charged Hoffstot, its president, with mismanagement and having conflicting interests. Frey was represented by his son, Attorney Ernest Frey.

Attorney Maynard Teal, representing Hoffstot, said his client was well qualified as a receiver and that the company under the presidency of Hoffstot has paid $38,000,000 in dividends. Hoffstot has been president since 1909.

The other receivers, Attorney George D. Wick and Walter A. Bonitz, were not involved in the petition.

Zoo Trades 3 Deer To Circus for One Camel

The Highland Park zoo now has two camels. The second was acquired through a deal with the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus in which Marietta, a year-old camel, was traded for three Sika deer.

Marietta was acquired as a companion for Theresa, 18-year-old Liberian camel which has been a part of the zoo for the past 12 years. Marietta was named for Marietta, O., where it was born.

Blasts at Blaze Peril 200 Firemen

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Accompanied by almost a score of explosions which imperiled lives of 200 firemen, flames today swept through the three-story warehouse of the Tousey Varnish Company.

Capt. Samuel Schoenfeld and a company of fire fighters narrowly escaped injury when one terrific blast blew out part of the front wall of the warehouse near which they were standing.

GANDHI KEEPS DEATH FAST

POONA, India, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—The Mahatma Gandhi refused his evening meal last night and thereby initiated a new fast. H. G. Haig, home member of the legislative council, said in that body today.

Haig said Gandhi was informed during the afternoon of certain privileges the Indian government was offering him and that the Nationalist leader indicated at first that he would not fast.

Later, however, the Mahatma informed the jail superintendent he had changed his mind, Haig declared, adding that he could not give further information.

A barrier of secrecy surrounded the little leader in Yeroda Jail today and it was impossible to ascertain whether he had abandoned the death fast, as was announced last night.

Paper Saves Ears Of Boy Pinned On Bridge

OIL CITY, Pa., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—An unidentified urchin, about 6 years old, is nursing a pair of sore ears he might have lost but for the ingenuity of two women and two sheets of stiff paper.

The lad was fishing from a bridge in the center of town and stuck his head through the railing. He was unable to retrieve it without danger of tearing off his listening apparatus.

One woman pedestrian took a letter from her purse and held sheets of paper over his ears while the other woman pulled.

Electric Refrigeration..

Because . . . . not many more days are going to slip by before the "sun" of low prices is going to go down (or UP, as in this case) and then where are you going to be? It's a wise thing to stretch your budget a bit now and get that refrigerator you need. And keeping a weather eye on the electric refrigeration ads which appear in the Sun-Telegraph is a good way to get an eyeful of Low Refrigerator Prices RIGHT NOW!

Variety Show, NRA Talk Broadcast

Thursday night—dialers' delight. In studio lingo tonight's radio schedule includes a "flock of swell shows," mostly musical.

Vallee, Whiteman, the Show Boat, Barlow, Warnow, Wayne King and Robison stage their weekly programs. Capt. Diamond, the Columbia Dramatic Guild and Death Valley Days thrill the drama lovers. And for good measure the networks throw in a special variety program.

* * *

Gala Variety Show

One of the most ambitious variety shows ever staged over the air is put on for the benefit of reforestation camp listeners tonight. With Eddie Dowling as m. c., Jack Denny's and Ernie Holst's orchestras, the Pickens Sisters, Rae Dooley, Harry Hershfield, John Fogarty, Judy and Zeke, and others, the show continues for an hour over KDKA, beginning at 11:30.

Eddie Dowling

* * *

Couzens on NRA

The NRA speaker of the day is Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, who outlines the United States Senate's views on the Recovery Act. He speaks over a CBS-WJAS network at 11:30 p. m.

* * *

Rudy's All-Stars

Rudy Vallee is host to a group of stage, screen and radio headliners tonight, Dorothy Gish, Tom Howard, Bobby Gilbert and Frank Luther are among his guest artists, heard over WCAE at 8. Miss Gish offers a scene from her recent Broadway success "Autumn Crocus."

Charlie Winninger captains his Show Boat over the WCAE waves in Vallee's wake at 9. Laurette Clemmons substituting for Annette Henshaw.

* * *

Music Superb

Wayne King wafts his waltzes over the air via KDKA at 9:30.

Paul Whiteman and Willard Robison compete for the listeners' attention at 10; Whiteman on WCAE, Robison on WJAS.

Gladys Rice, singing with Barlow's Orchestra over WJAS at 10:45, favors the sugary songs of Victor Herbert, Noel Coward and Rudolph Friml.

* * *

For radio drama fans, KDKA presents Capt. Diamond's Adventures at 8.

At 8:30 the Columbia Dramatic Guild enact the mystery and horror of Poe's "Mask of the Red Death," over WJAS.

Death Valley Days, heard over KDKA at 9, features the story of a debutante who turned gold digger, literally. She deserted society for a mine in the desert.

* * *

Huston Ray and his orchestra replace Jack Pettis over KDKA from today on. They are heard at 11:20 tonight.

Golfers hear a nineteenth hole story tonight when Ted Husing dramatizes Bobby Jones' 1930 National Open championship triumph, over WJAS at 10:30.

Sack Murder Victim Found in New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Shot several times, wrapped in a blanket and stuffed in a burlap bag, the body of a man was found today in a roadway in Astoria, Queens.

Police tentatively identified the body as that of James Palermo, a chauffeur, 30, of Manhattan.

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

The Weston Sisters have included two old favorites in their 7:30 program.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Many of the beauty operators have been writing in to find out just how the NRA code applies to their profession. A recent inquiry came from Hilda Coldner, Turtle Creek. As yet no code has been accepted. One is being prepared for submission. Tuesday's paper said it codes permanent waves at $7.50, finger waves at 65 cents and manicures at 60 cents.

* * *

What about the domestic? I can't answer that question. House servants do not fall within the scope of the American Federation of Labor and they have no organization of their own. Perhaps when economic conditions as a whole improve, more of the feminine sex will find gainful occupation in the commercial world, reducing competition for the domestics, who then will naturally benefit under the law of supply and demand.

* * *

A touching letter from Mrs. C. L., of Aspinwall, asks about old age pensions. She is past 70 and making her home with her children, who are barely able to get along themselves. It's tough to have to report to her that the legislation was blocked during the last session of the Legislature and now can't be a law for five years, unless it is specially referred to the people in the next election, and it will take a special session of the Legislature to do that.

* * *

Mrs. Dolores M.—Don't worry. The Sheriff won't sell your property because your taxes are delinquent two years. The Home Owners Loan will lend for back taxes, but won't advance cash. Their primary function is to save homes. They grant no relief for property other than that in which you live.

'Mother-In-Law' Drama Portrays Three Types

"Mother-in-Law," human and humorous radio drama, is heard over six nearby stations today and tomorrow.

Adapted from a story in next Sunday's American Weekly, big feature magazine distributed with the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, the dramatization pictures three types of mothers-in-law.

The radio dramatization is presented today over WFBG, Altoona, at 3 p. m., and tomorrow over WSAZ, Huntington, W. Va., 1:30 p. m.; WHBC, Canton, O., 2 p. m.; WKBN, Youngstown, O., 4 p. m.; WALR, Zanesville, O., 5 p. m., and WJAC, Johnstown, 5:15 p. m.

COHAN WRITES 'NEW DEAL' SONG FOR RADIO

By AIRCASTER

George M. Cohan, who jazzed up the A. E. F. with his stirring war song, "Over There," rises to the nation's salvation again with a "New Deal" song.

Herbert Hoover once remarked to Rudy Vallee that a catchy ditty might coax prosperity from just around the corner. But lady buntiful turned a deaf ear on Rudy's tune.

Now Cohan steps front and center at the command of NRA officials and sets the Recovery Act to words and music. He calls it "The Grand Old National Game." He sings his new national anthem during his oil program debut next Sunday night.

Winchell Returning

His witty, weekly monologue, running for 15 minutes at a stretch, will be heard via the NBC-WJZ keyholes at 9:30 Sunday p. m.'s.

Olsen Gag

It was just after his broadcast the other night, and George Olsen was leaving the NBC studio. A very big cop was standing at attention in the corridor, and as Olsen, teeth gleaming, grinned at him, the officer saluted solemnly and in a grandiose manner announced:

"My lord, your car awaits without!"

"Without what?"

"Without parking lights."

GAMES ON SHIP TO ENLIVEN CRUISES

Diversion on board the big cost-wise steamships of the Merchants and Miners Line, sailing out of Baltimore, will be a big attraction for the four winners of the Sun-Telegraph "Contest Cruises"—two to Florida and two to Boston. There will be plenty of salt-laden breezes and plenty of the joy of getting sun-tan on the decks of the steamers.

These ships are scenes of delightful gaiety from the time they leave Baltimore, and these cruises offer vacations of rare pleasure. There are bridge tournaments, deck games and entertainment parties, keeping the tourists in good humor throughout the entire cruise. The Florida cruise runs for 12 days—the Boston cruise for a full week.

Florida at this time of the year offers rare scenic beauty and many cities and towns of historic significance are scheduled for a visit. Boston and vicinity is famous for historic spots of Revolutionary fame.

If you did not get into the "Contest Cruises" at the start, it is not too late to enter. Back copies of the Sun-Telegraph of all the contest questions that have gone before are still available.

Former Bulgarian Premier Bombed

Zankoff escaped a bomb hurled by the would-be assassins, but one of his guards was killed.

Cruise Contest Rules

Here are the easy rules for the Sun-Telegraph "Contest Cruises":

Answer all 20 questions. There will be two questions every day in the daily Sun-Telegraph for 10 days beginning August 10 and closing August 21.

Write a letter of not more than 50 words telling why you need a vacation this summer.

Send answers and letter to the Cruise Contest Editor of the Sun-Telegraph. Four winners will be selected, two for each cruise. Correctness of answers and cleverness of letters will be considered in selecting winners. Judges' decision will be final. No entries will be returned. All entries must be in not later than August 25. Winners will be announced as quickly as possible after that date. In the event of tie, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

The two entrants submitting the most nearly correct sets of answers, accompanied by the most convincing letters, will be awarded 10-day cruises to Florida, all expenses paid. The next two most nearly correct sets of answers accompanied by the most convincing letters will be awarded 7-day cruises to Boston, expenses paid.

Entrants must be over 16 years of age. Employes of the Sun-Telegraph or their families, or employes of radio station WCAE, are not eligible to participate in the "Contest Cruises."

FOREST CAMP TO GET FLAG

The National Colors will be presented to the reforestation camp in Wildwood this evening by the Reserve Officers' Association of Pittsburgh. At the same time the camp will be formally named Camp McGovern, in honor of Col. Charles C. McGovern, chairman of the Allegheny County Commissioners.

Appropriate exercises will be held for the flag raising ceremony. Col. H. L. Landers, chief of staff, Ninety-ninth Division, and Col. McGovern will make short addresses. A dance will be held for the Civilian Conservation Corps' members after the exercises, which will start at 7:30.

MISSOURI VOTE ON REPEAL NEAR

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Wet leaders, who listed the Governor among supporters of their cause, were confident today Missouri would become No. 22 in the repeal column by a decisive, although light vote Saturday.

Gov. Guy B. Park expressed belief repeal would win 3 to 1. In this he was joined by Joseph T. Davis, chairman of the state's United Repeal Council, who predicted after a canvass the total vote would run less than 500,000, compared with the election vote last November of nearly 1,500,000. Davis said:

"In almost every section of the state there is apathy on the part of the voters, but nowhere have we found anything to indicate other than preponderant repeal sentiment."

The drys, fighting shy of predictions, have resorted unsuccessfully to the courts, in an effort to block the election, contending the machinery for it was illegal.

Gettysburg Man Held in Murder

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—A man who gave his name as Leo Darr, 39, of Gettysburg, Pa., was held today for questioning in connection with the slaying of Miss Anna Ulm, 45, whose body was found in a thicket near Dover.

Darr was arrested in Westmont, near Camden, and Lawrence Doran, chief of Camden County detectives, said the suspect was held because he answered the description of a vagrant sought in the Ulm case.

PINCHOT RAPS BALDWIN STAND ON NRA FIRMS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—The fight between Gov. Pinchot and Republican organization state officials took a new tack today as Pinchot charged that Auditor General Frank E. Baldwin, by refusing to limit state purchases to NRA firms, is preventing Pennsylvania from supporting the National Recovery program.

The Auditor General's department yesterday informed Pinchot that legal technicalities prevent the limitation of state contracts to firms flying the Blue Eagle.

Today the Governor said he does not know whether Baldwin is "bluffing," but has decided to give him a chance to "make his bluff good."

NRA REQUIRED

Pinchot added that he is requiring all contracts to include statements to show whether bidders and contractors are NRA members in good standing.

The Governor said:

"The Auditor General's department is attempting to prevent the State of Pennsylvania from limiting its purchases and contracts to those firms only which are flying the NRA Blue Eagle and thus getting behind the President.

"Notice to that effect was served yesterday. Whether this is a bluff or not I do not know, but the Auditor General will certainly have a chance to make his bluff good."

In the new dispute, Pinchot and Baldwin continue sharp differences which were recently fanned by charges and counter charges on state relief policies. Baldwin charged Pinchot is using the state unemployment relief machinery to build up a political organization; Pinchot said Baldwin was urging sharp cuts in funds for the jobless while he "wasted" state money on expensive automobiles.

Patrolman Killed In $200,000 Blaze

STONINGTON, Conn., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—One death resulted today from a fire which destroyed the palatial clubhouse of the Stonington Country Club last night with a loss estimated by firemen at $200,000.

Amos Nugent, 49, a special patrolman, died at the Westerly, (R. I.), Hospital. He was crushed by a falling chimney.

Heiress Fears Gang, Frightens Salesman

ST. CHARLES, Ill., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Mrs. Lester J. Norris, heiress of the John W. Gates millions, had a bad night ride from Chicago to her home here. Fearful of kidnap attempts against her children, she finally stopped at Elmhurst and telephoned on that another car seemed to be seeking to overtake her. St. Charles police stopped the other machine and learned its driver, a salesman from Morris, Ill., had thought from the way the Norris car was being driven gangsters were attempting to waylay him.

WE DO OUR PART

We're Doing Our Part To Help You SAVE

YOU HAVE been reading and hearing about higher prices. As a matter of fact, they are an important part of the N.R.A. program for industrial recovery. With prices advancing at the mills, due to higher wages and increased costs of raw materials, it is only a matter of time until most retail prices must be advanced.

We believe it wise at this time for you to stop and consider your future needs. Does your home need a new rug or curtains? What will the children need for school? How about apparel for the grown-ups? You have still time to buy all your needs for Fall and Winter and profit by your foresight. We are listing but a few examples typical of present August values all over the the store—none of which can be replaced at these prices. You'll be glad we told you to BUY in AUGUST!

FLORIST FACES MURDER CHARGE

PASADENA, Cal., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Harold Wolcott, florist accused of murder, today mapped his defense for his preliminary hearing August 24 at which he will be asked to answer for the death of his sweetheart, Helen Bendowski, blonde beauty shop operator.

A charge of murder in the first degree was filed against Wolcott yesterday by the District Attorney's office after a Coroner's inquest at which he was pictured as having solicited the support of his friend, Maynard Miedema, former policeman, in accounting for the woman's death by a bullet wound.

He wept when a verdict was returned that Miss Bendowski had died near his penthouse apartment early Sunday morning at the hand of an unknown person who had homicidal intent.

The inquest developed testimony by Miedema's companion, Mrs. Zelda Smith, that the four had been on a drinking party and that, after Wolcott had left the room and she had heard a shot, the florist had pleaded with Miedema to "stand by me."

Wolcott had contended throughout Miss Bendowski shot himself.

AVIATOR FLIES TO ILL MOTHER

AKRON, O., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—R. B. Trader, Pittsburgh aviator, landed his ship in a school yard yesterday, completing a rush trip to the bedside of his mother, Mrs. E. N. Trader, who is seriously ill.

Trader wanted to reach his mother's home as quickly as possible, so he came down on the school grounds, which not far away, instead of landing at the airport and driving home.

He said he made an easy landing.

Child Nudist 'Cult' Doesn't Worry Officials

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—A two-boy nudist colony is flourishing here and, if city authorities' attitudes are unchanged, it may not be suppressed until snow flies.

Inspector A. C. White, of the Health Department, found the youngsters, aged 7 and 8, had been playing around all summer. He passed the case to Public Safety Commissioner A. C. Colburn, who said:

"I've got more important business than running after naked kids. Looks to me like a job for the Health Department."

Health Commissioner Ralph Hendrick investigated. Said he:

DRYS ATTACKED BY MRS. MILLER

LIGONIER, Pa., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—In an address today at a Roosevelt picnic at Idlewild Park, Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, Democratic national committeewoman from Pennsylvania, launched a scathing attack on prohibition forces.

Mrs. Miller said that for more than a dozen years the country has lived under the domination of a small group known as the Anti-Saloon League. She said:

"Many years ago these men found there was a fat living to be had by advocating federal prohibition through the schools and churches or any other place where a collection might be taken up.

"By questionable methods, hypocritical dealings and false representation they succeeded in putting the Eighteenth Amendment into the constitution."

She urged voters at the November election to break the "Mellon-Grundy stranglehold" on Pennsylvania, to vote to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment, and as Pennsylvania chairman of the women's division, NRA volunteers called upon women to "expose the cheaters and patronize only the true upholders of the Blue Eagle."

BANDIT, WIFE SHOT BY POSSE

BENTONVILLE, Ark., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Gene Johnson, believed by officers here to be a confederate of the Wilbur Underhill gang of escaped Kansas Penitentiary desperadoes, was critically wounded and his wife suffered minor wounds today in in a gunfight with a possee of officers in the hills southwest of Bentonville.

Johnson was not among the 11 convicts who escaped from the Kansas Penitentiary Memorial Day under the leadership of Underhill and Harvey Bailey, held at Dallas, Tex., for the Union Station massacre in Kansas City and the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil man.

Sheriff Dee Waters, of Ottawa today's posse, said Glenn Wright, wanted for the murder last spring of an automobile convoy driver at Picher, Okla., was sighted and believed wounded also. Wright was not captured, however.

GANG SLAYING LAID TO LOVE

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Four hours after killing one youth and seriously wounding another today, "Sunny Jim" Kolasinski, 30, a druggist, was in custody and had confessed to the cold, deliberate killing.

The victims were Walter Gayle, 22, who is dead, and Edward Jaroslowski, 21, who lies critically wounded in a hospital.

Gayle and Jaros were sitting on the curbing at Damen avenue and Charleston street when an automobile sped by and from it poured a volley of pistol shots. Both youths rolled over in the gutter and the car sped on. Gayle was killed outright.

Police expressed the opinion that a love affair prompted the shooting because of a telegram found in the dead youth's pocket. The telegram was signed "Bernice" and it read:

"Plans are all off for tonight. Mother saw us together. Will call you during week."

Duquesne Gun-toter Gets Year in Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Edward Kacala, of 56 Mill street, Duquesne, Pa., and Edward Ellis-ton, of Chicago, both 21, were sentenced to one year's imprisonment and fined $300 and costs yesterday on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

4 Girl Fugitives Returned to Jailers

Four girls who escaped from the state institution at Polk, Pa., were returned there today.

They "departed" from Polk last Saturday, hitch-hiking to Homestead, where they have been living with a relative of one of the girls, according to the police.

COAL PRICES ARE GOING UP!

but GAS HEATING COSTS ARE LOWER

THE recent advance in the price of coal only emphasizes the dollars and cents wisdom of heating your home with Natural Gas. Natural Gas is a clean modern fuel, high in efficiency and low in cost. Unlike other fuels, it is stable in price, and you pay for it after you use it and not before.

The cost of heating with Natural Gas has been substantially reduced, due to the low gas rates now in effect. And for this low cost you get cleanliness, convenience and completely automatic operation impossible with bulky, smoky, old-fashioned fuels. Furthermore, when you heat with gas you get, automatically, a constant even temperature that safeguards the health of all the family.

Coal prices are going up. Gas rates are low. Plan to heat your home this winter with Natural Gas. And find out now how little it will cost. Get in touch with your Gas Company, or heating contractor, for a free estimate of the cost of gas heat for your home. Or send in the coupon below. Do it now.

FREE OFFER

Your Gas Company will give you, free of charge, an accurate estimate of the cost of Automatic Gas Heat for your home. Send in the coupon today.

Your Gas Company will be glad to supply you or your heating contractor—without cost—with reliable engineering data on your present or contemplated gas heating installation.

WOMAN DOCTOR DENIED BAIL

CLEVELAND, Miss., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Shortly after Chancery Court refused a petition for bail for Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean here yesterday, it was learned an autopsy performed by W. F. Hand, state chemist, had revealed mercurial poison in the viscera of John Preston Kennedy, Greenwood surgeon, whose body was secretly disinterred last week.

Dr. Dean has been charged with poisoning Dr. Kennedy with a whisky highball which he said in a deathbed statement he drank while with her in Greenwood. The surgeon had planned to remarry his divorced wife.

Resting her head against a large white pillow, Dr. Dean sat in court here yesterday and heard Chancellor R. E. Jackson deny her petition for release under bail pending a preliminary hearing.

The "bachelor girl," who never "dated" boys during her school days and who had led a secluded social life since returning, several years ago, to Greenwood, where she specialized in children's and women's diseases, had sought bail on the grounds that her jail confinement was breaking her health.

2 PEDESTRIANS HIT BY AUTOS

Suffering a possible fracture of the skull when struck by an automobile near his home last night, Louis Spada, 58, of 2160 Wylie avenue, was in Passavant Hospital today. Edgar Taylor, 38, of Apollo, the driver, was arrested.

Joseph Lynd, 36, of 323 Main street, was injured when struck by an automobile at Penn avenue and Nineteenth street yesterday. He was taken to St. Francis Hospital.

Robert Geier, 6, of Tecumseh street, suffered a probable fracture of the skull when he fell from the rear of a bakery truck in Lytle street.

Lois Warnock, 5, of 5020 Brown way, was recovering in West Penn Hospital today from injuries suffered yesterday when she was struck by an automobile at Winebiddle avenue and Brown way.

An automobile overturned on Bigelow boulevard, near Kirkpatrick street, late yesterday, injuring Mola Grant, 28, of 315 Dinwiddie street. She was treated at West Penn Hospital.

SAFE LOOTED, GETS 2 YEARS

Convicted of stealing $1,280 from the safe of the Wilbur Rodgers dress shop, 314 Fifth avenue, where he was a porter, Neville Banks, a Negro, 20, of 7030 Monticello street, was sentenced to two years in the workhouse by Judge J. P. Egan today.

Banks testified that he had seen a memorandum of the safe combination thrown into a waste basket. He recovered it. Then he borrowed the store key, had a duplicate made, and last Memorial day entered the store. After he had looted the safe he fled to Washington, but returned here when the money had been spent, and was arrested.

Trick Auto Tag Open Season Ends Sept. 15

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17.—The open season for motorists seeking those trick license numbers they like so well ends September 15.

Gov. Pinchot set the deadline today, asserting all requests, in writing, must be received at his office by that time.

Adding that personal visits to the executive offices will be "pointless," the Governor said the September date "is absolute and final." He declared:

"Each fall the important work of my office has suffered because of the thousands upon thousands of requests for special licenses which have flooded in from September right through January. This must not happen again."

BOY FUGITIVE NOT WANTED

International News Service.

MONROE, Mich., Aug. 17.—Kentucky today refused to claim custody of Heath Greer, 19, fugitive, who seven years ago gained nation-wide attention as the youngest boy convicted of murder.

Chief of Police Zeno Rothdow, however, refused to release the mountain youth pending further word from Kentucky as relatives disclosed he has lived in this vicinity more than a year of the three years since he escaped from a Kentucky reform school.

Greer was arrested as a suspect in gasoline thefts in this vicinity and yesterday was identified as the Kentucky murder fugitive. Chief Rothdow immediately communicated with Supt. G. C. Hardin, head of the reform school, and corroborative identity was received from Hardin with the request the youth be held.

Four hours later came a contradictory order from Hardin saying:

"Heath Greer is not wanted by this institution and for this reason we will be unable to send for him."

HUTTON DENIES NEW SWEETIE

International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—Seen in a smart night club here with Mrs. Kitty Chapman, a vivacious brunette divorcee, Dave Hutton, who is suing Aimee Semple McPherson, blonde evangelist, for divorce, was asked today if he had a new sweetie. He said:

"New sweetie? I haven't any new sweetie. I hardly go anywhere. I'm not taking any chances, you know I'm still a married man.

"Oh, Mrs. Chapman! I only met her once. A musician at the theater here where I'm singing introduced me. Why, I didn't even know her first name until just now."

Mrs. Chapman said:

"Dave is a nice boy, but I do not care to discuss our friendship, so please say nothing about it."

U. S. Worker Here Quits After 39 Years

After 39 years in the government service, William Ragsdale, of West View, retires Saturday. Since 1909 he has been director of naturalization in the tri-state territory and has personally supervised the naturalization of 100,000 persons.

Mr. Ragsdale, who retires because of age, will be 70 in December.

POLITICS

Herron and Slate Open Campaign Tonight

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Mayor John S. Herron and his slate of "regular" Republicans will formally open their speaking campaign for the primary in a meeting at North Side Carnegie Hall tonight. The Mayor, his five councilmanic candidates, W. Y. English, C. B. Connelley, Harry A. Little, George S. Oliver and Frank Duggan; Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar, and John Schrader, candidate for the suddenly and mysteriously desirable post of Jury Commissioner, will be on the platform, and and most of them will make speeches.

Mr. Shields

It is more than likely that some judicial candidates will be present, though the organization has as yet made no indorsements for the bench.

This, in the opinion of the Mayor's managers, will be a big meeting. They want to see that things start off with a bang in an effort to overawe some of the opposition. They are figuring that with six days remaining in which candidates may withdraw they may be able to narrow the field of opposition.

* * *

Built to Order For Organization

That is their public position. As a matter of fact they do not wish the field dwindled for any of the contested offices, as the existing division of anti-administration sentiment is built to order for the organization.

Behind the scenes tonight there will be something interesting in the way of politics, revolving principally around the position of Dr. F. H. Frederick, at one time so powerful politically on the North Side that he was known as the "chairman of ward chairmen."

There was much speculation as to the attitude of Dr. Frederick as to the three contenders for the Republican nomination until a few days ago, when his name appeared as one of the Herron Committee of One Hundred. That placed him with the Mayor and against Councilman McArdle and Register of Wills Mackrell.

* * *

Frederick Indorsement May Not Include Council

To drive that position home, Dr. Frederick has been scheduled to preside at the opening of tonight's meeting. His presence as temporary chairman of a meeting among his own people is desired strongly by the Herron backers. However, the health of Dr. Frederick may prevent him from appearing.

In that event he will send a letter indorsing Mr. Herron.

So far, so good.

But it is significant that his indorsement may not extend to the Council slate, and that is one of the chief political interests touching the position of Dr. Frederick. It is reported that he and many other North Side leaders do not approve the slate as a whole, and that the feeling is particularly cool toward Councilman Little and Connelley.

* * *

Matching Confusion With Confusion Cheers Mayor

Certainly there will be much political comment should Dr. Frederick refrain from a complete indorsement, as there is every indication he will. It will be another evidence that the regular organization has not cohesive strength for a full ticket, and that "orders" cannot be given to be obeyed as freely as they once could.

This lack of cohesion would be great business for the anti-administration groups were they not also suffering a sad lack of unity in their attack on Mr. Herron and his running mates. The matching of confusion with confusion is a cheering note for the Mayor and his Council slate, particularly the latter.

What is true of Dr. Frederick and some of his associates on the North Side is true elsewhere in the city, intensified by the entry of William A. Magee and James F. Malone in the Council fight, attached to the banner of no mayoralty candidate.

* * *

Trouble Over Slate On South Side, Too

There is some trouble over the slate on the South Side as well as over the Allegheny, with wards in which one or more of the slate will be given but scant attention while some one running as an independent or affiliated with other slates will get the preference.

The Mackrell slate has two North Side councilmanic candidates, one of whom, Hugh McKnight, was backed by the organization for national delegate last year.

The McArdle slate has one North Sider. It also has one resident of the South Side, while the Mackrell ticket has none from that region.

These rifts will be deprecated as much as possible in tonight's meeting, and attention, instead, will be directed toward the general enthusiasm to be engendered.

It should be a big meeting, and city employes will not be barred at the door.

Ziefel, Ill in Ohio, Shows Improvement

ELIZABETH IZBRAND — MRS. AGNES SEVER

The friend and 17-year-old daughter of Mrs. Anna Izbrand, found dead on a couch in her home at 204 Fifty-fourth street. Louis Carricato, of Sharpsburg, is being held while detectives investigate the story of a jealous quarrel said to have followed a birthday party Mrs. Izbrand attended with Mrs. Sever. Carricato denied striking Mrs. Izbrand. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

DENIES KILLING AT PARTY

Louis Carricato, 35, of Sharpsburg, denied in Morals Court today that he had struck the blows believed to have caused the death of Mrs. Anna Izbrand, 33, found dead in her home at 204 Fifty-fourth street.

Carricato denied, too, that Mrs. Izbrand was his sweetheart. He said his wife was his sweetheart.

The police quoted witnesses as saying that Carricato had struck Mrs. Izbrand after a party at the home of her brother, Patrick Sipper, near Verona.

But later today, after questioning witnesses, Lieut. Frank Ferris said he believed she had received her injuries in a fall in her home.

Mrs. Izbrand was found dead on a couch by her daughter, Elizabeth.

JOBLESS MAN'S LEAP FOILED

If he ever sees them again, Harry Finler, 58, is going to punch a pair of pedestrians in the jaw, he told police early today.

The pair said they had forcibly saved him from jumping off the Ninth Street Bridge.

Seizing him as he mounted the rail, they said, they led him to a patrolman at Penn avenue and Ninth street, and disappeared.

Finler, who gave his address as 1132 Penn avenue, according to the patrolman said he was discouraged over losing his job. He was held on a disorderly conduct charge.

SEVILLE, Spain, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the American President, arrived here yesterday on his European vacation trip. He is the guest of the American consul.

URGES UNSAFE HOUSES RAZED

Dozens of houses in Pittsburgh are classified by the Pittsburgh Housing Association as unsafe, according to John Ihlder, executive director.

The condition of these dwellings has been reported to the City Bureau of Building Inspection in many instances without result, Ihlder reports.

H. L. Ley, superintendent of the Bureau of Building Inspection, today said a number of unsafe houses have been demolished this year, but progress is slow because of legal complications.

Many of the houses complained of by the Housing Association are unoccupied. Bad sanitary conditions and fire hazards develop in the old buildings, Ihlder declares.

Sure Repeal's Here, He Defies Arrest

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Joe Giordani was arrested, charged with operation of a still. He told prohibition agents:

"You can't arrest me for this. California repealed prohibition two months ago."

A United States commissioner straightened the situation out in Giordani's mind by fixing bail at $2,000.

ASSESSOR SENT TO 22ND WARD EXTRA DAY

Chairman's Plea Gets Results as Riordan Charges 'Phantoms'

Although warned by their own investigators that a city-wide plan is being fostered by Regular Republican ward politicians to put hundreds of "phantoms" on the assessment books, the County Commissioners have ordered assessors to return to the Twenty-second Ward, North Side, to enroll those missed during the regular canvass.

A deputy assessor will sit in the office of Alderman Samuel Abernathy, West Diamond street, tomorrow afternoon and evening. This extra day for the Twenty-second Ward was ordered by the Commissioners after Christ McCormick, ward chairman, appeared before them, declaring there were several hundred residents of the ward still unassessed.

Leo A. Riordan, chief county investigator, has informed the Commissioners that hundreds of "phantoms" are being slipped on the books during the special assessment. He declared that he and his staff have removed many names. As an example, he pointed to the Second Ward, where during one day 260 additional names were taken by the assessor and of that number more than 50 were eliminated.

He declared there were names of non-residents of the North Side seeking to be assessed in more than one section of the city and many who were unknown at the addresses they gave.

He pointed out that Attorney B. Robert Averbach, solicitor for Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar and counsel for the Republican organization, has met several times with the Commissioners to have them accept lists of names to be put on the books. Riordan said that one list accepted from Averbach contained many phantoms.

For the next 10 days, the special assessors will be completing their work in the boroughs and townships. Any person not assessed can have his name put on the books by calling at the office of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes, in the Court House.

B. & O. TRAIN HITS TRUCK

A passenger train and a truck of the H. J. Heinz Company collided at the Thirteenth street crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in Braddock today.

The several score passengers, Pittsburgh bound, escaped injury, but the driver, Andrew M. Braun, was hurt when his truck was knocked clear of the tracks.

Braun, taken to Braddock General Hospital, was reported to have escaped serious injury.

Now Up to New York To Keep Jersey Dry

On orders from Washington, the Garden State has been placed under the supervision of the New York office of the newly created Bureau of Investigation of the United States Department of Justice.

She Screamed—and Battle Was On

MRS. HARRY F. WAGNER — PATROLMAN MICHAEL FREEMAN

Aftermath in Morals Court today of a street battle in Highland avenue, involving Mrs. Wagner, her husband and the officer. The couple quarreled, she screamed, the officer hurried to her rescue, then arrested both. In the ensuing melee, Policeman Freeman says he was attacked, his uniform torn. Wagner was rushed to a hospital suffering severe head injuries. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

MAN BATTLING OFFICER HURT

A wife who called on police to settle a domestic dispute was under arrest today. Her husband was in a hospital.

The policeman who intervened, Patrolman Michael Freeman, testified in Morals Court that he had heard a woman's screams at Highland avenue and Harvard street last night. He said he found Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Wagner, of 4144 Stanley street, quarreling.

Mrs. Wagner demanded that Freeman arrest her husband. Freeman arrested both husband and wife and took them to East End Police Station. There, according to Freeman, Wagner attacked him. Wagner was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital, where physicians took six stitches in his scalp and said he might have a skull fracture.

At the hearing Patrolman Freeman exhibited rents in his uniform, torn, he said, by Wagner. Magistrate Thomas D. Jones held Mrs. Wagner for a further hearing when her husband leaves the hospital.

Mrs. Wagner later admitted to social workers that she had given a false address to police, and said that her true address was 330 Atwood street. On the plea of the welfare workers, she was released without security.

Jamaica Storm Claims 70 Lives

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Relief and repair work was in progress in this vicinity today after floods, lightning and high wind resulted in the deaths of 70 persons and property damage estimated at $2,000,000.

Houses, banana plantations, bridges, roads, crops and communication facilities were destroyed or damaged in the storm, which lasted six hours and was described as the worst in 80 years, years.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Aug 17.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Well, the old Western polo boys got licked yesterday. It now stands one game each and the finals Sunday. It was anybody's game for a long time, then our old cowpuncher, Rube Williams, got hurt. We got to try and get Eric Pedley, a crack player from the coast, to come back here.

Will Rogers

Well, all you hear here is codes, "How do you think NRA is going?" and it's wonderful the way everyone seems to enter into it. Yours,

RARE OPERATION SAVES BOY

A delicate operation in which the soft tissues of the liver were sewn today had probably saved the life of Daniel Kazmer, 5, of 1725 Edwards way. The operation, described by physicians as extremely rare, was performed in the South Side Hospital by Dr. M. A. Bradford.

The boy was injured Tuesday when struck by an automobile while playing in Edwards way.

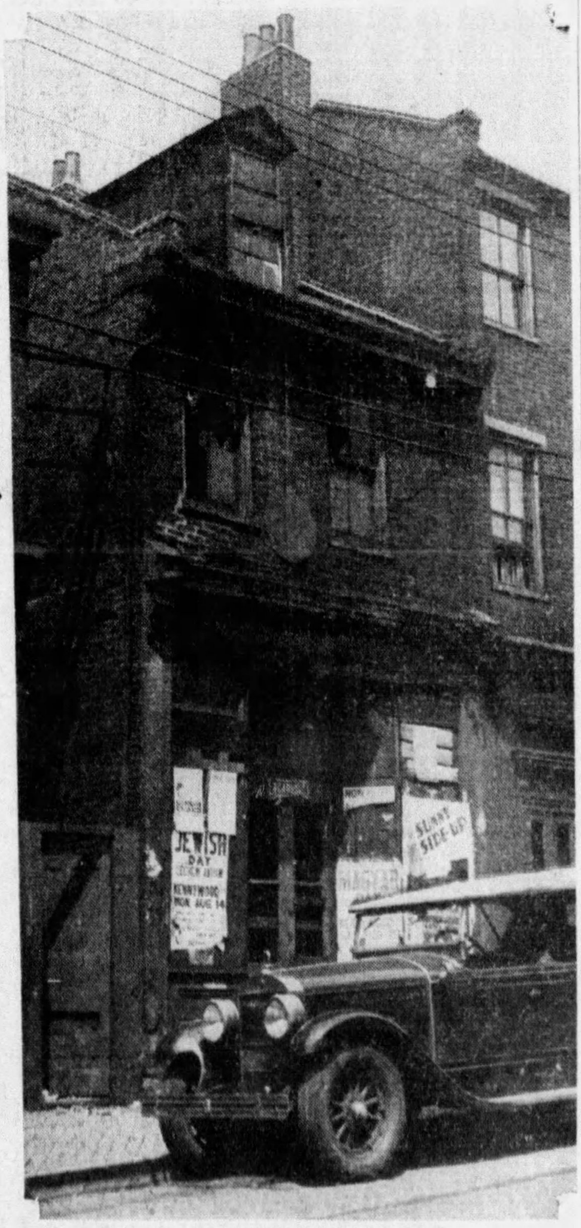
Glenfield Firemen To Hold Carnival

In Phillips Park, Glenfield, the Glenfield volunteer firemen tonight will open a carnival scheduled to run for the balance of the week.

HOUSES BRANDED UNSAFE



OLD BUILDING AT 715 WYLIE AVENUE . . IT'S DESERTED NOW

The structures shown above and to the left are only two of scores of Pittsburgh houses classified as unsafe, according to John Ihlder, executive director of the Pittsburgh Housing Association. The city bureau of building inspection, charged with failure to act, has reported progress is slow because of legal complications in wrecking old, dangerous building. These are Sun-Telegraph pictures.

FARM DISPLAYS MUST BE IN WEDNESDAY

Horse Show, Fireworks And Live Stock To Feature Event

Entries for the exhibits at the Allegheny County Fair opening at South Park August 31 and continuing through Labor Day will close next Thursday.

Henry R. Eby, county agricultural agent in charge of all farm displays, announced that all exhibits must be delivered to the park next Wednesday.

Many classes form each exhibition division. Mr. Eby cited the home economic department as containing 23 classes from canning to rug making. There are 13 major departments. Superintendents of these departments were announced as follows:

Horse show, Mrs. Simon Patterson; dogs, Robert F. Maloney; wild life, John M. Phillips; live stock, Maj. J. Clyde Miller; farm crops, R. K. McEwen; vegetables, C. E. Wilson; fruit, F. G. Reiter; poultry, rabbits, pigeons, bantams and eggs, Harry J. Singer; apiary products, J. S. Fleck; home economics, Mrs. H. P. Schwinderman; flowers, Mrs. A. J. Barron; special displays, John F. Howe, and draft horses, David McDonald.

Overtime On Fair Job Banned Under NRA

Despite the short time remaining to prepare grounds and buildings for the county fair to be held at South Park, August 31, September 1, 2 and 4, no overtime will be paid workmen after this week, Park Director A. M. Marion has announced. Complaints have been made of the long hours worked by the men at the fair grounds.

At the Controller's office it was learned that in one or two cases men who ordinarily would have drawn pay for 88 hours in two weeks have gone as high as 215 hours for the period.

Director Marion said the overtime was permitted only because of the extreme efforts being made to prepare the fair grounds for opening day. In emergencies, he said, the National Recovery Administration permits overtime.

Commissioners C. M. Barr and W. D. Mansfield last week objected to the overtime payroll, urging that more men be hired. A dozen additional have since been put to work.

JAR CAMPAIGN UNDER WAY

The annual jar collection campaign of the Pittsburgh Community Council to aid Thrift Gardeners throughout the city, is under way.

F. C. Woleslagle, garden secretary of the council said last year, more than 36,000 quarts of goods were canned from thrift gardens. This year, he said the need for jars is twice as great since there are twice as many gardens planted. The jars will be given to gardeners unable to buy them.

Headquarters of the council are on the seventh floor of the Wabash Building. Woleslagle urged that every person having jars to donate should notify the council by calling Court 1780.

On Whose Time Do We Wash, Is Now Greatest Issue

—By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER—

Less work and more pay is the answer. The only serious question to be settled by Gen. Johnson is the office boy's industrious interrogation:

"Do we wash up on the boss' time?"

When we were punching a time clock we always grabbed 20 minutes of the firm's calendar at the close of day. We spent the time combing the bangs, brushing the teeth and paring the nails.

At twilight we were the prettiest boy who ever walked out of a junk yard.

The boss used to object. But we convinced him that neatness and efficiency were the keystone of the bottles and old rags industry.

We have another problem for Gen. Johnson to decide. Do workmen on jig-saw puzzles get paid by the piece?

HAYES NEPHEW TO ASSIST AT CONSECRATION

Bishop-elect Ralph Leo Hayes, who will be consecrated in St. Paul's Cathedral September 21, will see his namesake and nephew, the recently ordained Rev. Ralph L. Hayes, as sub-deacon of the mass, it was announced today.

Other officers of the mass will be celebrant, Bishop Hugh C. Boyle; assistant priest, Msgr. William J. McMullen, vicar general of the Pittsburgh diocese; assistant deacons, Msgr. John Gorzynski, Msgr. Thomas G. Carroll, chancellor of the New York diocese; deacon of the mass, the Rev. Thomas F. Coakley, and sub-deacon, Father Hayes.

BEARERS OF OFFERINGS

Bearers of offerings for the mass are the Rev. James Grant, Hockessin, Del.; the Rev. John Lynch, Wilmington, Del.; the Rev. William Long, Chicago; the Rev. Fracis O'Conner, Louisville, Ky.; the Rev. William Gill, Rhinebeck, N. Y., and the Rev. Martin Hayden, Chicago.

Bishop-elect Hayes, who will be consecrated head of the Helena (Mont.) diocese, is now pastor of St. Catherine's Church, Beechview. Born in Pittsburgh, son of the late Patrick N. and Mary O'Donnell Hayes, he is one of a family of 11—with five sisters and five brothers. All are living. The recently ordained nephew is a son of Edward Hayes.

The bishop-elect attended Duquesne University, and won the Bishop Phelan medal there for general excellence. To dispute the old theory that 13 is an unlucky number, he finished in a class of 13—and 12 became priests.

DINNER FOR 700

Following the mass, a dinner will be given 700 priests and prelates attending from various parts of the country. It will be held in William Penn Hotel.

Wrestler Testifies Matches Pay $1.50

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—The groan and grunt boys of wrestling matches here get from 75 cents to $1.50 for their contortions, Frank Marcus, one of them, testified in a judgment suit. A janitor sought to collect $2 a night for setting up chairs in the hall, but Judge T. J. Pruss ruled that setting up chairs was not as hard work as wrestling, so he dismissed the action.

STUDENT WHO'S A DIGGER

FRANCIS P. RODGERS . . CITY LABOR HIS IDEA OF VACATION

Young Rodgers, who attends Slippery Rock State Normal School where he "goes in for football some," unexpectedly snapped by a photographer yesterday as he was shoveling out a gutter along Muldowney street, Lincoln place. His employment as a $4-a-day laborer on the city work relief payroll has been brought to the attention of Public Works Director Edward G. Lang. Rodgers lives at 571 Rodgers street. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

2 Working Under Car Run Over by Truck

HAYWARD, Cal., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—While L. M. Phillips, 62, carpenter, and Arthur C. Phillips, 35, his son, were working underneath their stalled automobile beside a highway near here, a truck ran over their protruding legs.

Police expressed belief the truck driver who did not stop may have been unaware of the accident. Both legs of both men were broken.

Wilkinsburg Picnic Held at Kennywood

A prize to the largest family attending will be awarded at the outing of the Wilkinsburg Business Men's Association at Kennywood Park today. Prizes also will be given the oldest and youngest picknickers and the most attractive table. After mushball and a tug of war in the afternoon, a girls' pajama parade was to start the evening. J. H. Rhodes is general chairman.

3 Win Divorces; 3 More File Suits

Divorces have been granted in Common Pleas Court to Muriel I. Reitler against James H. Reitler; Raymond J. Bluementritt against Margaret Rose Blumentritt, and Mary A. O'Neill against John O'Neill.

Divorce suits have been filed by Eleanor H. Wettach against James A. Wettach, Edna H. Pearson against Hugh Z. Pearson, and Roberta McMullin against William K. McMullin.

Milk Producers Fight State Ban

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Senator Herman J. Brandt, Allegheny, brought a delegation of mild producers to the Capitol yesterday to protest to Gov. Pinchot against discontinuing distribution of raw milk at the Tarentum commissary.

The delegation urged the Governor to use his influence to prevent the proposed substitution of pasteurized milk.

'Sleeping Sickness' Believed on Wane

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—The epidemic of "sleeping sickness," or encephalitis, in St. Louis and suburbs, appeared to be on the wane today.

Only five cases of the disease—the fewest in number for several days—were reported in the last 24 hours, and no additional deaths have occurred.

Chained Prisoner Breaks Bed, Flees

DENVER, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Handcuffed and chained to a hotel bed, H. B. Graham, a prisoner from Oregon en route to Texas to face robbery charges, broke a heavy iron bar on the bed and escaped while his guard was out to lunch.

Graham was handcuffed so that his left leg projected between his arms. The leg was attached to the bed with an iron chain around Graham's ankle. His guard was gone only 15 minutes. When he returned Graham had disappeared.

Convict Miners Declare Strike Off

PETRIS, Tenn., Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Their strike ended, 182 Brushy Mountain prison convicts, who mutinied as a protest against a new deputy warden's discipline, were back at work today in the mine where they carried on a two-day revolt.

Wampas Star Finds Marriage Failure

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17.—(INS.)—A film career and a marriage will not mix, testified Caryl Lincoln, Wampas baby film star, in winning a divorce today from George Barr Brown, film publicist.

In 10,000 mile test run over Pennsylvania mountains

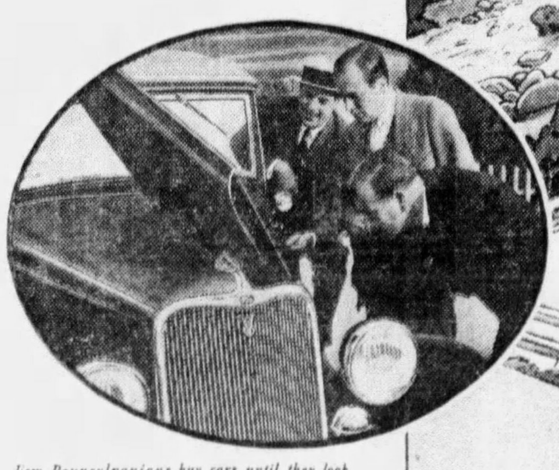
NEW FORD V-8 AVERAGES 20.6 MILES PER GALLON

IT is easy to understand why Pennsylvanians are swinging to the Ford V-8. Look at the results of the mileage test just completed, or examine the supporting evidence of other fact-finding runs which have recently carried this popular car over 70,000 miles in six states.

Day and night, stock models of the Ford V-8 have roared over mountain highways, speeded along straight-aways, ran in and out of city traffic. The cars were in the hands of many different drivers; used many kinds of gasoline. Yet without exception, the new Ford V-8 proved its ability to give 18½ to 22½ miles per gallon under every driving condition. Many owners report even greater mileage.

Make Your Own Test!

Check these results with the performance you yourself can get from the new Ford V-8. Any Pennsylvania Ford Dealer will be glad to supply a car for the test, and you will be able to compare it with your best previous experience in motoring. Let the Ford tell its own story.



Few Pennsylvanians buy cars until they look under the hood. With its 75 horse-power engine the new Ford V-8 is perfectly equipped for mountain driving. Its new all-aluminum cylinder head assures cooler operation. In 10,000 mile test no water was added to radiator.

M'NAIR NAMES CAMPAIGN LEADERS

Officers of the campaign committee of William N. McNair, candidate for the Democratic mayoralty nomination, were named today, and at the same time McNair's headquarters wefe opened in the Magee Building, Fourth avenue, the same location Democrats occupied last year in the Roosevelt campaign.

Cornelius D. Scully, an attorney with offices in the Frick Building, is chairman of the McNair committee; Percy R. Williams is secretary and William Barclay Foster, treasurer.

SCULLY INDEPENDENT

Scully has been an independent in politics, but has not recently taken an active practical part in campaigns.

Williams, formerly secretary of the Real Estate Board, was an assessor in the Magee administration and now is secretary of the Henry George Foundation. Foster is a nephew of Stephen Collins Foster, the Pittsburgh composer.

McNair, after completing the roster of his campaign staff, left Pittsburgh for a short vacation before opening an intensive stumping drive for the nomination. He is scheduled to return the first of next week.

The Citizens' League completed its list of indorsements for the primary with approval of candidates for Sheriff, Coroner and Judges of Common Pleas and County Court. No indorsement was made for the newly created Juvenile Court, a statement from the League saying no decision could be reached between Gustav L. Schramm and Mrs. Lois D. McBride, who "seem best qualified for the office."

Mrs. McBride is a member of the League.

COCHRANE SHERIFF

For Sheriff the League indorsed Robert K. Cochrane, who is also on the ticket with Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell for Mayor. Coroner William J. McGregor was indorsed for re-election.

Assessor Asks Three Sheriff Nominations

Charles C. Campbell, county assessor, of Castle Shannon, has filed for sheriff on the Republican, Democrat and Independent tickets. He has been indorsed, he announced, by the Pittsburgh Central Labor Union, the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' Union No. 12, the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, Pittsburgh Division No. 2, and other groups. A former city and county detective, he is a Spanish-American War veteran.

19th Ward Man Running for Mayor

Henry J. Farnsworth, Nineteenth Ward, has announced as a candidate for the Democratic mayoralty nomination because "the common working class needs representation that will protect its rights."

Farnsworth, a war veteran and past president of the Minimum Wage Association of the United States, has this platform: Widespread employment at a living wage, equitable property assessments, tax on all public utility property.

Alderman Aspirant Goes On 5 Tickets

Wilford H. Dooley, who has lived at 704 Brookline boulevard for 28 years, has announced as a candidate for alderman in the Nineteenth Ward. He is entered on the Republican, Democratic, Independent, Square Deal and Liberal parties. He is running as a non-factional candidate.

SCRIP PUZZLES SEWICKLEY

Merchants of fashionable Sewickley are perplexed today over the community's $300 scrip plan. They have it in their tills and can't spend it.

The scrip was issued in June by Sewickley Council for unemployment relief. Backing the plan were 80 merchants and three trade groups.

The emergency "money," printed in $1 denominations, was paid to 50 men by Borough Manager John Hiteshew for relief work.

Now the Sewickley Board of Trade contends the plan has "outlived its usefulness" and wants Council to redeem the scrip. Charles Drynan, secretary of the board said:

CARMODY AGAIN HEADS KNIGHTS

Except for routine business transactions, the only action of the convention was adoption of a resolution pledging co-operation with the National Recovery Act.

Other officers re-elected were William McGinley, of New York, supreme secretary; D. J. Callahan, of Washington, D. C., supreme president; Luke E. Hart, of St. Louis, supreme advocate; Dr. Edward W. Fahey, of St. Paul, supreme physician, and David F. Supple, of San Francisco, supreme warden.

One of the most important weddings of September will take place in London, England, that of John Douglas Little, Jr., of Sewickley Heights, and Mrs. Grafton Smith, of Boston. Their betrothal was announced early this month.

The date of the marriage is Tuesday, September 19, and will take place in the Savoy Chapel, London. Mr. Little will go East this week-end, and he and Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. George Cutts Vaughan, of Boston, will sail Wednesday on the Olympic for England.

Mr. Little and his bride expect to be at home in Sewickley after the first of October. They've taken the Sidney Liggetts' Oliver road, Shields, home.

* * *

Shirley Clarke and Henry Howell Van Cleef will be married in the chapel of St. Andrew's Cathedral, Honolulu, at 4 o'clock this afternoon, Honolulu time, 9 o'clock Pittsburgh time.

Honolulu Wedding

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. H. H. Van Cleef, of New Haven, and the late Mr. Van Cleef, and a grandson of Mrs. William Reed Thompson, of Northumberland street, and a nephew of Mrs. John C. Dilworth and Mrs. Thomas H. Eddy, of Pittsburgh.

A gown of white organza having a high-necked cape collar and puffed sleeves, trimmed with old family lace, will be worn by the bride. Her veil of tulle will be draped from a picturesque turban of white organza. And, of course, her father will give her in marriage.

Gown of Organza

Mary Thompson, of Uniontown, Pa., will be her only attendant, and William Van Cleef, brother of the bridegroom, will be best man.

The bride is a member of the class of 1934 at Vassar, and Mr. Van Cleef, who was graduated from Yale in 1929, has been in Honolulu to settle his father's estate.

Miss Nora Quinn Becomes Bride In Church

A quiet, informal wedding took place at 8:30 o'clock this morning in Sacred Heart Church, when Miss Nora Julia Quinn became the bride of George S. Kaufmann. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Thomas W. Quinn, of Sheridan avenue.

Only the families were present. The bride wore a traveling costume of rust wool trimmed in mole, and a brown hat. Her shoulder corsage was of orchids. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Ann Orr Quinn, who wore an afternoon dress of steel grey wool having a deep cape, and a matching hat. Her flowers were red roses. James Kaufmann was best man.

There was a breakfast in the Quinn home after the wedding. Mr. Kaufmann and his bride left on a motor trip and upon their return will be at home in Washington boulevard.

MISS MARION SPELLMIRE BETWEEN DIPS AT LONGUE VUE .. SHE'S ONE OF THE CLUB'S MOST ENTHUSIASTIC SWIMMERS

Club Women in 4 Groups, B. P. W. Official Writes

Marion H. McClench, national membership chairman for the Business and Professional Women's Clubs, writing in the August issue of The Independent Woman, divides club memberships into four groups—the get-out-of-its, the hearteners, the juniors and the progressives.

Those in the first class, she says, belong only for what they get out of their club contacts in the way of pleasure, relaxation, business advantage or prestige. Also, she says, they "get out of" their club obligations.

The hearteners are those whose time, money and strength are devoted to advancing the objectives of the federation and its members. She warns against wasting the time of these valuable members by filling programs with activities designed primarily to interest the "get-out-of-its."

From the enthusiasm of the juniors must come the Federation leadership of the future, so Miss McClench asks that juniors be made interested in Federation ideals and objectives and that programs be built to interest them.

She classifies the progressives as the women whose business acumen, professional standing and interest in the welfare of the community make them acknowledged leaders.

General Federation Pins With State Name on Guards Offered

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

From Mrs. D. H. Foresman, chairman of the General Federation of Women's Clubs' pin committee, comes word that the board of directors has authorized her to offer Federation pins individualized with a chain and guard bearing the name of the state. Ohio has already adopted the new combination.

Each state wanting such an individualized pin, bears the initial cost for the original die and pays an additional stated amount for the attachment. Separate guards and chains, easily attached, may be ordered by present holders of General Federation pins.

Mrs. Foresman points out that a combined General Federation and state emblem is desirable because two pins may be had for a slight increase in price over one, the guard insures added safety and the care and wearing of a combined pin is more convenient than that of two separate pins.

FASHION TURNS TO ELEGANCE IN THE LATEST EVENING GOWNS

THE SMARTEST figure that moves across dance floors these late August nights is elegantly clad, and suggests a calendar moved at least one month ahead. Perhaps it is too early to talk of fur trimmings. I'm inclined to think it isn't. And forward-looking persons will agree. Remember that September nights are chilly—and that most women welcome an opportunity to frame their sleek heads extravagantly in furs.

* * *

IN A costume like the red-fox trimmed, Hunter's green satin ensemble we've had sketched for you today, she will be the counter-part of numbers of really chic women you'll see in the smartest places this coming month. Those gowns that have long matching jackets are usually decorated by fur somewhere to give added pomp.

* * *

WHILE WHITE and black relinquish little or no supremacy, the pastels are slowly but surely giving way to deeper tones. The individualistic dresses for the evening are in newer dark tones, particularly those that suggest jewels and stones. They're more subtle. Once you've worm them, you'll recognize the point in their favor. They make you look brilliant in a distinguished way. It's part of a gigantic scheme to promote elegance again,

* * *

IF THE idea of fur appalls you this month, how about feathers? They returned to fashion in a blaze of triumph, and rightly so, since their coquetry invites feminine addicts. One coq necklace scarf of irridescent hue will be shown with a purplish brown satin dress. It should make you gasp. Another, of mahogany, which you will find in accessory shops, would be divine with a dusky blue uncut velvet gown. Other enormous, billowy fluffs are of white ostrich, to wear like a blanket of soft snow about your shoulders.

Should Boy Friend Get Peeved If His Girl Dates Others?

Does, or should, "going together" mean cutting out all other friends?

Is Bob right in getting peeved and cutting out the Girl Friend—to whom he's not engaged—because she dated someone else?

So far, he has thought so. But he has lost three gals that way, and now he's beginning to wonder.

Dear Miss Robinson:

To you this may be "just another letter." To me your answer will mean the keeping, or tearing down, of a set idea that I have had for a long time.

In grade school I was fortunate enough to attract the attention and have the companionship of a girl who was well-liked and very popular. There was never a party or a dance that we didn't attend together. Our class prophesy said that "we would marry.' That was all long ago. Our years at Hi were the same.

Then while I was at college she went out with others, and on my return for my summer vacation she was unwilling to give up all her newly-acquired friends. She knew from the start how I felt about her accepting invitations from others. She knew that she was free to accept them if she desired, but that doing so would automatically end our companionship. We are still good friends, but not sweethearts any more.

HAN DISAPPROVES

After I was graduated I worked in an office. I took out one of the stenographers quite often. We enjoyed each other's company, and had the same thoughts about practically everything. One evening she asked to be excused from an engagement we had to have dinner and go to a theater.

Well, I soloed, and, as Fate would have it, we crossed each other's path. I was alone; she was with another. We've worked in the same office for a year, but we've never been together outside the office since that night. She also was aware of the fact that I did not approve of other companionship for her, and that I would not stand for it.

Now I am going with another girl, and she has decided she would like to go out with others. My feeling has not changed, and she and I have gone so far, even as to make plans for the future. So, I don't like it. But maybe I am wrong.

The reason for my doubt is that I am just now unemployed, and can't take her out as I always have. I feel that this is the reason she wants to go with others. My feelings are hurt to think that now, when I need her companionship, she is ready to be entertained by others more fortunate than I. I don't want to break with her. I could have other dates, but I want to be true to her, and feel she should be willing to be true to me.

Shall I hold to my idea that I'm right in asking her not to see others; or, under the circumstances, shall I submit to her wish? BOB.

And so you think that every girl you go out with should cut out all other gents, or automatically lose you? Well, what's the result? Only this—you've "automatically cut" yourself out of plenty!

Of course, if you're engaged to this current girl, you have some reason to think she should not be dating other Romeos. But as to the others, there was no excuse for you. If you want any girl, you'll have to have the sand and sense to go in and win her—not by refusing to let her see other folks, but by staying in the race and taking your chances in open competition.

GIVE YOUR CONSENT

You can't back out and sulk, just because someone else has entered the lists; and moreover, you have no right to. You have no right to demand that a girl, just because you date her, can't date anyone else. Life isn't run that way, son—as you're discovering to your own grief.

And now how about this present girl? Why not let her go out for an evening of fun, now and then, if you can't afford to take her? If she really loves you she'll appreciate your thoughtfulness and generosity. If she doesn't—it's better, isn't it, to find it out now, while there is still time to make yourself a new life?

Fay King Advocates 'Separation Test' to Precede Marriage

By FAY KING.

Sometimes I think that a six-months separation test would be better than an engagement before marriage.

Not many love affairs would survive an absolute separation, without seeing one another, writing, or telephoning.

A young couple meet and grow interested in each other. Then they become engaged. If one or the other begins to regret this, he or she feels too honor-bound to break the engagement.

But if, before becoming engaged, they put their love to the separation test, and at the end of six months come together again as much in love, they may be sure they are making no mistake.

Separation does not always make the heart grow fonder, and it is better to find this out before than after marriage.

Contract Bridge

How to Play
How to Win

By Josephine Culbertson

Passing for a Penalty

Expert players realize that some of the richest penalties reaped at the Bridge table are those at contracts of one or two. It is the tendency of average and beginning players to take out all Doubles made by partners of low contracts, feeling that the resultant penalty will not compensate for the possible gain that might be missed by bidding. Actually, this is a mistaken policy. When a two-or three-trick penalty can reasonably be assumed, it is generally wiser to play to defeat the contract than to embark upon an uncertain effort to reach game for your side.

West, Dealer,
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ 9 5 ♡ 10 9 8 ◇ A J 7 5 ♣ K 10 8 4
Mr. Morris ♠ Q 10 8 ♡ A 6 2 ◇ K Q 2 ♣ Q J 9 3	North West East South	Mr. Tabbush ♠ A 7 4 ♡ J 7 5 ◇ 10 9 8 6 ♣ 7 5 2
	♠ K J 6 3 2 ♡ K Q 4 3 ◇ 4 3 ♣ A 6

The bidding:

Mr. Morris was stretching things somewhat to open his hand with one notrump. If he were to make any bid with his holding, unquestionably one club would have been a preferable choice. However, with the distribution as it is, that also would probably have led to a tragic denouement. Mr. Gottlieb had strength in both major suits and 3 honor-tricks, and in view of East's failure to take any action, was not inclined to permit West to play the hand at one notrump, and therefore doubled. After his Double and West's pass, I also passed, feeling, on the bidding, that Mr. Morris could not make the contract.

I had a number of selections of a lead and reasoning that my partner's Takeout Double showed strength in the majors, I decided on a short-suit Opening rather than one from a long suit. Finally I selected the heart Ten for the reason that my hearts were in sequence. As it turned out, this proved to be a killing Opening, and Mr. Morris was set 2 tricks for a penalty of 500 points.

In Room 1 the British players held the North and South hands, bid two notrump, and were set 2 tricks vulnerable—a swing of 750 points for the American team.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	2 ♣	2 ◇	Pass
2 NT	Pass	?

You, North, hold:

♠ J 5 ♡ J 10 7 3 ◇ K Q J 10 8 4 ♣ 7

What do you bid?

Answer: Three diamonds. Since you have previously bid two diamonds freely—that is, over an intervening bid—your three-diamond bid cannot now be construed as a Signoff, and it certainly paints the best picture of your hand. Your partner knows from your free bid that you have a certain amount of strength, and therefore there is no necessity for your contracting for game, as South, if he has a good hand, will do so himself.

Given in Marriage

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Veritzen Visibly Shaken by Madge's News

Even Philip Veritzen's iron composure was not proof against the hint I had given him of what Noel and Mary were planning. No line of his composed face changed; his eyes still kept their steady gaze unaltered, but his ruddy color fled and his cheeks took on a grayish pallor, while lines of age were suddenly etched around his nose and mouth.

"Let me get this clearly in mind," he said. "You say that Noel and Mary came to you in a panic because of the wonderful opportunity I am giving her?"

"Oh, no!" I said, with as innocent an air as I could manage. "It was not because of the opportunity—they both appreciated what a marvelous chance it will be for her—but because of the prospect of being separated for a year."

"And you said, I believe, that they remembered my leaving the time of their marriage with you. What am I to infer from that?"

My voice seemed to come from a mile or two away as I answered him.

"They asked my permission to marry almost at once."

He did not flinch, but he waited a long second before speaking.

"And you granted it?"

MADGE GAVE CONSENT

"Yes, I did." I tried to make the words firm and audible, but, to my disgust, found that they were little more than a whisper.

"Without consulting me?" He was palpably putting a restraint upon himself now, and I wondered when that iron control would break.

"Yes. They were so miserable, so unhappy, so insistent, that I had no time to think of anything but their plight."

"Their plight!" His tone was raucous now, and the words came tumbling out. "What sort of puppy-love poppy-cock is that? Can't be separated for a year, in order to give the girl the chance of a lifetime, without getting married, when they both ought to know that marriage would be the worst possible thing for both of them."

"Why?"

The word fell clear and crisp from Lillian's lips, and I felt as if a reinforcing battery had suddenly swung into action beside me.

"I haven't any clear first-hand information on this," Lillian carefully explained; and then, having established that premise, she rushed into an impassioned defense of Mary and Noel.

"But I don't need any to see that their marriage is the only solution of their problem. They are young, temperamental and terribly in love. If they were separated, their work would certainly suffer. Far better for both of them to get married. Then they'll be settled."

Mr. Veritzen turned to her with his self-control patently wabbling.

"Will you tell me how they'll be settled, with one of them over here and one in Paris?"

I caught my breath in astonished relief. I had expected that his first reaction to my news would be the withdrawal of his promise to send Mary to Paris; the second, an attempt to bar the girl altogether from his organization. But he either had not yet reached that stage, or never intended to reach it.

"Madge, you'd better take that question. I'm not prepared." Lillian burlesqued the whisper of a boarding school student.

"I don't think they intend to be separated," I said quietly.

"Do you mean that Miss Mary intends to renounce this opportunity I am giving her and stay over here? Does she realize; does Noel, do you—that if she refuses to obey my orders shall wash my hands of her future? That she will no longer have a place on the list of Veritzen stars?"

"I think she realizes it fully," I told him. "However, I am not just certain as to their plans. But wouldn't it be better if you talked to Noel and Mary yourself, and found out just what they intend to do?"

VERITZEN EMBARRASSED

He put up a protesting hand.

"Presently, presently," he said. "There's plenty of time for me to see them. I must find out something more about this thing first. I do not believe this thing has come about just because of their prospective separation. Tell me, have they read anything that disquieted them—any news on which they might put a wholly erroneous interpretation?"

He was as nearly embarrassed as I ever have known Philip Vertizen to be. Across from me, Lillian was signaling in her slangy code, "Give him the whole work!" And it was with somewhat the sense of pointing a machine gun at an adversary that I said quietly:

"If you mean did they see the story about King George of Trees visiting Paris, I can tell you now that they did, and that it was a distinct factor in upsetting both of them."

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

At a Dance

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Are the little lace jackets worn with the dresses at all times, or are they left off if the dress is worn at formal affairs?

3—On the dance floor what is the proper expression of apology when you collide with another couple? E.

2—Yes, if she really wishes to, but it is really better and more convenient if she wears her wrap and lays it back on her chair. She may wish to have her wrap if she goes out between acts, and she will certainly find it most inconvenient if she has to stand in line to reclaim it after the play.

3—"I'm sorry," or "I'm so sorry" is the best . . . or, if you prefer, "Please pardon me."

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

To Gertrude, Whose Hair Is Black

Oh, take the moon—and its shafts spilling
Through the shadows like
Lacy spangles on a bride's dress,
Oh, take the moon—I'll give it for a kiss.

Oh, take the music that makes my soul hollow
And tortured like a gourd
Beaten in a midnight rhumba band—
Oh, take the music, I'll give it for your laughter.

Oh, take the sun—which sets over the rain-grayed

Into the Hudson's melancholy waters—
Oh, take the sun—I'll give it for your song.
Lover—I give you these.

Newspaperman Stuff

Waiting for the Century to leave Chicago we paused at the office of a managing editor in that exciting city. He had assigned his most fearless reporter to do a series of pieces exposing a new racket there. The fearless reporter ankled in.

"I'm not a coward, boss," he remarked, "but if I sign these stories I'm sure to be put on the spot."

"Well," comforted the editor, "We can easily get around that—put my name on them."

Add Inconstant Readers

"Isn't it odd that you, of all people," asks John Daly, of Detroit, "didn't think to call him 'Precedent' Roosevelt?"

The Retort Ouch

We offered this one to the California scribes who came to witness Jack Dempsey and your New York correspondent do a round at Abe Lyman's opening matinee recently. But it was rejected. After the performance Dempsey said:

"Gee, Walter, you let one go that time—caught me square on the jaw."

"I'm sorry, Jack," we said apologetically.

"Tell me," kidded Dempsey, "ja hurt your hand?"

Of Course!

The honeymoon certainly is over when she says: "I wish you'd tell that fresh Mr. Goldberg that I'm a married woman and to stop flirting with me," and he says: "Oh, you're always imagining."

What I like most about the NRA is the Blue Eagle they give to employers. I've always been in favor of giving bosses the "bird" . . . At any rate, it's nice to see NRA signs in front of Broadway theaters, but there's more prosperity in SRO signs . . . So Carnera draws cartoons, eh? Well, he certainly can make funny faces out of the ones belonging to his opponents.

Study in Redundancy

From a recent radio review:

"There are plenty of extra mimeographed copies galore."

By Way of Report

The Lite Dige has revived the controversy over the word "whoopee." The mag doesn't consider it slang, it believes Dr. Vizetelly, who said it is 300 years old, but only recently inserted it for the first time in the dictionary he edits. The Digest, however, adds this new argument:

"But no one in those days ever spoke of 'making whoopee' . . . and when you speak of 'making whoopee' you can no longer claim to be keeping within the bounds of seventeenth century English.

". . . but even then it remained for New York to transform 'whoopee' into a noun and add it to our vocabulary of alcoholic slang."

Oh, well.

The Morning Mail

"Dear Walter," writes J. M. Josefsberg, "did you read about the man who sold his wife to another man for 25c? Gosh, these city slickers can sell anything! It seems to me that most of the swell-headed hams now on top of the heap are confirmed NRA men—Never Remember Anybody.

"The trouble with most girls who are homely as sin—is that they aren't quite as enjoyable."

He Was Like That

They were relating anecdotes about Ambrose Bierce again last night. John H. Curtin recalled when Teddy Roosevelt invited Bierce to the White House when he was covering Wasnington for the Hearst newspapers.

The President had arranged a definite time for their first meeting. Bierce, however, had a date for that hour. He sent this note:

Form of Criticism

Take it from George T. Davis, not long ago before an intercollegiate contest between Yale and Harvard, the Yale president wired the Harvard head:

"May the BEST team win."

The Harvard chief's immediate answer was:

"May the BETTER team win."

Bathing Tan Causes Retake of Scenes

The bevy of beauties in "My Weakness" has been forbidden by the director to go bathing during the course of the picture's production. The reason is that when the girls came on the set after a weekend at the beach their complexions were several shades darker than the week before. It meant a complete reshooting of the sequences. Now they may bathe either in their private tubs or under an umbrella.

Miss Oliver And Horton To Team

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 17. — A good comedy team lines a producer's pockets with gold. Universal is launching another one soon in Edna May Oliver and Edward Everett Horton.

Miss Oliver

The two players were signed by Carl Laemmle, Jr., to make a series of three feature pictures, the first to go into production early in October. These films will be the same homey type of comedies that Zasu Pitts and Slim Summerville have co-starred in so successfully at Universal for the past two years.

Here's a bit of irony. One of the authors assigned to write the first story is John Bright who, with Kubec Glasmon, turned out those blisteringly realistic underworld stories of James Cagney.

Although appreciating the honor, Grover Jones and Bill McNutt have learned that their new contract to write, direct and supervise their pictures is not without its disadvantages.

The other day they hit a tough situation in the story. Hours later it was still tough. Putting it down on paper finally and only half satisfied with the result, McNutt suddenly turned to Jones.

"Say," he exclaimed, "who are we going to blame for this?"

Blonde Claire Windsor told reporters she was through with men, but only a few hours later, in San Francisco, she ran up a long distance telephone bill talking to C. Roy Gilliland at the Hollywood Plaza Hotel. Mr. Gilliland is from Oregon and is wealthy.

Stories of Bing Crosby's objections to being starred are not phoney. The crooner refused to sign his new Paramount contract until the studio agreed to scrap advertising posters giving him stellar billing in "Too Much Harmony."

Here's a hot one for the gossips. Gary Cooper beaued Sandra Shaw to the Miramar the other evening . . . Peggy Joyce swept in late to this popular dance spot, inspected and turned down the only two tables left, and swept out again without pausing. Though orchidless, La Joyce was stunning in a blue gown and a large, drooping hat.

First authentic scenes of the revolution in Havana are shown in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. There are spectacular pictures of the overthrow of the Machado government showing the frenzied mobs pillaging, looting and sacking stores, buildings and homes. President Roosevelt is seen on a personal tour of southern reforestation camps where he is given a rousing welcome. The President listen to a Hill Billy band, eats with the "gang" at their regular chow, which he heartily enjoys. He tells the men what a good time he has had.

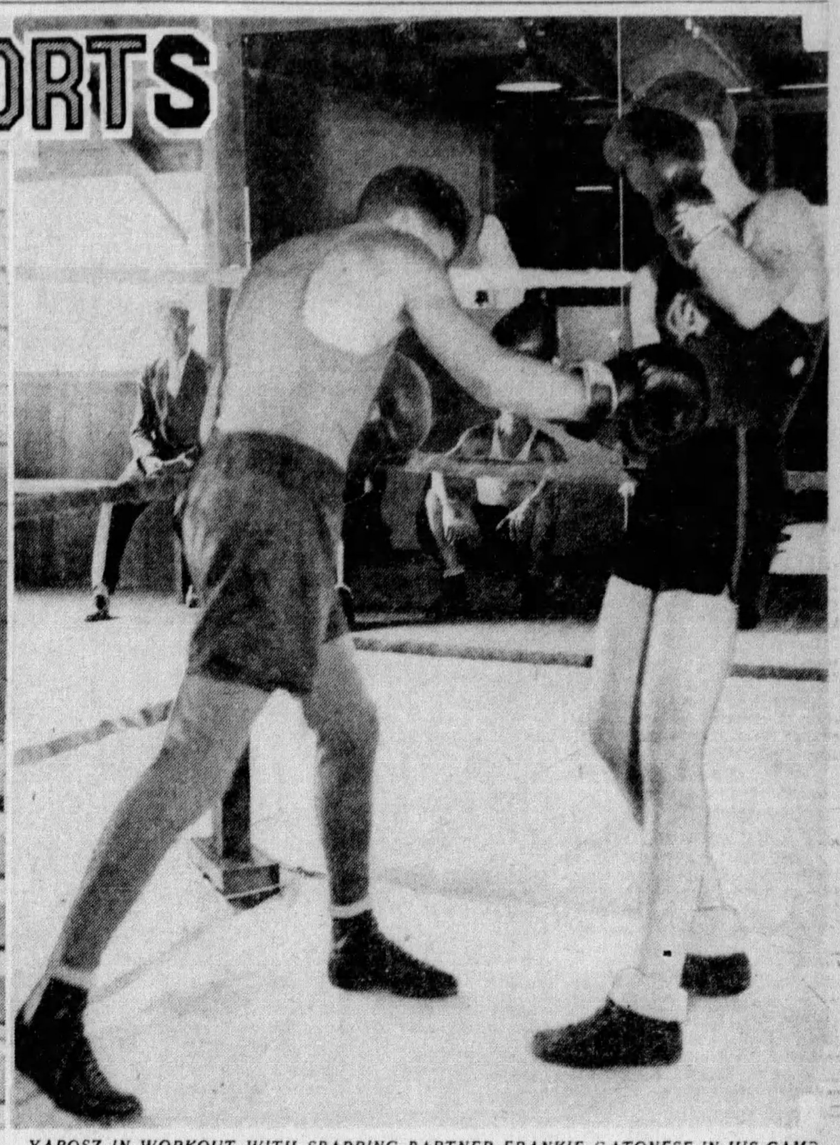
'MY, WHAT BIG MUSCLES YOU HAVE,' SAYS BOBBY FOUTTS, YOUNG SON OF BOXER'S MANAGER



YAROSZ IN WORKOUT WITH SPARRING PARTNER FRANKIE CATONESE IN HIS CAMP

Teddy Yarosz, of Monaca, is leaving no stone unturned to prime himself for his all-important battle with Vince Dundee at Forbes Field next Monday night. Here we find him at his training camp. He says he's in the best condition of his entire career and developing a kick in both fists for his worthy opponent, a victory over whom will put him right in line for a crack at the middleweight championship of the world, now claimed by various and sundry pretenders. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

SPORT COMMENT

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Just Another Fight.
That's Yarosz' View.
Lets Manager Worry.

Ted's Pecular Build.
A Hint of Fitz.
Dundee Cagy Foe.

RED LETTER NIGHT FOR FIGHT FANS

For more than an hour, the other night, Ray Foutts, manager of Ted Yarosz, sat down with his fighter and went over "the situation" with him pertaining to Ted's fight with Vince Dundee at Forbes Fied next Monday night.

He stressed the importance of the battle, the cunning of his foe, the fact that Dundee had obtained a good line on him in his two battles against Freddie Polo and Al Rossi in Newark, N. J., Dundee's home town.

YAROSZ FACES TEST UNAFRAID

That's one of the reasons why the young Pole from Monaca is a great fighter and will become a greater one. He is not inclined to worry in advance of a battle. The way he looks at it, worry should be one of the things for which a fighter pays a manager a "cut" of his earnings.

In training and in the ring, there never was a more earnest young fighter than Teddy. The local fans know that. The moment the bell rings he leaps into action and keeps going until the battle is over. Having the advantages of youth, strength, courage and amazing stamina, he gives the impression of being able to fight all night. And he does his best work when pressed or when stung by a punch.

Foutts recalled Ted's fight with Sammy Slaughter, the hard-hitting Negro middleweight, in Cleveland. Everybody had been telling him he had made a mismatch, that Slaughter would tag his fighter on the chin and the fruits of several years' labor would be wiped out in the blinking of an eye. He was worried.

He demonstated. Then, just before the call came to enter the ring, Ted poed, back on his right heel, left arm extended so far it would lave required a 10-foot pole to hit him, and his chin burrowed deep in his chest. He was clowning, asking:

"Is this wha you want me to do?"

Then he went into the ring, floored Slaughter and gave him the trimming of his life.

FINDS SELF AS A MIDDLEWEIGHT

Yarosz has a peculiar build. He has the deep-barreled chest and round shoulders of Bob Fitzsimmons, and everybody knows how Fitz could hit. He has a shuffling style which permits him to get considerable leverage behind a straight, unorthodox right to the head. And he has speed to burn, most of his weight being in the upper part of his body. For a long time he was handicapping himself trying to remain a welterweight. In the four fights he has had as a middleweight, he has floored and beaten Slaughter, beaten Tommy Freeman, former welterweight champion, in a great fight, stopped Polo and punched out a decisive victory over Rossi, the Newark newspapers agreeing it was only a rank exhibition of hometown refereeing that enabled Rossi to avoid a knockout when Yarosz several times had him in a wobbly condition.

In meeting Dundee, Yarosz will be at the crossroads of his career. If he wins he will go on to a championship match of a certainty; if he loses, he will be just another fighter in the middleweight class. Dundee is a master ring general. It is a moot question if Yarosz with all of his enthusiasm will not be playing into Dundee's hands by carrying the fight to him. Frankie Goosby tried it and ran into his first defeat, and by a knockout, at that, after having all the better of the first two rounds, in which he unquestionably hurt Dundee.

In all sports there are experts who succeed mainly by letting or making their opponents beat themselves. We have seen striking examples in tennis of a player with a soft stroke and fine control and court strategy who keeps returning the ball in tantalizing fashion until his rival falls into committing error after error to lose valuable points. It is so, too, in golf and other pastimes, and even much truer in the ring.

READY FOR GREATEST VICTORY BID

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Patsy Perroni vs. Isadoro Gastanaga, 10 rounds; Lew Farber vs. Mike Belloise, Paul Pirrone vs. Tony Dominguez, Al Gainor vs. Bob Olin and Vernon Cormier vs. Pete DeGrasse, 6 rounds each, and Leonard Del Genio vs. Joe Regis, 4 rounds, Madison Square Garden, New York.
Allen Matthews vs. K. O. Kelly, 10 rounds, St. Louis.

Five preliminaries in all will be arranged for the Vince Dundee-Ted Yarosz boxing show at Forbes Field next Monday night, it was definitely announced today with the closing of a match between Sunny Jim McVey and Carl Montebano, light-heavyweights.

Eddie Zivic-Harry Weekly, Joey Bazzone-Al Lewis and Phil Ross-Al Diamond bouts had been previously booked. Another bout, which will serve as a special number to go on after the main bout, remains to be arranged. All of the preliminaries will be five-rounders.

Promoter John L. Hernon, this morning revealed the reason for refusing to place general admission tickets on sale before the day of the show. It is to safeguard the club against counterfeiting of the pasteboards, which would be easy in view of the fact that all are alike and do not call for reserved seats, so that it would be difficult to check up on duplications. The present plan is to keep all of the $1.10 tickets in the boxoffice racks until the gates open at Forbes Field to admit the crowd at 6 o'clock Monday night.

Believe It Or Not

(Reg. by U. S. Patent Office)

By Ripley

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE TALLEST ONE-ROOM HOUSE—Inside of a giant redwood in Lilly Redwood Park, Cal., an enterprising homebuilder has constructed a room 25 feet wide and 25 feet long, with the roof running up to 250 feet. Many years ago the center of the tree was burned out up to a height of 40 feet, leaving only a comparatively thin shell to support the towering trunk, and the fact that it is still alive and growing is one of the marvels of the redwood forest. PANGBORN—There are few remarkable achievements of aviation in which Clyde Pangborn doesn't figure in some way. Pangborn has been flying continuously for more than 16 years and in that time has piled up a log of 13,500 hours in the air, holds many first records of stunts and accomplishments, and has carried more than 200,000 passengers—all without a major crackup or injury to a passenger or himself. At times when "Pang" was barnstorming his passenger list ran up into the hundreds for a single day's work.

TOMORROW: A REAL MAN OF THE WORLD.

GIBSON PLANS TO RECALL BIRKOFER

BROOKLYN, Aug. 17. — Wet grounds preventing their third and final clash with the Dodgers this afternoon, the Pirates experienced new pennant hopes in the announcement of President Bill Benswanger and Manager George Gibson to the egect that these officials were negotiating with the Toronto club, of the International League, for the hurried return of Pitcher Ralph Birkofer.

The powerful lefthander, who was farmed out to the Leafs early in the season under a 24-hour option, has proved to be one of the standout twirlers of the class A. A. circuit. The partial crackup of the Buccaneer pitching staff in recent weeks added to the fact that room exists on the Pittsburgh roster for another player caused Gibson to yearn for the promising flinger, who may rejoin the Bucs on their present hard invasion of the East.

CAREY, LOPEZ SUSPENDED

The Dodger camp held contrasting emotions as today's contest was called off. Just before the postponement was announced, President John A. Heydler, of the National League, notified Manager Max Carey and Catcher Il Lopez they had been suspended for three days owing to their stormy protests of a plate decision in the second bame of yesterday's dual bill between the Pirates and Dodgers. Carey's punishment carries a $50 fine, it being alleged Max pushed Umpire McGrew. The protest occured in the fourth inning when McGrew caled Shortstop Floyd Vaughan safe when Lopez thought he tagged him.

DIVIDE DUAL BILL

The Pirates divided a doubleheader with the Dodgers yesterday and thus lost more ground to the victorious Giants in the National eLag eurace. Larry French dropped a tough 11-inning slab fight with Van Mungo in the early game. The score was 2 to 1. The Buccos threw a furious attack at several Dodger pitchers to cop the nightcap, 11 to 7.

Danny Taylor, Pittsburgh district boy, cracked out two homers to down the Buccos in the opener. Taylor tied up the game with a four-baser in the sixth and won it in the eleventh with his second homer. Suhr drove in the only Pirate run in the fourth.

Mungo fanned nine Pirate batters. The Pirates had a fine chance to win the contest in the tenth when they had runners on second and first with none out, but L. Waner was cut down at the plate when he tried to score on Lindstrom's single.

Tony Piet's two-run homer in the second started the Buccos on their way to victory in the second contest. Owen Carroll was shelled off the hill in the fourth. The Pirates also took picks on Shaute and Thurston. Steve Swetonic pitched well for the Pirates until the ninth when he was relieved by Hal Smith.

Strategy Slips

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Pirate followers today were peeved over the apparent stupidity shown by the local team as it tasted a 2-1 defeat in the first game of their doubleheader with the Dodgers in Brooklyn yesterday. Lloyd Waner's attempt to score in the tenth inning was

Legion Champs Meet In Allentown Game

Today's winner meets the West Virginia champion tomorrow after the clash of the Pennsylvania and Delaware nines. The victor in the regional final, on Saturday, goes to Springfield, O., for the eastern sectional competition.

Former Pitt End Stars Get Jobs

Eddie Hirschberg, who captained the 1931 Panther varsity, has been added to the Pitt coaching staff. Last year, Eddie served as line coach under Jack Harding, former Pitt quarterback, at St. Thomas College, Scranton.

Ted Dailey, star end on last year's Pitt eleven, signed with Art Rooney as a member of the local professional eleven in the National Football League.

SLUMPING YANKS ALL BUT OUT OF FLAG RACE

GEHRIG TO SET MAJOR LEAGUE MARK TODAY

Associated Press.

Lou Gehrig was ready today to tuck away the toughest of all major league baseball records in his hip pocket and go on playing baseball. But his club, the New York Yankees, faced the painful knowledge that they were 6½ games behind the league-leading Washington Senators and all but out of the pennant race.

For the stolid, study Lou, it was just a matter of going out there and playing another game and taking the honors that went with his record achievement as much in his stride as he has the 1,307 games that have gone before. Yesterday he played his one thousand three hundred and seventh consecutive game since he broke into the Yankee lineup way back in 1925. That equalled the record set by Everett Scott, with the Boston Red Sox and the Yankees. Today Gehrig was due to establish a new mark, to receive a silver cup from President Will Harridge of the American League and a lot of homage from the fans in honor of the occasion.

YANKS ROUTED

Gehrig led all the Yankee hitters yesterday, but at that he got only two hits off his former teammate, Ed Wells, while the St. Louis Browns hammered young Charley Devens, Danny MacFayden and George Uhle for 18 hits and a 13-to-3 victory.

That happened while Washington was scoring a 5-to-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Down where the race is closer, the Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers came through with a pair of shaky victories and remained tied for fourth place. The Indians edged out the Philadelphia Athletics, 5-4. Detroit beat the Boston Red Sox, 6-5.

The New York Giants increased their National League lead a bit by ringing up their twentieth shutout victory of the season at the expense of the Cincinnati Reds, while Pittsburgh got only an even break in a doubleheader with Brooklyn and Boston knocked off Chicago's Cubs for the second time.

SCHUMACHER VICTOR

Fred Frankhouse, of Boston, and Bud Tinning, of Chicago, waged a scoreless duel for seven innings, then the Braves cut loose and scored six runs in the eighth to win, 6-1. The Phillies and Cards waged a pair of exciting struggles, St. Louis winning the first, 7 to 6, in 12 innings, when Jimmy Collins smacked a homer to break up the battle, and the Phils the second, 2-0, as Austin (Cy) Moore got the better of Dizzy Dean in a mound duel.

BOOKS FACE TITLE CHANCE

Two games are carded in the City League this evening, with the possibility of the league's second-half championship hinging upon the outcome of one.

At Whitaker, the Books will be the attraction. If Whitaker can win, then the race is over. But if Books defeat the leaders, a playoff will be necessary before a champion can be crowned. In the other fray, Homewood meets the Gillespies at Brentwood.

In the Greater Pittsburgh League, Parmelee goes to Turtle Creek, while New Kensington club has a local battle on its hands, meeting Springdale.

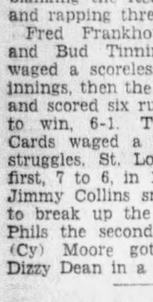
BASEBALL COMEDY

By NICK ALTROCK



Nick Altrock

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—Well, sir, the other night Uncle Nick adjusted his specs and he was a-scanning the latest ball news when thar, right before him, he sees a writeup as how there's only two spitball pitchers left in the national pastime — Red Faber and Burleigh Grimes. And it sure did mount old Nicholas on this here nag, called Pegasus, and send him galloping back down the corridors of time.

I may be a senile old fool to most of you folks, but, back before spit was a horrid word, half the cagiest pitchers were drooling syrup on the hoss-skin and making it cut up all sorts of capers as it gyrated toward the plate. Then, after about a dozen years of this drooling, the Anti-Saliva League was formed to dry up big league baseball, and only those vets that held licenses were allowed to use a baseball for a cuspidor from then on.

BRAND DEFEATS BENSON AFTER 23 HOLES

By TOM BIRKS

A thrilling match, which went five extra holes, featured the first round of eliminations in the annual West Penn amateur golf championship at the Highland Country Club today, Fred Brand, Jr., of Shannopin, defeating Jack Benson, of South Hills, 1 up, after 23 holes.

Brand scored a 3 on the fifth extra hole, while Benson required a 4, settling the match. The cards:

Benson, out	444	352	454—35
Brand, in	445	533	533—35—70
Benson, in	444	443	444—35—70
Extra holes—
Brand	444	43
Benson	444	44

Both Brand and Benson shot sub-par golf for 18 holes, both going out in 35 and returning in the same number of strokes. The summary:

R. B. Parker, Highland, defeated J. R. Royston, Jr., Highland, 3 and 1.

CITY CHAMPION LEADS, 3 UP

Mrs. Margaret Curry, medalist and defending champion in the women's city golf championship, was well on her way to her third straight title when she finished the first 18 holes of the 36-hole final with Mrs. Eva Blair, 3 up, on the Schenley Park course this morning.

Mrs. Curry, who has won the championship for the last two years, scored a fine 80 in her morning round, while Mrs. Blair required 86 strokes.

Mrs. Blair held Mrs. Curry fairly even during the first nine holes, the two stars starting the homeward trip all square. The cards:

Mrs. Curry—
Out	5	6	5	6	4	4	3	5	4—42
In	4	5	3	4	4	3	4	5	6—38—80
Mrs. Blair—
Out	4	6	6	6	3	4	5	4	4—42
In	4	6	2	5	5	6	5	6	5—44—86

The second round of 18 holes was being played this afternoon.

In the 18-hole final of the second flight, Mrs. Myrtle Stearns defeated Mrs. W. F. McAnally, 1 up.

The championship of the County Parks golf courses was being decided this afternoon, with Carl Kauffmann, South Park titleholder, opposing Alex Shacoski, North Park champion, at South Park. Sharcoski teed off holding a one-hole lead over Kauffmann as a result of their match last week at North Park.

OFFICERS ELECTED

W. H. Taylor was elected president; Robert Cumbert, vice president; Carl Kauffmann, secretary, and A. G. Wallerstedt, treasurer, by the Schenley Park Golf Association at its business meeting held at the clubhouse last night.

Jack Lowther, J. F. Lally, Kivie Wolfe, Paul Schaeffer, Walter Phillips, Martin Boschert, Dr. H. E. Canter, A. G. Josephson, John Irwin, Walter Heimert, Mrs. Margaret Curry and Edith Clarke were named on the board of directors.

FONSECA SUSPENDED

CHICAGO, Aug. 17. — (AP.) — Manager Lew Fonseca, of the Chicago White Sox, has been suspended for three days by President William Harridge, of the American League, for abusive language directed toward an umpire and for refusal to leave the bench after being ordered to do so in Tuesday's game with Washington at Comiskey Park.

U. S., BRITISH WOMEN NET ACES CLASH

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 17.—There being nothing quite like an international flavor to tone up a tennis tournament, the athletic daughters of England and the United States prepared to square off in six out of the eight matches scheduled in today's third round of the women's national tournament.

Right down the line, with two exceptions, it was England vs. America, and the result was expected to be a bumper crop of fans in the West Side Tennis Club's stadium.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, leader of this country's forces, was pitted against Mrs. L. R. C. Michell, of England. Helen Jacobs, the defending champion, opposed Freda James, of the British forces. Another, Dorothy Round, regarded as the chief menace from abroad, faced Mrs. John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, and Bounding Betty Nuthall, only foreigner ever to win the big title, encountered Carolin Babcock, of Los Angeles.

The only two matches with a purely domestic complexion paired Sarah Palfrey, of Boston, against Mrs. A. J. Lamme, Jr., of Rye, N. Y., and Alice Marble, of San Francisco, against Mrs. Carolyn Hirsch, of White Plains, N. Y.

Mrs. Lamme sprang the only real upset of the opening rounds by ushering out Joan Ridley, of England, in a hard-fought match yesterday. Mrs. Moody eliminated Grace Surber, of Jackson Heights, N. Y., 6-2, 6-1; Helen Jacobs put out Katheryn Pearson, of Houston, Tex., 6-2, 6-1; Alice Marble won over Virginia Rice, of Boston, 6-0, 6-1; Miss Babcock turned back Beatrice Bryan, of Memphis, 6-0, 6-2, and Miss Palfrey eliminated Marjorie Sachs, of Cambridge, Mass., 6-0, 6-1.

RAIN HAMPERS NET TOURNEY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Staff Correspondent.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, Md., Aug. 17.—Quarter-final man-to-man contests, held up by afternoon rain yesterday, feature today's card of action in the fourteenth annual Western Maryland tennis championships here.

Frank Broida and Eddie Alcorn, Edgewood stars, yesterday rounded out Pittsburgh's quota of half a dozen entries in the bracket of eight by scoring respectively over Stewart Brown, of Brooklyn, 6-2, 6-0, and Dillinger Hixson, Greensburg veteran, 6-0, 8-6.

This morning's bill brings together Broida and Dave Devlin, Westmont driver; Billy O'Loughlin, P. A. A. luminary, and John Brown, Mt. Lebanon-Edgewood star; Dr. John O'Loughlin, defending premier, and his winged head doubles mate, Paul Sullivan, and Alcorn and Junior Kunkle, rangy Westminster from Duke University. All are seeded, except Devlin and Kunkle.

Frances Grimes, Western Maryland 1931 women's champion, entered the feminine semi-finals after a close call with Mary Ryan, clever Washingtonian, 7-5, 7-5. Sara Moore, of Washington, did likewise at expense of Mrs. Margaret Graham, of the capital, 6-1, 6-4, while Miriam Sullivan, P. A. A. hope, remains a round behind the field after 6-1, 6-0 victory over Margaret Coulehan, of Cumberland.

ROTH WINS TITLE

BEAVER FALLS, Aug. 17.—Chris Roth, Salem, O., high school tennis captain, annexed the Beaver County junior title in a gruelling five-set match on the Geneva College courts here yesterday, defeating Duane Littell, of Beaver Falls, 4-6, 6-4, 1-6, 6-4, 6-3.

hand puncher and a fine boxer. Dundee's reply was characteristic of his confident attitude. He said simply:

"Okay, we'll take care of him when we get him in there."

At the moment, Yarosz has only one battle plan in mind. It is to fight the very best fight of which he is capable. He believes it will be sufficiently good to cop the laurels for him. If not, well, he will have given his best. Meanwhile the steam is on for the bout as it has been for no other one this town has known in years, and next Monday night will go down in history as a red letter date in local boxing.

FIGHT IN TRADITIONAL SETTING

Although it is almost 10 years since a boxing show has been held at Forbes Field, the home park of the Pittsburgh Pirates is not without fine fistic traditions. It was there that the late Harry Greb fought some of his greatest battles. There come to mind his meetings with Jack (Giant Killer) Dillon and Mike Gibbons, two bouts with Tom Gibbons, the second of which was fought in a torrential downpour with lightning flashing and thunder crashing; tests with Battling Levinsky, Bill Brennan, Hugh Walker, Kid Norfolk and others in the halcyon days of Jim Routley's old Keystone A. C., which had its start as the Birmingham A. C., in the South Side Market House and then graduated to Exposition Hall at the Point and then to the baseball orchard; Milk Fund shows featuring Cuddy DeMarco and Jack Zivic in another great "natural" and South Side Tony Norman against Pancho Villa, with Carl Tremaine virtually ruining Pete Zivic's career with a knockout on the same card, and Johnny Ray's battles against George (Knockout) Chaney, Johnny Dundee and Charley White.

The Zivic-DeMarco gate, in good times, grossed around $30,000, and Greb and Tom Gibbons drew something like $18,000. There's no telling what the rush for $1.10 seats on the night of the fight will do for the Dundee-Yarosz billing.

Sitting at the ringside Monday night, Pittsburgh's veteran first nighters among the boxing fans will be able to conjure up thoughts of the glorious past. The ghosts of Greb and Ray and DeMarco and the Zivics and Norman will rise from the shadows beyond the glare of the lights to bring back memories—and spur on a new local favorite to the bid of his life for victory and what lies beyond.

BUCCO-DODGER GAME OFF

branded as a piece of bad coaching, and the fans naturally wondered what happened to Brother Paul in not getting any farther than second base on Lindstrom's single on which the evident bad coaching developed.

That Larry French should have won his game in the tenth is the opinion of many backers of the club who are loathe to excuse the bad baseball. Perhaps there were extenuating circumstances involved, yet it is a bit difficult to admit that anybody should try to score when by a halting at third base the sacks would be filled with the cleanup section of the batting order up and nobody out. The fact that the Buccos disputed the decision on the close play on Brother Lloyd does not justify the risk with many folks.

MISS BIG CHANCE

The two Waners were on second and first with none out when Lindstrom singled to right. If any doubt existed at all as to L. Waner's ability to reach the plate he should have been stopped—he was not and the inning ended with a blank for the Pirates.

Brother Paul surely must have seen the ball going plateward, which should have been a sign for him to annex third. Had he reached the bag, Arky Vaughan might have driven him over with the winning run. But Paul stayed at second and then Vaughan bunted. Arky probably figured he would beat the play. That was smart enough, although he was thrown out. In any event it seems to have been a display of bush-league ball and the Dodgers won in the eleventh on Danny Taylor's second homer.

Canadian Leads In Toronto Tourney

TORONTO, Aug. 17.—(INS.)—Carding a sparkling 71, one under par for the difficult Royal York golf course, Bobby Alston, youthful Canadian pro from the Riverhead Club, Ottawa, today led the early finishers in the first round of the Canadian Open golf championship.

The first American to finish was C. H. Perkins, of West Hartford, Conn., who toured the first nine in 35 and appeared to be playing a steady brand of golf.

Emmett French, Southern Pines veteran pro, was off his game, taking an obese 44, nine over par figures, for the outgoing holes. Mortie Dutra was another American who found trouble lurking in the narrow and heavily trapped fairways and finished the first nine with a 38.

Scott-Paine Arrives For Trophy Race

QUEBEC, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Hubert Scott-Paine, British motorboat designer and driver, today arrived on the liner Empress of Britain with his little vest-pocket speedster, Miss Britain III, with which he will challenge Gar Wood for the Harmsworth trophy at Detroit next month.

Mrs. Scott-Paine accompanied him and, after seeing the boat started toward Detroit, they boarded a train which will take them there tomorrow. The boat will arrive Saturday, in charge of the six engineers and mechanics the Englishman brought with him as a crew.

Fight Results

At Winnipeg—Charley Belanger defeated Buck Everett, 10 rounds.

GRANGE WITH BEARS

HAMBLETONIAN WON BY MARY REYNOLDS

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Little did the late Pop Geers, whose name is synonimous with light harness racing, realize that the husky boy of 23 years, who came to him to learn the art of the sport 36 years ago, would some day drive the winner of a trotting race worth more than $40,000.

In those days, a trotter earning that much in a single race or in one year, was an unheard of event. But yesterday Ben White, now a grey-haired 60-year-old veteran of the sulky, turned the trick when he guided Mary Reynolds, a slim, bay filly, owned by W. N Reynolds, of Winston-Salem, N. C., to victory in the seventh renewal of the Hambletonian.

HORSE RANKED HIGH

White ranks Mary Reynolds as one of the best horses he has driven and his contention is borne out by the filly's time of 2:03¾, which she made in winning the first heat. J. J. Lyle's Brown Berry, of Plainfield, N. J., tr

STOCKS BACK IN RUT AFTER BRIEF RALLY

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Financial markets rallied with a semblance of their recent buoyancy today, but, after a fast 20 minutes or so, most of them dropped back to their routine movements of the past several days.

A sharp turn-about of grains at Chicago, after they had slumped around their day's limit at the opening, touched off a recovery in shares which had generally been lying dormant. In the brief upswing many equities gained 1 to 5 or more points and the ticker tape dropped behind floor transactions. Wheat became irregular, however, and cotton, which had shown gains of about $3 a bale, also yielded some of its territory. Stock buying, consequently, slowed down and the market resumed its apathetic jog. Secondary bonds followed stocks. The dollar was a bit easier in foreign exchange dealings. Although trading activity dwindled to a minimum, a number of the share favorites held their early gains.

Although leading brokerage houses continued to urge caution in the matter of over-commitments, sentiment was much more optimistic than in the early part of the week. The consensus apparently was that, while there might be further price readjustments and market irregularities, a latent demand for equities could be expected to prevent any sharp slump in quotations.

With the appearance of the awaited rally in the morning, many odd-lot traders, who had been watching patiently for a buying cue, re-entered with variegated orders for leading issues. Much of this small purchasing, it was said, was for cash. At the same time, the conservative contingent continued quite large with indications that it will still pursuing a "watchful waiting" policy.

While banking profits are not at all of the "boom" type just now, the financial district was considerably cheered by the Treasury's announcement that the bank situation throughout the country is nearly back to normal. With some 14,000 licensed institutions now doing business, and only 2,370 closed or operating on a restricted basis, New York bankers feel that conditions are now approaching the point where more attention probably will have to be paid to stockholders.

Banking interests were especially interested in the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission of the merger of the Rock Island system and its 11 subsidiary companies. The merger, intended as an ecomomy move, will consolidated some 8,358 miles of raidroad in 14 states.

GRAINS SPURT IN BIG BUYING

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—A beginning of a return to normal in grain dealings started today in the corn market.

Instead of the usual daily procedure of tumbling at once to the bottomnost prices allowed under emergency rules, corn today opened at but 1⅜ to 2⅞ decline, and on active dealings rose quickly 1½ cents from the initial minimum. Oats followed the leadership of corn. Wheat lagged at 5 cents setback from yesterday's finish, with sellers far too numerous to permit any immediate rally.

Bounding rapidly upward corn soon showed a gain of more than 5c a bushel from the opening level. Restored confidence on the part of corn buyers then spread to the wheat pit, and all deliveries of wheat jumped excitedly, with advances of about 3c from early bottom figures.

Before half an hour had elapsed a big buying stampede was in progress in all grains, and wheat was up about 8c a bushel from today's bottom level. Simultaneously, corn was up 7c.

It was not until corn had soared to the topmost limits permitted for a single day's fluctuations that the rise of values was halted. That stage was reached when corn touched 54⅜ cents for December contracts, with all deliveries of corn showing a net gain of four cents a bushel, compared with yesterday's final quotations. The maximum net gain for wheat at this stage was 2¾ cents.

Wheat tumbled back more than six cents when corn was arbitrarily barred from advances. Corn reacted about 1½ cents.

PRICE-FIXING OFFERS MANY PROBLEMS

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—The recent resignation of Prof. William F. Ogburn from the Consumers Advisory Board of NRA should emphasize a very important point. This point is that price fixing must be an essential part of any scheme of industrial control.

When the government undertakes to control production or to allow groups of producers to do so, it runs up against two problems.

One is the problem of preventing prices from rising so high that the quantity demanded will fail and consumers be injured. The other is the problem of maintaining workable relations among the prices of different commodities, and between prices and costs of production.

CHARGES CONSUMERS HURT

Prof. Ogburn's resignation is a recognition of these facts.

He charges that consumer interests are not being duly protected, and states that indexes of prices and purchasing power must be developed and the codes be carefully watched. Some of the codes provide for no reporting service which would make this possible.

You see, all freely determined prices are the result of demand and supply conditions. The demand, which depends upon the desires and purchasing power of consumers, is just as important as the supply. If you control only the supply, you fail to control at least half of the price-making conditions.

More than that, any fixed price, whether the fixing is done by the government or by business men, affects both demand and supply. If the price is to high, it is more than consumers are willing or able to pay, and sales fall off. Also it may give producers so large a profit that they will produce more than they can sell.

The administration of NRA seems to be fully alive to the difficulties and danger of government price-fixing. The leaders, including the "general" himself, have talked against it. The experience of the Federal Farm Board is still fresh in their minds.

But if we go ahead with the "experiment" of industrial control, prices must inevitably be fixed and controlled. They are an integral part of industrial control.

Obviously when we undertake to raise the general level of prices to some such average as that of 1926, we are headed for price-fixing. A "general level" of prices means nothing aside from the prices of the individual commodities which make up the average.

SOLUTION DIFFICULT

"Stabilizing" prices means fixing prices of individual commodities. "stabilizing the dollar" internally means nothing but price-fixing.

Fixing wages means price-fixing. Not only are wages the price of labor, but the prices of the products of labor have to be fixed to agree with wages, which is no easy matter. It does not work itself out automatically and quickly.

Unless prices are fixed, the high cost producers will be driven out. Not every business can survive unless prices are fixed high enough to cover the highest costs.

You can't prevent competition without fixing prices. But just now, with our codes, cartels and suspension of the anti-trust laws, we are seeking to eliminate competition.

Then, too, there is the problem of adjusting the "differentials" among prices between export and domestic markets, between different sections of the country, etc. NRA is bound to fix prices here.

And you hardly fix one price without another and another. The boosting and "pegging" of wheat is only a beginning.

Finally comes the consumer. On one hand the prices of different things must be adjusted so that each can "compete for the consumer's dollar." On the other, prices make up the cost of living. If the consumer can't buy cheaply enough, the goose is killed.

So I say we are in for more price-fixing, and Prof. Ogburn's criticisms should be weighed well.

Graim Trade Sentiment Changes, Selling Subsides

There was a decided change in sentiment noted in the grain trade today as a result of the action of the market. According to those who should be in a position to know, a vast number of orders in brokers' hands to sell out long grain and which could not be filled, were canceled overnight. It is estimated that probably 50 per cent of the selling orders in wheat were withdrawn. Almost without exception, the buying orders received so far have been in small amounts and one of the most active brokers in wheat says he doubts if heh ad an order up to noon for as large a quantity as 100,000 bushels.

The abrupt reversal which occurred in wheat after that grain together with rye had again opened at the maximum declines, found vivid reflection in the share market at midmorning. The dramatic upturn in wheat from its initial low levels, carrying some late options up nearly 8 cents, or to levels showing net advances of about 3 cents, stirred up plenty of short covering in stocks.

The scope of the break in wheat values from the mid-July high levels was perhaps not fully appreciated. due to the prevalence of utterly abnormal conditions in the pit. Yet wheat at the initial low prices today showed a cumulative decline of 38 cents a bushel from the July peak. The September option on July 17 sold at a high of $1.20⅛ and today touched a minimum of 82⅛. Considering the fact, however, that the low for September was 45¼ cents on January 3, it will be seen that the rise ran to about 75 cents a bushel, so that the current decline has cancelled only about 50 per cent of the prreciation which preceded it.

Bank clearings, showed further improvement in the week ended August 16, rising 8.9 per cent above the comparable week a year ago. .Dun & Bradstreet., Inc., reported today that bank clearings in all leading cities of of the United States totaled $4.-777,628,000 for the week against $4,109,469,000 in the comparable period of 1932. In New York City there was a 13 5 per cent increase on clearings of $3,160,-751,000 against $2,785,972,000 a year ago.

Utility shares displayed moderate rallying power, but the rebound in that group lacked the snap displayed in most other directions. Power and light shares eased from the best levels later, when stocks of local units failed to respond to news from Albany thatt he Senate Public Service Committee had turned down the public utility control measures proposed by Gov. Lehman. Omission of thed ividend on its common stock by the United Corporation, though it had been rather expected, had ad ampening effect on utility shares generally.

Wall Street persists in discussing the prospects for early establishment of a free gold market in the United States. In fact, some people, ordinarily considered quite well-posted, will be very much disappointed. it is said, if such a market is not permitted within a reasonably short time. Modification of the gold embargo to permit. exports of concentrates and amalgams by producing companies is regarded as a "straw in the wind." Moreover, it is argued that should those companies seek to bring home funds realized in foreign markets for their gold, the foreign currencies received would of necessity be converted into dollars, lending a mite of interrence to the "depreciation policy," whereas if such gold could be sold domestically that particular phase would be averted.

UNITED OMITS DIVIDEND

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(AP.)—Directors of the United Corporation, utility holding company sponsored by J. P. Morgan & Co., today omitted the dividend on the common stock due at this time. The company had been paying 10 cents a share quarterly.

The company's principal holdings consist of the common stocks of the United Gas Improvement Co., Commonwealth & Southern Corp., Columbia Gas & Electric

By ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

CHAPTER XXXI.

"Keep away, Mulrooney!" Cavanaugh said with a strange quiet in his voice. "You'll never put those things on me!"

Mulrooney with the handcuffs dangling and glistening stepped forward.

A square, white stone was flung throught the air—only it wasn't a stone—its was Lucky Cavanaugh's compact fist, heavy and swift. Its full velocity smashed with a sharp crack squarely upon the broadness of Mulrooney's chin. The whole weight of Cavanaugh's body was behind it. When it landed the shock ran through his arm clear to the shoulder.

For a moment the detective remained standing opposite him with a glassy expression in his eyes. Then his knees began to melt and he fell to the thick pile of the heavy carpet, pitching forward face downward. One of his legs was kicking spasmodically like a knocked-out pugilist trying to regain his feet.

The man on the carpet made no sound. The kicking leg quieted down. In such a condition it would be a matter of minutes rather of seconds, before consciousness came back.

"Tell me what you want to do now," she said in a muffled voice, devoid of fear.

LENA UNDERSTANDS

Cavanaugh took one deep breath. The same hand that had felled Mulrooney patted Leni consolingly on the back.

"Take care of him when he comes to. Say as little as possible. Tell him I went out the back way. And don't worry."

Leni gave an understanding nod.

"I'll wait and I won't worry," she said out of the depths of her courage.

She did not move from where she was standing until Cavanaugh had vanished into the hallway. Only when he had definitely become a fugitive did she bend over Mulrooney.

The detective was breathing jerkily as his lungs labored for air. She found a pillow, rolled him over and put it under his head.

Mulrooney lay as though in sleep. He was unconscious, knocked out, but he was in no pain and in no danger. Some instinct told Leni that he was all right because his breathing was improving.

There was an encouraging flutter of his eye lids. In a minute or two he would awaken. The longer he stayed unconscious, the more time remained for Cavanaugh to get away.

That was a terribly foolish thing for Lucky to do, thought Leni. It is all my fault. He cannot come near me without getting into trouble. I am mad about him and I know he is mad about me. We are both sinking in an ocean of trouble yet my heart sings as a lark above a meadow. I am either a very good woman or a very wicked woman. I do not know which . . .

Looking at Mulrooney's face which had been pale and was now beginning to darken, Leni wondered what Mrs. Mulrooney would think if she could see her husband stretched out in this fashion. Poor woman! Perhaps she lived in constant terror because of her husband's business.

The Mulrooneys, Leni decided, were not bad people. Even as much as she loved Lucky, she could not find it in her heart to think ill of the middle-aged man stretched out upon her expensive carpet. It was a hard life he lived and his salary, probably, was very small. Sometime I am going to send Mrs. Mulrooney a nice present, she thought, and something for the four children, too.

Then, suddenly, Mulrooney opened his eyes and knew where he was.

It took him a few seconds longer to remember what had happened. Without any assistance from Leni, he got to his feet. At the knees, however, he had a rubbery sensation.

FORGETS HANDCUFFS

"Where did he go?" were his first words, slightly blurred.

It occurred to Leni that she should delay him as long as possible.

"Sit down, please," she said eagerly. "There was an accident. Let me get you something—a drink of water!"

The handcuffs lay forgotten on the carpet.

Mulrooney stalked from the room, baited, dazed, furious Leni, shugging her shoulders, made no effort to stop him What was the good? Her instinct—Cavanaugh would have called it her hunch—told her Mulrooney was not going to have luck.

Mulrooney's head was still addled when he went into the hall and from there out of doors. His car was still standing at the curb. He looked up and down the street. No one was in sight except a colored nursemaid with two children.

The detective was not certain how long he had been unconscious. There had been sufficient time, no doubt, for Cavanaugh to have turned a corner and gone in either direction. Perhaps he had cut out at the back and disappeared into the next street.

Leni, standing in the doorway, waited for Mulrooney to return. It was curious, but she felt no regret at what was going to happen to her personally. She had done her best, but it had not been sufficient.

That, of course, would be the definite end to all of the motion picture business—the final fade-out. What did it matter? She had been through so much that life had lost its reality and was becoming a wavering, uncontrolled dream. Yet, somewhere, mysteriously, there was that lark note of happiness deeply hidden in her secret self.

MULROONEY RETURNS

Mulrooney came back to her with his dazed and troubled eyes. In a minor way, she couldn't help but feel sorry for him.

"You better let me fix you something, really," she said, standing aside to let him enter the house.

He walked straight into the living room without answering. He found his hat on a chair, and picked up his glistening handcuffs. Leni was behind him discreetly. At last he was brought to look at her.

"It's a shame," he said in an amazingly calm voice, "for your sake, I mean. Too bad you're in love with that bird."

"On the contrary, it's the nicest thing I can imagine," she replied.

"Nobody can put the lug on me like that and get away with it," Mulrooney told her, stowing the handcuffs away under his coat at the rear. "We'll get him within 24 hours and heaven help him then!"

There was no use arguing with the man now. Whatever she would ask him, would be more out of curiosity than anything else.

"About myself—am I under arrest? For complicity?"

"No—not yet anyway," said Mulrooney. "I'm going to get Cavanaugh first."

"I don't believe I'd do that," remarked Leni quietly.

He ignored her words. "Where's your telephone?"

"Why?"

"Why? Inside of two minutes I'll have every radio police car in the city on the look-out for your handsome friend. We'll get him, don't worry."

"I'm not worrying," said Leni smoothly. "But I think you are. None of this would have happened if you had listened to me—do you realize that?"

Mulrooney looked at her with sullen and heavy eyes.

"If I listen to any more of your advice I'll wind up pounding a beat," he said. Whose idea was it to bring Cavanaugh out here anyway?"

Leni's shoulders in their cloth of gold jacket shrugged with a small foreign air.

"As you please, Mr. Mulrooney. I think you are making a mistake though. As long as Lucky is at liberty, you can depend upon it, he'll do his best to catch the man you're after."

"Oh, he will, will he?"

"He said he would— and that's quite good enough for me. I have an idea, too, that he'll succeed. Of course, if you put him in jail, that ends it. Are you going to let it be known generally that he escaped from your hands? I should think it would be rather a humiliating confession for an officer of your reputation to make—"

Leni found it astonishing to herself that she was able under these circumstances to banter Mulrooney. Perhaps it was because she had relaxed and was no longer trying to accomplish anything in particular.

"Where is that telephone?"

Leni conducted him to it. There was not the faintest use in combating his angry obstinacy.

She would not even stay to listen to Mulrooney's conversation with headquarters. It is out of my hands, she thought. There is nothing but to meet the result decently. I would like to have my own way about all this—but there is no longer any point in arguing with an angry policeman.

She yawned a little because, in truth, she was somewhat short of sleep. I'll go upstairs, she decided, and lie down. Mulrooney can leave whenever he pleases. I've been rowing the boat upstream all these years. Now I'm going to put down the oars and let it drift.

Synopsis

At the premiere of her latest picture, Leni Luneska, beautiful star, is stunned by the appearance of her criminal husband, Kari Kruger. Lucky Cavanaugh, gambler, who has just seen Leni for the first time, tries to make Kruger leave. Later Cavanaugh goes to see Kruger, waiting in a small office. Kruger rushes away from Cavanaugh and surprises burglars in the next office. One of them shoot him to death. Detective Mulrooney, well acquainted with Cavanaugh, gives him four days to find the killer or be arrested himself. Lucky takes Leni home. Lucky is warned that the killer is after him to prevent him from "squealing." Kruger's murderer lies in wait to kill Lucky. Lucky, arriving home, finds a jealous woman, named Annette, waiting for him. Steve Poletzki, the killer, aims at Lucky through a window and kills Annette by mistake. Next morning, Leni is swamped with congratulatory messages on the premiere. Her success is assured, but more important to her than that is Cavanaugh's love for her. Herman Gerstenfield, noted director, calls. He tries to persuade Leni to sign a new contract. Gerstenfield tells Leni that he is her friend. Leni reads about Cavanaugh's arrest. Mulrooney visits Leni. He consents to bring Cavanaugh to see her. Cavanaugh and Mulrooney become engaged in a heated argument.

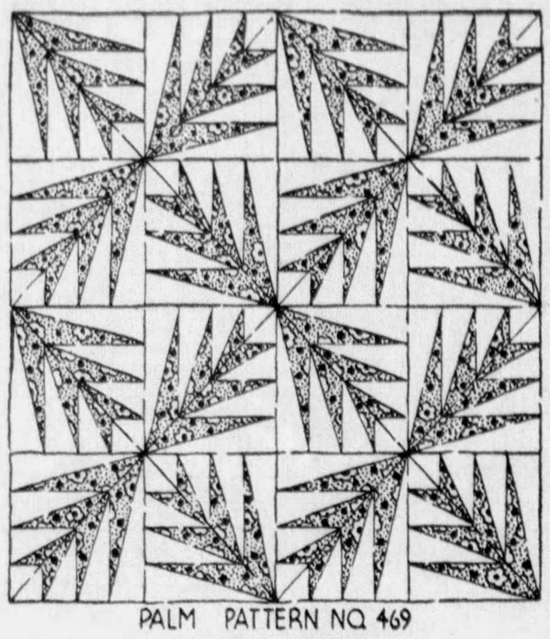
PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN



PALM PATTERN NO. 469

By LAURA WHEELER

The Palm is the symbol of victory and has been a decorative emblem ever since man commenced applying ornament. The unknown quiltmaker of generations ago who conceived this pattern indeed deserves the palm as a designation of a worth-while achievement. Simple to make and especially lovely in a green print on white, this quilt is the type that any quiltmaker can be proud to hand down as an heirloom.

Pattern No. 469 comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

JUNIOR PATROL PLEDGE

I promise to help children less fortunate than I am,
I promise to do my best to make my parents proud of me.
I promise to watch carefully when crossing streets and to aid other children in keeping out of danger.

Date of Birth ..... Address .....
School .....

Address this pledge to the JUNIOR PATROL Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. Upon its receipt you will be registered as a member of the JUNIOR PATROL and will be forwarded a membership card and an official emblem.

The Junior Patrol Mail Box

It doesn't seem possible, does it, that the whole long summer is almost over, and that school will start the first week or so in September for most of the Junior Patrol members in the Pittsburgh district.

But it's true, all right, and we hope every single member of the Junior Patrol will go back to school ready to do his and her lessons well—and ready, too, to start the most successful time ever in Junior Patrol history.

Remember what Spike's brother Bill told him—school is the best thing for a fellow and an education is very important.

Now here's an idea, fellows. This year, when you go back to school, how about doing something more than just the lessons your teacher gives you? For instance, fellows, you could build a model airplane or boat, and use your arithmetic to figure out the exact size of the different parts. And the girls can plan to redecorate a house—measure all the rooms for curtains and for rugs on the floor. Boy, it's lots of fun when you make your lessons work for you that way—when you put them to some real use, instead of just reading them all in the book.

Or you can suggest to your teacher, even if you are only in the first or second grade that your room have a party, and play games and do group dances for your mothers and fathers to see. And you can write the invitations and make the decorations all yourselves.

Not all the Junior Patrol members are big enough yet to use the dictionary—that big book full of thousands of words—but those that are should use it all the time. The best way to do is to read a book pretty often. Then, whenever you see a word that you don't know exactly what it means—look it up in the dictionary and find out—and if the dictionary doesn't explain as clearly as you would like to have it, ask your father or mother, or write to Commander-in-Chief Quin Hall. We'll find out for you here at headquarters.

And please don't forget, everybody—we want pictures and we want cartoons to publish here in the Mail Box. But be sure you draw your cartoons with black ink on white cardboard. Draw them in pencil first, and then trace over them with an ink, using either a brush or a pen. You can get white ink, too, to paint over the black if you make a mistake and want to change the black ink.

NEWS! NEWS! NEWS! NEWS!

Maejean Lencher, of 5522 Wilkins avenue, Pittsburgh, writes that she is the captain of a new patrol—she gets an armband.

Jean Archer and her sister, of 322 Breading avenue, Ben Avon, have joined, but they say there is no patrol in their neighborhood. How about starting one, Jean?

Lillian Kish, of Box 195, Sturgeon, Pa., has been away and wants to know the latest news about the Junior Patrol. There's too much of it, Lillian, to tell again, but we have been having some wonderful parties and hikes, and we had a picnic at West View Park. How about telling us what the interesting things were you saw and did on your vacation?

Anita Swartz, of Box 132, Dravosburg, gets an armband for being the Captain of a new patrol. It has 10 members.

Benny Benach, of 315 St. Clair street, Clairton, sends five more pledges and writes that he and his friends have heard so many good things about the Junior Patrol that it must be the kind of club they want to stick to.

QUITE A TIME

(From the Lamar, Mo Democrat.)

A 16-year-old girl, dressed in a suit of shorts, walked across the north side of the square early Saturday afternoon. Gosh! Do yeh see that there gal runnin' across the street with no clothes on? one r. n. (rubber neck) asked of another. John Pyle and Albert Reilly were hunkered down on the north side of the square. They were soon standing up gazing in silent and wrapt attention. Deputy Treasurer Bill Heydenberk and Circuit Clerk Lee Vanpelt were coming across to the courthouse. Suddenly Lee ceased talking and Bill didn't notice.

Finally when they'd got clear across to the courthouse steps, and the girl in shorts had moved out of sight, Bill asked, Lee was you a sayin' something to me? If I was, quoth Lee, I plumb forgot what I said. The girl in shorts was not a native. She was a tourist.

Fans, Don't Get Discouraged

We realize that the public has been following our race tips and has wound up in the garbage reduction plant.

However, we wish to state that all our dope was the purest that could be smuggled. And we have plenty of reasons to evade the subject:

Dunked Toast: Would have won in another mile. Is the greatest long distance hoss in the world. The proof is that he is in Siberia now.

Twice X: Got a bad ride. So did the public.

Dust Inhaler: His jockey was nervous. Can't stand other jockeys looking over his shoulder.

Baggy Duke: He beat the gun, got off in front, was leading at the halfway post by fifty lengths and finished all alone. He started all alone too.

Tweedles: All the intelligent investments were on this born biter. All he needs is a rainy day, a muddy track and watch him go. Maybe, a little hail and sleet would help too. He's at his best with a snow plow in front of him.

Uppsa Daisy: Had a sponge up his nose. He's had so many sponges up his nose he has learned to dive for them in twenty feet of tropical water.

Meat Puzzle: His owner told the jockey to take it easy. His trainer told the jockey to go out and win. His jockey bet on another hoss in the race. The next time they talk it over they should give the hoss a dictaphone.

Nuttsy Bollivar: Is a cribber. We didn't know it. He ate so many splinters that he looked like a buzz saw going down the track.

Bopper Dell: The only thing he ever run down in front was his heels and they're in back. We will refund all debts on this trail blazer. He's bait the next time Africa speaks. When they bring 'em back alive he will stay there.

That's a sad list to present to the people who took the Bug's so-say on the turf. But dip down into the sugar bowl and get ready for our next roll of honor. Anybody who wants radio fame and a good reducing diet should follow us. We will put you back on the air.

Shall Harriman Bank Failure Be 'Arbitrated' or N. Y. Clearing House Keep Its Pledges?

IT IS rumored that the majority of the member banks of the New York Clearing House Association are in favor of standing up to the implied obligation of the Clearing House Association to support its member banks.

The opposition is centered in a small minority of the association's membership. From the variance of attitude within the association has arisen the proposal of an arbitration to iron out "the conflict."

But at the very threshold there rises up the question—ARBITRATE WHAT?

THERE IS the typical advertisement which was inserted by the Clearing House Association in the public prints.

The public was therein told of the "weekly reports" required of Clearing House members and the "periodical examinations" made by the association; of the intimate knowledge possessed by the association of the affairs of the New York banks; and how membership in the association affords a protection which is something beyond and in addition to the safeguards provided by federal and state supervision.

The people have been taught to believe that they may draw deep full draughts of confidence from these assurances; that here is a protection they may regard not only as a fact, but they may sense it, feel it, accept it as a great reality—and the precise safeguards from which this protection springs, have been explained to them.

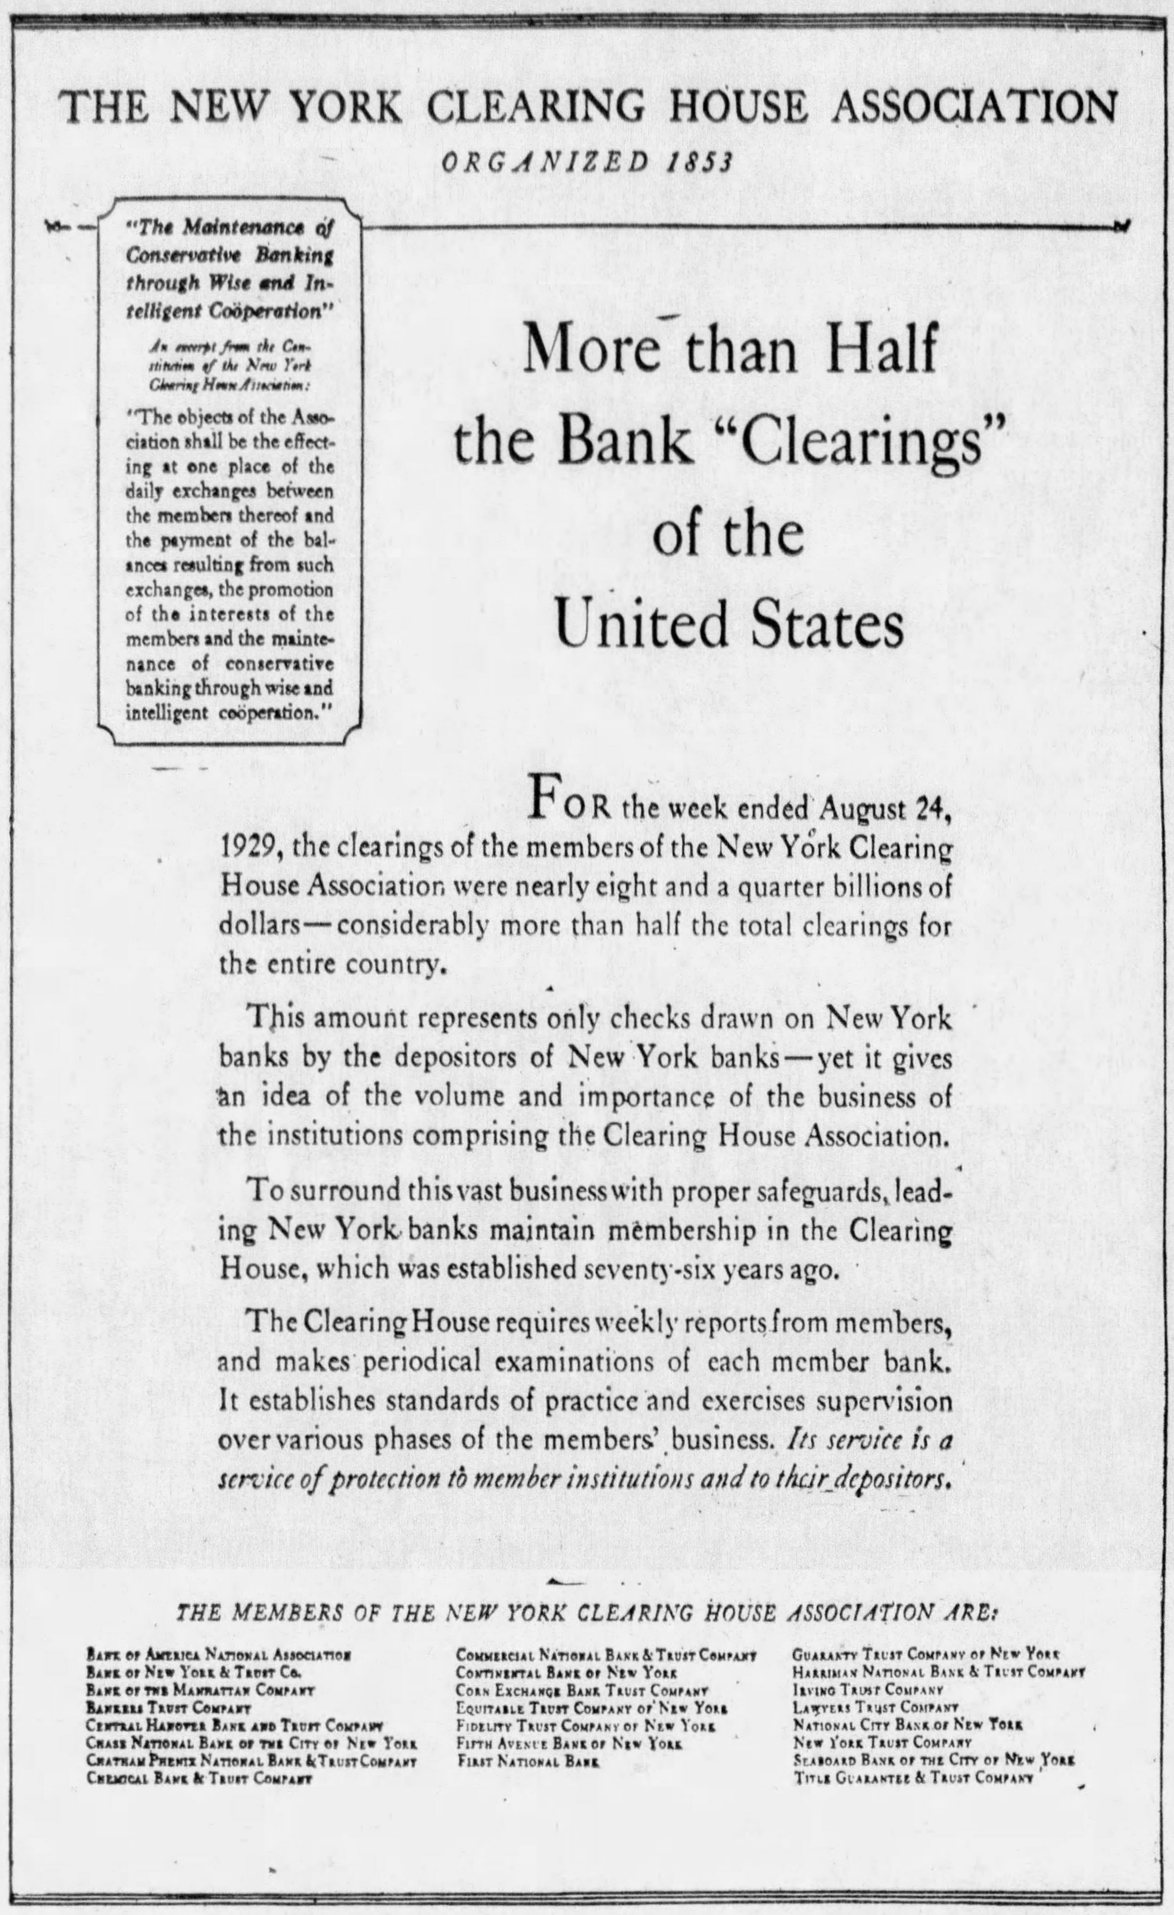
IS THERE any subject matter here for arbitration? Perhaps the arbitrators have been appointed to see if they can discover any.

These arbitrators are three in number—one appointed by the banks, who will presumably speak for the recalcitrant minority of the Clearing House Association, the other appointed by the Comptroller of the Currency, and a third selected by the two first named.

In the agreement of arbitration it is not denied apparently that the Clearing House Committee intervened in the affairs of the Harriman Bank on July 12, 1932, and agreed to aid the latter in any amount which might be necessary to put it in liquid and solid condition.

Nor is it denied that the Clearing House Committee demanded that Joseph W. Harriman should resign as president of the Harriman Bank and that Henry E. Cooper, representing the Clearing House, should be elected in his place and stead.

Nor that the Clearing House Committee insisted upon an amendment of the by-laws of the Harriman Bank, giving the new president power to hire and discharge any officer or employe for any reason whatever.



Photographic reproduction of an advertisement which was published September 3, 1929, by the New York Clearing House Association to protect depositors. The Harriman National Bank and Trust Company was a member of the association at the time this advertisement appeared, and continued to be a member until the bank's failure.

NOR IS it denied that the association's representative, as president of the Harriman Bank, relying upon the pledge of the association when it took charge of the Harriman Bank, assured inquiring depositors that their deposits in the bank were safe.

Nor is it denied that the chairman of the Clearing House Committee advised the Comptroller of the Currency that he need have no fear that the depositors would not be paid in full, nor that the Comptroller of the Currency, believing the spokesmen of the Clearing House, refrained from closing the bank.

What is there in all this to arbitrate?

Now we learn from the press that the Clearing House Association denies that its committee had any power or authority to obligate the member banks of the Clearing House, or any of them, and that neither the boards of directors nor the executives of banks had any knowledge of an attempt to obligate them until after the Harriman Bank closed, and that any such obligation on the part of the banks, if entered into, was void for defect of law.

WELL, HERE we have it—repudiation—self-repudiation—in the grand manner! It could hardly be more sweeping!

Not only is it a repudiation of the private representations of the Clearing House made by its committee, chairman and counsel to the United States Government, in the person of the Comptroller of the Currency, but it is a repudiation of the public representations contained in conspicuous and striking advertisements inserted by the association in the daily press.

It is a repudiation of the association's constitution which, in article VI, section III, provides that the association shall act through a president, a secretary, a Clearing House Committee and four secondary committees, called respectively a conference committee, committee on admissions, a nominating committee and an arbitration committee.

THE important and broadly representative committee is the Clearing House Committee which the constitution declares "shall have charge of the business affairs of the clearing house." It has the power "to prescribe rules and regulations to be observed by the clearing house with respect to ALL MATTERS NOT PROVIDED FOR IN THE CONSTITUTION" and to prescribe "rules and regulations deemed by it advisable for the . . . MAINTENANCE OF CONSERVATIVE BANKING." It can act through its duly constituted sub-committees as in the case of the Harriman Bank.

Even the member banks—those forming the minority which has involved the Clearing House Association in this unlovely mess—are acting in repudiation of their own boards of directors, which were obliged, as a condition of membership, to formally adopt the constitution of the Clearing House Association with its basic authorization to the association's officers and committees to bind the member banks by their action.

Repudiation as a program could hardly be more callous or more thorough or more injurious to the banking business in New York and throughout the country.

Illegal Roadside Signs

A Report from the State Department of Highways Shows a Gratifying Improvement.

Signs urging citizens to vote for a certain candidate for alderman in the First Ward were painted on downtown streets yesterday—but without the consent of the police, who, on learning of the offense, sought to arrest the offenders.

A few political posters have been put up on trees in the rural districts of the county; but on the whole the situation is much better than in other campaigns. Public sentiment, frowning on the defacing of property with advertising placards, is putting an end to it.

Statistical proof that the nuisance is being abated can be found in a report just issued by the State Department of Highways. Employes of the department were ordered on July 7 to tear down all illegal roadside signs. The campaign ended on August 3, and Secretary Sam Lewis announces that a total of 19,219 posters of all sizes, shapes and materials were removed. The largest number removed in any one county was 1,385 in Butler County.

The fact that the state highway men found 19,219 illegal roadside signs shows, of course, that the situation is still pretty bad. But it also shows a gratifying improvement, for in a similar campaign covering the same period of time last year they found and removed 28,446.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Lovers—And Others

Golf and fishing are the best tonics for a man's imagination, but nothing so stimulates a woman's imagination as a little applesauce from an attractive man, under a summer moon.

* * *

When a man joins the celibates, says Reno Ruth, and vows that he'll never marry, he's merely trying to cheat some little woman out of her alimony.

One way to discover whether or not you are approaching middle-age is to put on roller skates and see if it's your dignity that gets hurt worst when you tumble down.

A man never thinks much about marriage until he finds himself buying a bassinet—or if he thinks about it at all, it is merely academically, as something that may happen to the other fellow.

On the screen, Englishmen, Latins and Swedes may make the most effective lovers. But only an American gentleman can divorce his wife as tenderly and gracefully as he courted her.

The honeymoon is over when they can scrap comfortably about almost anything, without ending in a Big Scene—and then go right on as though nothing had happened.

Marriage is never much of a gamble to a woman; she does the best that she can. It is only men who leave it all to Lady Luck.

Once Overs

—By J. J. Mundy—

Isn't impulsiveness largely responsible for your lack of success?

You must be moving and so you keep your hands or your body in action, but they are not mind-directed and therefore there is only nervous action.

But action of a physical kind you must have and so your forces are misdirected and ineffectual.

But technique or no technique you get mechanical action of your body, and tumble into things and make a botch of about everything.

But you have little use for the rules given you by anyone who may have tried to instruct you about anything.

You have a certain way about you and if people don't like it, you can't help it.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—I tagged along to a radio broadcasting station with Irvin Cobb recently. An old hand on the lecture platform, chautauqua and at the banquet boards, he was as casual about his appearance before the microphone as a gentleman dropping in at the corner for a cigar.

While I had nothing to do with the program, a sudden realization I was within earshot of millions of homes gave me a jittery tingle. I had a feeling that any moment I would disrupt things with a sudden fit of sneezing or let go an ankle-deep hiccough. After awhile one becomes adjusted.

Then the tip-toe air, the atmosphere of nodding and whispering begins to have curious effect. The restraint of the musicians, longing to make little toots and tinkles that precede melody, balloons and tension. One tries to occupy thoughts by looking around, but the silence nags.

In most people there resides a conscienceless little devil beckoning us to hurl an egg into an electric fan or toss a banana peel under the heel of a savant. A vague undergraduate urge to outrage proprieties! I managed to stifle such nonsense, but departed in a dew of restraint.

It's quickening to watch the grave announcers who express the benignity of an arch-bishop at evensong until at sudden signals they detach themselves, like Whiteman's eerie eidolons, from the shadows, hop to the microphone in jaunty bravado to rattle off their plugs. No jump from gravity to gaiety is so nimble.

In appearance and likely in experience Ben Ali Haggin the painter is one of New York's most accomplished worldlings. Yet there was a time in his early 20's in London he did not feel much the sophisticate. At an art ball, one lonely evening, he met a beautiful lady of the theater. From that moment until the disillusionment he was her willing slave. She would accept nothing, however, but flowers. Each morning his phone at the Savoy would ring and a brisk voice would say: "This is Darrow, the florist," and would enumerate his offerings for the day. Haggin would order extravagantly, mostly orchids. After six weeks he pressed her to elope to Lake Como. Finally she confessed she was married. Futher interrogation developed her husband was Darrow, the florist. And Haggin caught the Olympic home next morning.

A. L. Erlanger and Flo Ziegfeld are gone, and a story everyone along the Rialto knew, save Erlanger, may be told. Erlanger was Ziegfeld's chief backer in the production of the Follies. He made but one request during the years he angeled this expensive show—he was personally to rehearse it the night before the premiere. He always made changes which were gravely noted. But never incorporated after this single performance. It was merely a concession to his investment. Everybody knew Erlanger would not attend again.
